STANDARD MARINE OIL ENGINES.
AS RELIABLE AS STEAM AND FREQUENTLY MORE CONVENIENT.
Purchasers of Marine Oil Engines must frequently be sorely perplexed at the great variety of engines offered to them, and very extravagant points of superiority claimed for many of these engines. Intending purchasers should therefore make all possible investigation before purchasing an Engine, because, where life and property are at stake, as at sea, it is very obvious that only a high-grade Engine should be considered. There is no sense or reason in buying an Engine just because it is low-priced; in fact, the engine may not even be worth the amount paid for it, however cheaply it has been bought. There is unqualified satisfaction in owning a boat fitted with the "STANDARD;" also, there is never any difficulty in selling a boat fitted with a "STANDARD" Engine. It is not possible to find a better engine than the "STANDARD." If it were possible, the "Standard" Company would build it.
"STANDARD" ENGINES can also be supplied for STATIONARY, PORTABLE, and HOISTING purposes. Australasian Depot for "Standard" Engines, WAUGH and JOSEPHSON, Goulburn-street, Sydney.

STERLING ENGINES are made in THREE DISTINCT TYPES.
HEAVY DUTY, speed 400-450 r.p.m.
MEDIUM DUTY, speed 600 r.p.m.
SPEED, speed 900-1800 r.p.m.
IN SIZES FROM 8 TO 180 H.P.
NEARLY EVERY SUCCESSFUL BOAT IN 1912 WAS POWERED WITH A STERLING.

THE HEIR TO THE THRONE.

BY ARTHUR W. MARCHMONT.

[ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.]

"Nothing would be done in this country without my knowledge," he declared arrogantly.

"But assuming that something was done and the Countess has fallen into their hands, can we get her out of them?"

"Absolutely impossible," he declared. "She would be taken at once to Vienna."

"You mean that it was for that object you were intriguing to betray her?"

"It was for that object I was acting in the interests of my country," he corrected.

"Put it how you please. All that we can do therefore is to find out whether she is in Volassa's hands. If so, where would she be?"

"He is a really dangerous man, Sir Ian; and if she is with him he will hold her at any cost, even at the hazard of his life. I have told you how vital it is to his hope of success that she should marry him."

"Is he in this country?"

"Yes. He was here at the time of the Southampton attempt. He went away when that failed, and returned a few days ago."

"Just when I was sent on that wild-goose chase to Alton, eh?"

"He was to have come then, but was delayed."

"And that's why this attempt was delayed, too? Well, do you know where this house is to which the Countess was taken last night?"

He was some time before replying, and appeared to be trying to think where it would be; but his hesitation proved to be due to a very different cause. "I am afraid I do," he said, at length.

"Why afraid?"

"I fear it is the house chosen by the Austrian agents."

"Why didn't you tell me long ago that you knew it?" I cried, jumping up instantly. "We'll go there at once;" and I 'phoned for my car, and to Valtoun to say I would pick him up on the way.

"If she is there, I'll get her out of it," I declared; "let the cost be what it may. How many men will be there?"

"I do not know; but you will not be able to help her," he said.

"We'll see about that when the time comes; and at any rate I'll be prepared," I replied, as I put a revolver in my pocket. I was intensely excited at the prospect of doing something for Evala, and in no mood to be squeamish as to means or heedful of personal consequences.

What was likely to happen I did not attempt to forecast; but if I found she was still in the house to which we were going, I would make a desperate effort to rescue her.

Valtoun was with me heart and soul in the matter; and when I had told him what I had heard from Drago he positively gloated over the prospect of an adventure.

Drago rode by Branch to point out the way and Valtoun and I sat together, and although we travelled fast, we were both impatient to reach our destination.

"What we're going to do is altogether illegal, of course, Bob, but then these beggars have put themselves in the wrong by what they did yesterday, and they won't care to make any trouble."

"They're infernal scoundrels, nothing less, to carry off two girls in that way, and treat them as they did. They deserve a lesson. We saw for ourselves this morning what Miss Maltravers had had to endure," he cried.

Then I understood that his indignation was not wholly on my account. I was more than glad to see it. He was in just the mood for such a task as we had in hand, and as the car slowed down and we came to the end of our journey, his excitement was to the full as keen as mine.

"This is the place," announced Drago, as we came to a standstill at the gates of a large square old-fashioned brick house, which was partly visible through the belt of trees.

I told Branch to run the car right up to the door, but the gates were padlocked; and then Drago drew me aside to discuss the question of his action. He was altogether unwilling to be seen in the matter and refused point-blank to go into the house with us.

"I will wait here; that I promise most faithfully; but if you return with the Countess I shall disappear. You know how things are with me. If it were known that I had brought you here it might cost me my life."

"And if I return without her?"

"I will do anything you ask."

I had no option but to agree. I couldn't force the man to go with us; and if he had it was quite doubtful whether he would have been for or against me. So Valtoun and I went off alone.

"What are you going to do at the house, Ian?" he asked as we hurried along the drive.

"Get in first and trust to luck afterwards. We'll try the conventional means to start with; but get inside I will, by hook or crook."

"I'm with you," he answered. "I'd love to have the chance of a scrap with one of the beggars in last night's business. But the house looks empty," he exclaimed, as we had a full view of it.

"We'll soon see"; and I ran up the steps and pulled the bell vigorously.

There was no response; and I rang again, twice.

"We shall have to break in, Bob," I said, and we went round the house to find the easiest means. A small window at the back afforded this. I broke one of the panes, forced back the catch, and we climbed through.

We made a thorough search of the house, which was furnished; but although the kitchen and bedrooms showed signs that someone had used them recently, there was not a vestige of a sign to suggest that Evala had ever been there.

I was bitterly chagrined and indeed alarmed. If Drago was right, she had fallen into the hands of the Austrian agents and had been taken away as soon as Muriel had been set at liberty.

In all probability she had been rushed out of the country, in which case it was hopeless to think of finding her.

CHAPTER XIX.

DRAGO TO THE RESCUE.

"I'm afraid it's checkmate, and that you'll have to give it up, Ian," said Valtoun, as we hurried back to the car.

"I shall never do that. Evala may not have been brought to this house at all," I answered.

"This drive has had cars over it quite recently. Those tyre tracks are fresh"; and he pointed them out. "Been pretty busy, too, I should think. Do you trust that beggar who brought us here? I don't."

"That's the devil of it. There's nobody else one can trust in this. But there's the fact it's to his interest to keep straight."

"All the same, I shan't be a bit surprised to find he's bolted."

"I'm ceasing to be surprised at anything." "What did I say?" he exclaimed, when we saw that Branch was alone in the car.

But Valtoun was wrong. Drago had concealed himself pending the result of our visit to the house, and came up a moment or two later.

"What are you going to do, Ian?"

"There's only one thing. Go to The Chase and try to get the truth out of von Bergstein."

Valtoun at Valtoun, for reasons which I [illegible]

"[illegible] be able to get in," he said.

"You can leave that to me," declared Drago confidently. "And I will find the way to make him speak too," he added with an oath, which showed that his anger was as hot as ever.

"Can you make him admit what has happened to the Countess?" I asked.

"You leave that to me," he repeated; and with that we started.

"What do you make of it all, Ian?" asked Valtoun presently.

"She has obviously been forced, unless my fear is well grounded that they've rushed her across the Channel."

"I don't believe it. It's no easy matter," you know."

"It's been done before now, and we may bet that they would have everything carefully arranged beforehand."

"That's all right, but don't forget the kind of girl she is. Just the sort to make trouble. If this chap can force that old scoundrel to own up, you'll find we shall get a very different story. Why is he so hot?"

"Because old von Bergstein has done him out of his share of the plunder."

"They're a nice crew round the Prince."

"And I don't suppose he's much better than the rest."

"And to think that two girls like the Countess and Miss Maltravers should be in the clutches of such a gang."

"My blood boils when I think of it," I cried angrily. "What an idiot I was to let them fool me in the way they did."

"There's another way of looking at that. They pulled the wool over your eyes; but you got what you wanted all the same. You cleared up that old lie about your having killed Olaf."

"Yes, and they whisked Evala away just when the truth was known."

"But you couldn't have stopped them, even if you'd never got hold of the Count. They used that yarn about your dying to get her away, but they'd have made up another. These two girls were in the power of von Bergstein and he could do the trick whenever he chose. And what's more, this fellow here is only helping you to get her back in order that he may have a chance of selling the pass on his own account."

"I'll look after that."

"How?"

"I don't know yet," I had to admit. "One thing at a time. I have to find where she is first: and I'll never stop till I do. And if I succeed I'll stick at nothing to get her away."

I was absolutely in earnest. The rage which had possessed me when I had realised how completely I had been fooled had passed and given place to a deliberate resolve to clear myself in the eyes of the woman I loved. For years she had been poisoned against me by the lies of those who had used me for their own ends; and as a crowning infamy, they had now lured her from The Chase by means of a fresh act of treachery consummated in my name.

If it cost me my life, I would let her know the truth; and what was to follow afterwards was for Evala herself to decide. I could not hope to win her for my wife and no such thought was now in my mind. I loved her. That was enough for me, and if she would let me help in the stormy future which lay ahead of her, it would be more than a sufficient reward.

I could not yet form any definite plan even to find her; except that, if von Bergstein was the traitor, I would devise some means of wringing the truth out of him, and this resolve strengthened with every mile of the run to The Chase.

It was dusk when Drago stopped the car under the shadow of some trees in a lane.

"We can get into the grounds here," he said. "We got out, and he led us to a side gate, of which he had a key. "It is the way I use," he explained. "And with a little care we can reach the house without being seen."

He was evidently quite familiar with the place and walked just ahead of Valtoun and me, picking his way carefully through the belt of trees and among the big shrubs until we came to a path which ran between two high hedges right up to the house.

"The servants use this path," he stopped to tell us. "It leads to the door by which they get in; but a little to the right, there is a window opening to the ground. Shall I go first and see if I can open it. It will be best not to be seen, if possible."

I told him to go.

"Will he come back?" asked Valtoun suggestively. "I don't know, and don't care. Now that I'm in the grounds I mean to see von Bergstein."

"He may warn him."

"I don't think so; but if he does, it won't affect me."

(To be continued.)

OUR TROUT STREAMS.

1.—THE SNOWY RIVER.

The Snowy River has for years been looked upon as the premier trout stream in Australia, both for the size and beauty of its rainbow and brown trout, its marvellously clear water, and the magnificent scenery through which it flows; and justly so, for it would be difficult (if possible) to find any river in this continent to compare with it. It is only a few years ago that one of Sydney's cleverest and most experienced anglers progressed so far up the Snowy River that he actually found himself ahead of the trout, which was proved by the fact that the little mountain minnows, a favourite food of the trout, held all the best positions in the stream, and, to use the angler's own words, were "hanging in the tail of the rapids, where the largest trout would naturally lie." Now the trout have reached the very source of the Snowy, miles above the place referred to above, far up into the inaccessible gorges, whence the angler will never succeed in taking them, and this, of course, is good for the lower reaches, as a large percentage of the fish will come down stream to replenish the less rugged reaches below.

A resident on the Snowy, and a very keen and clever angler, writing on the subject of maintaining the reputation of this beautiful trout stream, says that a great deal of loss through the destruction of gravid fish is due to the fact that our present close season does not commence early enough; considerable improvement would soon be noticeable were the month of April added to the present closure, making the open season for trout fishing November to March inclusive. This is confirmed by the fact that in April the trout commence to leave their accustomed feeding grounds and start working up-stream. Close observation has shown that the fish have practically recovered their condition after spawning by the beginning of November. During the 1912-13 season frequent storms had the effect of keeping the Snowy River considerably above summer level, the result of which would be decidedly in favour of the fish, as the Snowy is a stream that cannot be comfortably fished with much prospect of success when swollen with flood water, which, like the snow water which comes down nearly every evening in November and December, puts the trout off the feed, or at all events restrains their anxiety for insect diet.

The establishment of nurseries on the Snowy or local stripping and hatching of ova are not necessary, but anglers are concerned at the gradual diminution in size of the fish, which has led to considerable discussion locally as to its probable cause and possible remedy. The cause is probably the gradual depletion of the natural food supply, which is now insufficient (in many parts of the stream) to provide enough nourishment for the fish, and the fact that a great deal of the water is very easy to fish, the trout consequently having little chance of growing to considerable size. There are in places long, wide, deep reaches, in which good fish can still be caught—Spencer's and Piper's Creeks, tributaries of the Snowy, for instance, where practically the only good fish landed from the Snowy waters last season were caught. There are two apparent reasons for this, viz., the inaccessibility and difficulty in fishing such places, and the fact that only in similar surroundings do the crayfish, water insects, and frogs in the water, and grasshoppers on the bank, thrive. The remedy would be the complete closure of the Snowy River against fishing for one or two years, which would give the fish (of which there are enough) time to grow to a fair size, and it would then be some time before the streams were fished out again. Cormorants play a very prominent part in reducing the number of our trout, and a bonus for the destruction of these birds, to be met by a rod tax, would go a long way towards checking this evil. If impracticable or impolitic to close the river altogether, it might be thrown open for a couple of months in each year, say December and January, or January and February, for two or three years. There are a great many trout in small shallow streams, such as the Gungarlin and Moonbah, too many in fact for all to get a decent living. When caught they are thin and weak, and very little use for food, while they provide little or no sport. It is easily possible to catch a hundred or more of these fish in a day, with probably not one of legal size amongst them, and local sportsmen consider these streams not worth a visit. The closure of the small creeks might be advantageous, as it would cause no inconvenience to anglers. Closing them would simply mean the survival of the fittest, and the size of the fish would improve as they fattened on their weaker brethren.

PRESIDENT WILSON AT CHURCH.

President Woodrow Wilson has astounded Washington society by the choice of his church. Instead of linking himself, as was anticipated, with one of the fashionable Presbyterian churches in the capital city, he has taken a family pew in a humble and obscure little church called "Central Presbyterian Church," in an out-of-the-way neighbourhood in the north-west quarter. His pastor, Rev. James H. Taylor, has heretofore been little known to the public. On his first Sunday in Washington President Wilson was expected to worship at New York-avenue Church, and the building was crowded and the streets thronged with a curious crowd. But the President did not "show up."

YOUR INCREASING GIRTH.

Every fat woman remembers the time when her friends first called her attention to her increasing girth—the time when she first looked in the glass and discovered that what she had taken for a dimple was really another chin; and thousands of women remember with feelings of gratitude the day their attention was first called to "Formettes," the unfailing remedy for Fatness, which enabled them to get rid of their superfluous fat for all time.

"Formettes" are pleasant little herbal tablets, one of which, taken before each meal, will reduce you much or little without exercising or dieting, or causing a wrinkle. You'll look and feel years younger, and palpitation, shortness of breath, indigestion, dyspepsia, and every other corpulency complaint will disappear along with the fat, never to return again. "Formettes" are sold by all chemists and drapers at 3/3 per carton. Agents: Anthony Hordern and Sons, Washington Soul, Pattinson Bros., chemists. Wholesale, Elliott Bros., or direct from S. H. CURRENT LITERATURE.

MICHELANGELO.

Many biographies of Michelangelo have been written, but in few of them has he been allowed to be his own spokesman, and we have been the losers thereby. As Mr. Robert W. Carden observes in "Michelangelo—a record of his Life, as told in his own letters and papers":—"It is, perhaps, because Michelangelo holds so unique a position in art that the personal side of his character has been almost overlooked." Certainly Mr. Carden is right in thinking that these letters throw an interesting light on the character of their writer. They show him as essentially human, with all the little weaknesses and idiosyncrasies to which flesh is heir. In the case of every great exponent of art, there is a tendency to forget his more earthly relationships. We somehow think of Michelangelo, the mighty painter and sculptor, dwelling in empyrean realms, to which the ordinary mortal has no access; in point of fact, from these letters we see that he was like everyone else. We hear of the labour and disappointment that went to the making of some immortal work; we see him in his moments of irritation or bitterness, we learn of his differences with esthetic but exacting patrons, and of his perpetual struggle to satisfy the wants of a family, who regarded his genius principally as a source of revenue to themselves. In fact these letters are a remarkable series, which remind us that Michelangelo was not always a master, but for much of his life a busy and harassed professional, who was often hard put to it to carry out his multifarious undertakings.

The letters fall into two classes; those which relate to his artistic activities, and those which relate to the more intimate concerns of his family. His own ambitions were small; he wished for nothing better than a pittance and leisure to realise his dreams in marble or on canvas. The love of woman never entered his life; he lived for art alone, and his children were those she bore him. But there was his family, for whose sake he embarked upon endless labours. His father and brothers seem not to have appreciated his efforts; they demanded his assistance as a right, and when it was not on a sufficiently lavish scale they became indignant. In a letter dated from Florence in 1516, Michelangelo protests vehemently at his father's conduct in complaining that he had driven him from the house—a charge utterly without foundation. Other letters protest against the everlasting drain upon his resources. The family seems to have adopted the old scheme of "borrowing" large sums of money to set them up in business, and additional sums to keep the business going. Michelangelo always rose to the occasion; though already with more work on his hands than he could manage, he would take another contract for carving a tomb or painting a fresco, and the money would be forthcoming. Sometimes the worm would turn. "I perceive," he writes after one such appeal, "that it is quite useless to assist them," but in the end filial devotion always overcame good resolutions.

One of them, however, he was always glad to help, Leonardo, his nephew, partly on personal grounds, partly because upon Leonardo depended the sole hope of saving the family from extinction. When the time came for Leonardo to marry his uncle showed almost grandmotherly solicitude over his choice. The ideal wife, he writes, must be sound of wind and limb, noble of blood, and empty of purse, for then she would not be in a position to kick over the traces. She must be of the domestic rather than the social type:—"Thou requirest someone who will remain with thee, a woman who will be in subjection to thee, and will not desire to put on airs or go off every day to parties or weddings, for where there are constant festivities it is easy for a woman to become a wanton." As for looks, it will not do to be too exacting, for "fortune has not favoured thee so extensively in face or figure as to make thee worthy of the first beauty in Florence." Such a paragon was not easy to find. Various letters recommend various likely parties, but often the scheme fell through. From Rome the uncle writes: "I hear that the two damsels mentioned in my letter are already married. Thou must comfort thyself with the thought that neither was intended for thee." Again: "It is more than a year ago since Bartolomeo Bettini began trying to cajole me into giving thee one of his nieces to wife. I have always spoken him fair, but have given no promises. I have reason to suppose that warm persuasion will be brought to bear on thee in Florence. Do not let thyself be caught by the bait, for though their offers are tempting, thou wouldst find thyself in a position far from agreeable." On one occasion he was thrown into a mild state of consternation because Leonardo had cast admiring eyes on a girl who was short-sighted. He urges him to avoid the error of choosing such a one, telling him that there must be others whose vision is normal, and who at the same time will not be ashamed to look after the saucepans and other domestic matters. In the end Leonardo married Cassandra Rodolphi, and Michelangelo showed his satisfaction by giving her a fine string of pearls, which, he observes, "I have been told would be a suitable gift."

The rest of the letters concern his artistic labours, and it is curious to-day to read of the practical and business side of some of his imperishable creations. We are given samples of the various contracts arranged. For instance, he agreed to carve the famous statues of the twelve Apostles in the Cathedral of Santa Maria del Fiore at Florence in twelve years at the rate of one a year. He is to receive a salary of two broad florins of gold every month during these twelve years, and at the completion such sum as may seem good to the Overseers, and "even to be content with nothing if it shall seem good to the said Overseers." If he fail to "carry out the contract he is liable to a fine of a thousand florins." So again the Piccolomini statues are to be carved according to rigid specifications with "such draperies, poses, actions, and nude portions" as are provided by the contract. When the first two statues were finished the sculptor and the Cardinal were each to appoint an expert, who "shall judge whether the said two figures are of the promised excellence and perfection of finish; that is to say, they shall decide whether they are more beautiful and better wrought and finished than any modern figures to be found in Rome to-day"; and if satisfactory each figure was to be paid for at the rate of thirty-three and a third ducats per figure. These, however, are early contracts when Michelangelo had still to win his name. Gradually his supremacy is acknowledged, and he can get better treatment. Thus for the Sistine frescoes and the bronze statue of Julius II., he is able practically to dictate his own terms both in price and time and liberty, and henceforth all over Italy cathedrals and patrons compete for his services. His letters contain all the chit-chat of a busy artist. He tells us of his difficulties in getting suitable marble, and how a completed pediment fell and was broken. He tells us of his troubles with unsatisfactory assistants and how through the carelessness of one a bronze cast of the Julius statue was spoiled. He writes to a friend at Florence to send him a pound of the very best lake, and if the best is not obtainable not to send any at all. He gives us all the gossip of the studio and the details of his work. And sometimes in his letters he gives us his views of art on which as a master in three of its departments he is so well qualified to speak. (Constable and Co.)

IMPERIAL UNION.

Not long ago Imperial Union was purely an academic question. In those days, far removed in thought, if not in time, there were two schools. One prophesied a day when the dominions of the Empire growing to fulfilment would "cut the painter," and develop upon lines of nationalism. The other dreamed of a day when these Dominions would form a mighty ally of their mother country, and would, as co-equals and bearers of a common burden, work out a common and a glorious destiny. But since the time of Bright and of Froude much water has flowed underneath Westminster Bridge. "The colonies," once subject for the abstract theories of political philosophy, are now an element in practical politics. "Cutting the painter" is now an idea which no one in any part of the British Empire contemplates if he has any regard for his own national advance. "Closer union" is nowadays the accepted principle, and it is surely a proof of its strength that while no one now is found to oppose its principle, there are many who give us different advice as to its form.

To-day the name of the apostles of closer union is legion: they fall mainly into two groups. The prophet of one is Mr. R. C. Jebb, whose "Studies in Colonial Nationalism" and "The Imperial Conference" have proved that not only has he a grasp of the problems of Empire, but that he has also a solution to offer. In "The Britannic Question" he breaks no new ground; the book is rather a summing-up of the conclusions he reached in the other two works. Mr. Jebb represents one point of view; the Federationists, the school of the "Round Table" (the "Hamiltonians" as he describes them elsewhere) the other. Both are agreed upon the necessity of closer relations, but the latter finds the solution in a Federation solely for defence and foreign policy. Mr. Jebb has no cut and dried scheme; he will have no formal bond of union; he advocates a perpetual alliance rather, whose velvet glove is sentiment, and whose iron hand is reciprocity.

Both ideas have their strength, and both their very obvious weaknesses. On the one hand commercial alliance plus Imperial Conferences; on the other, consolidated defence and foreign policy regulated by a composite council, alongside of commercial freedom. However, the time may not be far distant when the Empire must choose between one or other. Modern international relations have made closer union not an academic ideal, but a practical necessity, and to-day the question is not "If," but "How?" (Longmans, Green, and Co.

THE HORRORS OF WAR.

"The Human Slaughterhouse, Scenes from the war which is sure to come," by Wilhelm Lamszus, has since its appearance excited an enormous amount of discussion. Its sale was proscribed in Hamburg, where it was published; its author, a public schoolmaster, was "relieved" of his duties, though he has since been reinstated. And according to the political views of the reader the book has suffered from the extremes of praise and of condemnation.

Herr Lamszus' attitude towards war is briefly that, while in other times it had elements of the heroic and the magnificent, to-day it has become an unredeemed horror. When a man went forth to defend his country with his own right arm, when he met the enemy in the open field and fought hand to hand, then one might feel the joy of battle, and poets might justly sing of its romance and glamour. But to-day armies no longer know what they are fighting for. They are arrayed against unseen hosts, who mow them down with elaborate weapons of precision. The "field of honour" has become the "human slaughterhouse," and to enforce his argument Herr Lamszus gives an extraordinarily vivid picture of the horrors of a modern campaign. The story is put in the mouth of a German who is suddenly ordered to leave his home and family and join a regiment on active service. The anguish of parting, the machine-like discipline of the barracks, the dull resentment of the conscripts, are all described. Then the army reaches the theatre of war; his regiment has to attack a wood from which an invisible foe pours a hail of shot and shell on to them with awful results. Then there is an episode in which an approaching force is annihilated by underground mines; an ambush in a swamp, with all its terrible incidents of panic and destruction; and finally we see the racked souls of the soldiers driven off their balance by the accumulation of suffering, and whole regiments at a time going mad.

The "Human Slaughterhouse" is an extremely powerful bit of writing, in which the author ruthlessly emphasises all the grimmest sides of modern warfare. But no one has ever said that modern warfare was anything but an immeasurable calamity. It is a dreadful thing, and, with all deference to the author, it calls for more unflinching courage on the part of the soldier than did war of any other time. Everyone thinks it desirable that war should be "abolished;" where opinions differ is upon the possibility of such a consummation. The fighting instinct is deep-rooted in the heart of humanity, and experience has shown that nowadays, while Governments are unwilling to take the responsibility of declaring war and try to smooth over international differences by negotiation, it is the people, as a rule, who are loud in their demands for war, and have more than once driven their country into it though monarchs and Ministers have sought to avoid it. Moreover, in his wish to paint the picture in the most lurid colours Herr Lamszus has overlooked some things which every military man will recognise. (Hutchinson and Co., and G. Robertson and Co.).

"TEARS AND TRIUMPH."

In "Tears and Triumph" Mr. Dowell O'Reilly has achieved a remarkable piece of work, in which he makes the story of one woman, with its sorrows and its crowning glory, the peg upon which to hang a series of reflections upon the function and destiny of womanhood in general. Bankstown, of all places in the world (or, rather, like all other places in the world), is the scene of the romance which inspires these reflections. A young man is looking at some land in that locality, and comes upon a girl in the bush. Manlike, he addresses himself to her conquest, but as she unfolds her tragic tale the man gives way to the philosopher. Thought adds a commentary to her story, and Mr. O'Reilly, as a gloss to her artless narrative, traces the gradual evolution of her sex. For ages woman has been consecrated (or condemned—call it what you will) to motherhood. It has shaped her body, and made it weaker than that of her mate; it has even bounded her spirit, while her mate's has been free to soar untrammelled. It has made her a willing captive who, captive though she be, holds the future of the race in the hollow of her hand. The author foresees the time when woman will revolt, not in the suffragistic sense, but will refuse to bear children to be shot in warfare or starved in slums. Meanwhile, "What a fascinating mixture of goddess, kaleidoscope, and kitten she is!"

Perhaps, Mr. O'Reilly's doctrine is not particularly new—indeed the scene where the young mother beards and confounds the council of the powers that be with her ultimatum has been to some extent anticipated by Bernard Shaw in "Press Cuttings." But where Mr. O'Reilly scores is in his entire freedom from cant. He recognises that whatever woman may be, or become, her supreme function will still be motherhood. That is the fulfilment of her destiny; that is her triumph, even in her tears. And for the rest the story of the Bankstown girl, who stands for her sex in every age and clime, is told with a truth and sympathy that make us wish that Mr. O'Reilly were more liberal in his contributions to our literature. (Beatty, Richardson.)

A GREAT PHILANTHROPIST.

To those who believe that the only way a woman can bring about reform is by riot and the destruction of property, the life of Octavia Hill, as told in her own letters, edited by C. E. Maurice, should be a sufficient answer. That she is not more widely known is due simply to her shrinking from the public eye. Her life was devoted to unostentatious charity and good works. When still a girl, studying art, she fell under the influence of Ruskin, who made her a rent-collector for his experimental workers' dwellings at Marylebone, and from that time forward she made it her vocation to bring about such reforms as the proper housing of the poor, the preservation of open spaces and parks, the demolition of slums and rookeries, and so forth. The success of her efforts is to be seen in the London of to-day, which, though it has lost in picturesqueness, has improved immeasurably in sanitary and hygienic directions during the past generation. Though a philanthropist who grudged neither time nor money to her schemes, Miss Hill realised the necessity of sound business principles in charity. She knew that without this all efforts must be futile, and she showed that under proper management most philanthropic enterprises can be self-supporting.

This volume is the record of her social work, but it is more than that. She was a woman who enjoyed notable friendships. In addition to Ruskin, the two Brownings, Florence Nightingale, Lord Shaftesbury, Dean Stanley, and George Macdonald were her intimate friends, and her faithful correspondents, and other celebrities of note pass in and out of these pages. RECENT FICTION.

"The Midlanders," by Charles Tenney Jackson, is an interesting story of social and political life in the rich agricultural districts of the mid-western States of the United States of America. His theme is that of a comfortable, easy-going community, gradually awakening to the modern ideas, and resenting the rule of privilege and self-assumed authority, the inheritance from the days before the war. On the one side there are men like Van Hart, the Judge, personally incorruptible, but steeped in the old tradition and unsympathetic to the new ideas. With him are "Thad" Tanner, and the like, grafters and boodlers, who profit by the old regime, and resist the onward march of democracy because it means an end to their lucrative schemes. On the other are the representatives of the 20th century: Arne Vance, the scientific farmer and politician, who preaches "pigs and politics" up and down the country side; his sister, the "feminist," who is the county education superintendent; the editor of the local paper, whose work at last bears fruit, and sends him into congress. Between the two is Harlan Van Hart, the Judge's son, in whom the conflict between old and new is doubly fought. He is part of the ancient order of things, yet he sees its shortcomings; he loves Aurelie Lindsstrom foundling, beauty prize winner, and actress, but tradition and caste bid him renounce her. How the struggle is waged amidst the fat acres of Role, and how Harlan Van Hart, Wiley Curran, and Aurelie each solve their respective problems is told in this book, which, if a trifle prolix and padded, is apart from that an excellent piece of work. (Bobs Merrill; G. Robertson.)

After a considerable interval Winston Churchill (the American novelist, not the First Lord of the Admiralty) has broken silence with "The Inside of the Cup," a substantial volume with a purpose. The purpose is to prove that the Church, or at any rate, the most orthodox and fashionable branch of it in the U.S.A., has failed to keep pace with the requirements of modern times. Although tremendous issues are being settled by modern society the Church has never defined its attitude towards any of them; in so far as it does take part in the discussion of these questions at all it is actually opposed to the forces of progress, and anti-social in its tendency. Such a motif inevitably suggests that of certain of Mrs. Humphry Ward's novels, but Mr. Churchill has more of a story to tell than has the author of "Robert Elsmere." He illustrates his text through the person of a clergyman who finds the Church too narrow and reactionary to contain his passionate sympathy for mankind. The Rev. John Hodder, rector of the parish, leaves the Church of which Eldon Parr, millionaire, is the stoutest pillar. Then there is Alison Parr, who also emancipates herself from a system which is odious to her, and finds a fellow soul in Hodder. And there are various subsidiary characters well and truthfully depicted. Unfortunately, the book suffers from the defect of many of its kind. If it is a serious study of the present state of the Church, the fiction element is out of place; if it is a novel, the endless religious and social discussions overburden it. In trying to appeal to two classes of readers it has, to some extent, fallen between two stools. (Macmillan and Co.; the Sydney Book Club.)

"Smithers," by Arthur E. Copping, is the tale of the transformation of a little London waif into a useful member of the community. The lad in question is the type of thousands in Britain to-day. Neglected, half-starved, and homeless, he might early have become a wastrel; but from this fate he was saved by the Barnardo officials, who caught him before he had time to succumb to the evil influences of his environment, and shipped him off to Canada, where he could begin his life again under the most favourable auspices. The story is interesting in showing the splendid raw material running to waste, which could so easily be turned to account. "Smithers" is one of a clan which we should like to see in Australia in greater numbers. (Hodder and Stoughton; Angus and Robertson; G. Robertson.)

"Pioneers" is rather a good story of the Canadian North-West, by S. Comstock. It describes the experiences of one Dexter Hayden, who sets forth to tame the wilderness full of hope and enthusiasm, only to find that the wilderness is too strong for him. Three years running his crop is burned, and his labour wasted, and he begins to lose heart. However, his wife is made of stronger stuff than himself, and when in despair he decides to give up, she stays on, and runs the place till he returns. How she succeeds, in the face of all difficulties, is the subject of Miss Comstock's book. It is a tale of courage and perseverance rewarded, and the sensational element is provided by the machinations of two rather improbable villains. (Hodder and Stoughton: Angus and Robertson.)

"Topham's Folly," by George Stevenson, is the chronicle of an English country town, with its cares and lovemakings and quarrellings, and secret dishonesties. Old Topham is the local solicitor, an important figure in the district, whose prosperity has been founded on fraud. He is the type of parent who believes that to spare the rod is to spoil the child, and one of his sons rewards him by marrying a publican's daughter, while the other, on discovering his father's dishonesty, emigrates to Canada. In the end, when disclosure seems inevitable, Topham dies, and the victims of his sharp practice sink their grudges against him in the grave. The book is well written, and Mr. Stevenson has contrived both to draw some delightful characters and to give us a picture of life in Barnstaple, seemingly so uneventful, but throbbing beneath with unexpected tragedies. (The Bodley Head.)

In "A Slice of Life" Mr. Robert Halifax takes us to the squalid drabness of an East London slum, and introduces us to the unattractive denizens of Roper's Row. Here like a flower blooms the wayward Kathy, with her gipsy-like impatience of restraint, and her twin passions for cleanliness and beauty, which her neighbours cannot understand, far less sympathise with. Kathy is at heart "straight," but her vagaries terrify old Donno, her uncle, and make the path of a young clergyman's love a thorny one. In the end all turns out well; Kathy is saved from the clutches of the prizefighter, and finds a haven with her love. The story is well told, and shows an intimate knowledge of the seamy side of life in the East End. Still, Mr. Halifax might with advantage have omitted some of the interminable conversations in Roper's Row. (Constable.)

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

The Royal Philharmonic Society's concert on Thursday evening next will place the listeners upon the most exalted planes of art and devotional thought that music and religion can simultaneously embrace. This result will be achieved by the introduction on the same programme of the finale of the first act of "Parsifal" and of Brahms's famous "Requiem," generally known as the "German Requiem." Both these examples of inspired musical art demand the most careful preparation, and the Philharmonic Choir and Orchestra have rehearsed these works with the greatest diligence under Mr. Joseph Bradley's direction. Wagner's "Grail Scene" represents the early celebration of the Holy Communion, or Mass, by the knights of the Holy Grail, the central acts of the religious service and worship being performed by various sections of the choir (male voices and female voices) in turn, and by a full chorus, all with orchestra. A programme-note will remind the audience of the legend telling how angels bore from heaven to earth the Grail, or crystal cup, from which the Saviour drank at the last supper, and into which His blood was received at the cross. King Titurel and the knights Sacred Spear within the temple of Montsalvat. secred spear within the temple of Montsalvat. As regards the great "Requiem," the programme will contain an informing note by Ernest Newman, the Birmingham critic, upon the general character of Brahms's philosophy of life, pointing out that both he and Bach were obsessed by the idea of death, but that they both faced the problem bravely. Their music accordingly always ends by carrying with it a richly-laden message of Divine consolation.

Mr. David Bispham, who makes his farewell appearance in Sydney at the Town Hall this evening, will give return concerts in Melbourne (six) and Adelaide before visiting Tasmania, and will finally sail for America on August 23. This famous baritone will make an appearance at Honolulu on September 5, and will continue the voyage by the same ship to San Francisco. On this point he remarks:—"On September 14 I shall give a song recital at the celebrated Greek Theatre, attached to the University of California, at Berkeley, across the Bay. The formation of this open-air arena was indirectly the outcome of a suggestion I made to Mrs. Hearst, the elder, a cultivated woman of enormous wealth, who subsequently joined with others in founding a classic temple of dramatic art in New York under the title of the New Theatre. That was not my own idea at all, but she passed on my little scheme to her son, W. B. Hearst, the millionaire newspaper proprietor. He entirely built the Greek Theatre, which is on the model of the Athenian Theatre at the Acropolis, being a natural amphitheatre formed in the hollow of the hill behind the woods on the University grounds. It is in the form of a semi-circle, with the stage across the diameter, and seats about 8000 people. I sang and recited before an audience of 8000 there about two years ago, when the acoustics proved perfect, and the situation romantically beautiful. No, the weather does not matter. In California it never rains out of season, and the weather is absolutely reliable. I shall reach New York in mid-September, and I shall at once begin rehearsing Leo Fall's new comic opera, 'The Jolly Peasant.' I am being starred in the title-role, a character of absorbing interest, who always smiles at adversity—and I may add that his smile radiates in the form of several captivating songs. The new piece will be splendidly staged in New York by Messrs. Werba and Luescher, a young and enterprising theatrical firm. One of the two partners is married to a daughter of Mr. Erlanger, of "Klaw and Erlanger," producers of 'Ben Hur,' and hundreds of other spectacular pieces."

A new four-act comedy, "The Great Adventure," will replace the present successful play, "Bobby Burnit," at the Little Theatre on Monday, July 21, and in this way the management will bring forward a work by Arnold Bennett, part author of "Milestones." Founded on a somewhat fantastic novel, the new piece, which was produced in London at Kingsway Theatre last March, will deal with the case of Ilam Carre, a celebrated artist. This eccentric genius is so afflicted with shyness that for years he has secluded himself on the Continent, sheltering his identity as much as possible behind that of his faithful valet. Suddenly obliged to return secretly to his dismantled London mansion, the celebrity is embarrassed by the dangerous illness of the aforesaid valet, and by the fact that the doctor called in imagines the patient to be Carre, and the artist to be the valet! The painter is too apathetic and shy to rectify the mistake, and on the death of his trusted servant he seizes the chance of permanent obscurity by allowing a grateful nation to give the deceased a splendid funeral at Westminster Abbey under the great name of Ilam Carre. Later complications arise from the intrusion in the story of Mrs. Janet Cannot, who, in answer to a matrimonial advertisement inserted by the deceased, is prepared to marry him, and to save further trouble Carre consents to a union. The end of this "Great Adventure" need not be revealed further than to add that the play affords ample scope to Mr. Hugh Buckler, Miss Violet Paget, and the other leading artists of the Little Theatre Company.

Our London correspondent writes under date June 6:—"The diamond jubilee of Saint-Saens was celebrated in London on Tuesday of this week by a concert in the afternoon, at which the veteran played, and by a festival performance at Covent Garden of 'Samson and Delilah' at night. It appears that Saint-Saens dates his career from his third birthday or thereabouts! He is now 77. The performance of 'Samson and Delilah' was notable for four things especially—the great performance of Kirkby Lunn as Delilah, the staging of the opera, the singing of the chorus, and the conducting of Sig. Polacco, the successor to Campanini at Covent Garden, in whom an undoubted 'find' has been made. He is a master of detail, and altogether a director of masterful intention and effect. The choruses of the first act (100 choristers) were a revelation. Kirkby Lunn gave a noble rendering of Delilah's music. At the opening of the second act especially, and in 'Mon Coeur S'ouvre,' she was superb. Franz, the Samson, I did not like. He possesses a big voice of but little beauty. Saint-Saens had an ovation at the end of the second act, when Kirkby Lunn, who had been supporting him, ran off, leaving him to stagger under a huge laurel wreath and great and sustained cheering."

The writer of "A Woman's Letter" from London, under date June 6, writes us as follows:—Sir Johnston Forbes Robertson's season ends this week. It has been most successful, and regrets are heard on all sides that so fine an artist is taking leave of the stage while all his powers are still unimpaired. His knighthood is very popular. He has won his honours simply and entirely from his own merits. He has never claimed to be a great producer; indeed, in this country as an actor-manager he has not made any great success. His turn of fortune came in America, where he piled up dollars with "The Passing of the Third Floor Back." He goes there again this autumn, and it is highly probable that this gifted artist will pay a visit to Australia before his return to England. You will find in him all you ever dreamt of in Shakespearean work. There is no voice like his, nor is there such a delightful personality. He is charming, and on that adjective I leave him. As a man and a friend he is valued highly. Nature gave him a very graceful send-off, and this, with his own artistic knowledge, has made Sir Johnston Forbes Robertson the wonderful man he is."

Miss Eva Mylott, who was singing at Winnipeg in mid-May, was due at Detroit on June 3 last for the closing concert of a long and successful tour of America and Canada. The Sydney contralto sailed from New York on June 7 for London and the Continent of Europe, principally for rest, recreation, and study. It is her intention to re-study German lieder in Berlin, leaving again during November to resume concert-giving in the United States under the exclusive management of J. Nevin Doyle. Miss Mylott was in excellent health and spirits at the time of posting this news for her many friends here.

During the season at the Criterion, which opens to-night with "Miss Hook of Holland," the J. C. Williamson company will probably produce "The Dancing Mistress" for the first time in Australia. Miss Hilda Vining will make her debut in the new piece. This artist replaced Constance Drever as Nadina in "The Chocolate Soldier" in London during the latter's holiday-vacation, and was again favourably reviewed under similar conditions during the run of "Nightbirds." With another combination. Miss Vining made a success as Claudian in the American musical comedy, "The Pink Lady."

THE CHURCHES.

A WHOLESOME CLUB.

An outstanding feature of present-day civilisation is the club life of the great cities. This social development is the natural corollary of the world-wide movement towards the cities from the rival districts. It is quite possible for the club to be an evil, providing cheap pleasures, and acting as a disintegrating force and weakening home ties. But it is also possible for a club to be a power for good, to provide sane and healthy recreations to combat the temptations of city life, and by bringing together young men of kindred tastes, almost supply the place and home for men from the country. The various reports presented to the board of directors of the Y.M.C.A. on Thursday plainly indicate in what category this institution is to be placed.

Not only does the Sydney Y.M.C.A. provide for the physical, intellectual, and spiritual development of young men, but within its compass can be found all those healthy sports and amusements which the average young Australian finds so attractive. There are now 1524 members, and a great amount of enthusiasm is evident in the junior section. The 45 junior meetings held during the month were attended by 1309 youths. The first lecture in a course dealing with modern business was very successful, and the class for the series is full. The physical committee is arranging the sports meeting, which is to be held in September, and a movement is on foot to secure a sports ground for the association. The report of the general secretary, Mr. W. Gillanders, showed a splendid progress in all departments, with a clean, sane, virile, Christianity dominating, and giving tone to the whole "club."

ORIGIN OF LIFE.

Christians whose faith has been weakened by the attacks of science on Genesis will be pleased to read the confession of faith of Dr. Sims Woodhead, Professor of Pathology at Cambridge. In an address on the "Origin of Life," at the Victoria Institute, he said that even if chemists could succeed in producing life, the great question of the universe would remain unaltered, just as wonderful, as difficult to understand, and just as startling as before. "My experience leads me to think," he added, "that, however life came into the world, however life and matter came to be associated, there must be a great Cause, a great Ruler, a great Regulator. Even the most agnostic must admit the wonderful law and order that rules throughout the great scheme of Nature. So marvellous and complete is it that when I am informed that there is no personal God I answer to myself that of this great scheme I have but one experience, and that is that all the will, ruling power, intellect, soul, and spirit of which I have cognisance, are personal."

Dr. Long, Bishop of Bathurst, has just returned from an extensive tour of the western division of his diocese. In most cases the churches and halls provided accommodation far inadequate for the big attendances. At Canowindra a large number of late comers had to remain outside the church, and this after the pulpit had been removed so as to provide all possible space. At one centre it was only with difficulty that the Bishop could move along the aisle to the pulpit so great was the crush. This unprecedented interest was shown in almost every place visited. Dr. Long is leaving this week for Bourke and Cobar, and will be away till the middle of August.

A letter received from Mrs. Clarke, wife of the Archbishop of Melbourne, who is in England, states that Dr. Clarke is staying at Torquay, the well-known health-resort in the South of England. The Archbishop's condition was such that a special saloon car had to be engaged to carry him from Kendal to Torquay. Although the lung trouble has disappeared the Archbishop's heart has suffered so much as to make exertion impracticable. Steady progress toward convalescence has been made, and if it is maintained it is expected that Archbishop Clarke will return to Melbourne toward the end of September.

An enthusiastic reception was accorded Archbishop Wright on his return from abroad. During his 18 weeks' trip Dr. Wright preached in many centres in England and Canada. He looks forward with optimism to the work in New South Wales.

At St. Andrew's Cathedral to-morrow the preacher in the morning will be Archdeacon Boyce, and in the evening Archbishop Wright.

Mr. and Mrs. Matthews, of the Mitchell River Mission, who have been for about five years in the Gulf country missions, will arrive in Sydney to-day by the St. Albans.

Rev. T. D. Reynolds, of St. Bede's Church of England, Drummoyne, has now gone to Phillip Island. Some time ago Mr. Reynolds went to Victoria on account of ill-health, exchanging parishes with Rev. T. Quinton. According to the latest news of him his health is much improved.

At St. Patrick's, Church-hill, a welcome was extended to Rev. V. Saleau, S.M., on returning from a six months' tour abroad. A musical programme was arranged by the St. Patrick's choir and orchestra.

Archbishop Kelly will preside and preach at the 11 o'clock mass in St. Mary's Cathedral to-morrow. On Wednesday he will visit St. Joseph's Convent, North Sydney.

The Forty-Hours' Adoration in St. Peter's Church, Surry Hills, commenced last Friday with High Mass, the celebrant being Rev. Father Driscoll. A special musical service was given on Sunday, when the officiating priests were Monsignor O'Haran, Father Ignatius, Father Longeran, and Father Collender.

Last week Rev. J. C. Meagher, of Dungog, celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of his ordination, and was the recipient of many gifts and congratulations. Father Meagher was born in Tipperary in 1862, and came to this State in 1888. Since then he has been at Singleton, Lambton, the Manning, and Dungog.

The Rev. Father Noyoux (Provincial), and Rev. Father Morrell, missionaries of the Sacred Heart, Randwick, left for Adelaide during the week to conduct a mission at St. Patrick's, West Terrace, Adelaide.

In view of the continuance of the present smallpox outbreak, his Grace the Roman Catholic Archbishop of Sydney has issued an instruction to the clergy that the Collect "Pro tempore pestilentiae" (of the Votive Masses) is to be recited for nine days.

Next year being the jubilee of the union of the Presbyterian churches in New South Wales, there is a strong desire on the part of presbyteries to see Professor Harper Moderator of the State Assembly. Already several presbyteries have nominated the professor, but at a meeting of the Sydney Presbytery this week it was stated that Professor Harper was not anxious to undertake the work. However, there was a unanimous expression of opinion that he was the right man to be Moderator during so important a period in the history of the Church as Jubilee year. An effort will be made to secure the co-operation of country presbyteries, in order that the call to the Moderator's chair in favour of Dr. Harper on this occasion may be a unanimous one.

If the Presbyterian Men's League continues to progress with the vigour that characterised it's initiation, it should prove as valuable an auxiliary to the Church as the C.E.M.S. did to the Anglican body. The meeting in St. Stephen's Church on Monday was very enthusiastic. The whole essence of the membership is loyal, prayerful Christianity to help forward the work of the Presbyterian Church in New South Wales. Says "The Messenger," "'Loyalty to Christ and His Church,' is one thing which the League aims to foster. There is a long history behind the Presbyterian Church in Australia, a noble history of which we may well be proud."

During a recent meeting of the Sydney Presbytery attention was called to a report which had gained publicity that arrangements were being made for the opening of new St. Andrew's Church at Rose Bay, and that the Presbytery had now been informed of the proceedings. The Rev. C. H. Talbot, interim moderator of the session, was asked to secure information, and at this week's meeting of Presbytery he reported that Mr. Wood, of the Church Offices, had stated that the Welsh people who used old St. Andrew's Church, had now started services in a city hall. They had practically cut themselves off from St. Andrew's congregation. About half a dozen of old St. Andrew's Church members, including some of the trustees of the church property, only remained. The site at Rose Bay was a very fine one, and the new church was being built at a contract price of £3395, but there would be another £100 for fitting in the old windows and seats, and also for the cost of the organ. So far no arrangements had been made for the opening services, and the first to be consulted on that matter would be the interim moderator. The Presbytery adopted the report, and decided to appoint Professor M'Intyre and Messrs. E. C. Laird and G. A. Raves assessors to the interim session.

The congregation of the Bexley church has called the Rev. F. A. Darling to be its minister in succession to the Rev. Thomas Hill, and the call was sustained by the Presbytery of Sydney this week. The Rev. F. A. Darling has been acting as locum tenens to the Rev. G. M'Kinlay, of Chatswood, during the latter's absence in England. He is a son of the manse. His father was the first minister of what is now St. Stephen's Church, Phillip-street, city, and it was largely due to his efforts that that church was built, for he collected nearly the whole of the money required for the work.

Much regret was expressed at a meeting of the Sydney Presbytery this week when the demission of the Rev. George Milne from the pastorate of the Leichhardt church was read by the clerk. The ground of the resignation was the absolute breakdown in health of both himself and his wife. In his letter to the Presbytery, Mr. Milne regretted the necessity for this action on his part, as he was getting on so well with the work at Leichhardt. They had established a very fine mission station at Abbotsford, and the Leichhardt church property debt had been reduced to £600. New buildings had been erected. The membership had increased over 100 per cent.; but the strain of the nine years' hard work had proved too much for his health. The Presbytery decided to forward a letter of sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Milne and the Rev. G. A. Gordon was appointed to meet the Leichhardt congregation on the subject.

The appointment of the new Moderator of the Church of Scotland, Rev. Dr. Wallace Williamson, has considerable interest for Australians, for Dr. Williamson was at one time minister of the Toorak Presbyterian Church, Melbourne.

The Right Rev. Alex. Smith, Moderator of the Presbyterian Church, was entertained at a tea meeting and concert by the Grafton congregation last week.

The board of management of the Fullerton Memorial Presbyterian Church, Crown and Albion streets, Surry Hills, has decided at the request of their acting minister, Rev. A. P. Cameron, B.A., to assist the promoters of the Women's Hospital Fund. It is their intention to hold a special charity service in the church to-morrow evening. The building, illuminated by electricity, has an up-to-date pipe organ, and can accommodate nearly 800 people. There will be a bright, musical service, combined with an address by the minister, the subject being, "Women's Debt to Christianity." A special solo will be sung by Miss Amy Murphy.

Widespread regret is expressed in Methodist circles at the death last Sunday of the Rev. Dr. W. Williams, F.L.S., of Auburn, Vic. Dr. Williams was one of the best-known Methodists in Australia, and was president of the general conference, which met in Sydney in 1907. He was president of the Victorian Methodist Conference in 1903.

The work of the Central Methodist Mission is progressing, and three new sisters have joined the staff.

It is the intention of the Rev. Dr. Brown, president of the General Conference, to leave by the Nestor, on July 28, for England. He is to represent Australasian Methodism at the Missionary Centenary Celebrations in England in October next.

At the Rozelle Methodist Mission Hall last week, the members of the Mothers' Society and others presented Sister Johnson with a hymn book. Mrs. Harrison presided, and speeches, eulogising the sister's good work, were made by many of the ladies present. Sister Johnson is leaving the Rozelle mission.

Methodist Union is coming in England. A resolution was recently carried at the Bristol and Bath synod of the British Wesleyan Church, urging the conference to take such action as will lead, at an early date, to the fusion of all branches of the Methodist Church in Great Britain.

A very interesting debate recently took place at a meeting of the English Congregational Union, on the subject of Church reunion. Both Anglican and Congregational ministers took part in the discussion, and while all favoured closer union, all acknowledged the difficulties in the way of corporate union. Dr. Selbie, chairman of the Congregational Union, said:—"We may be able to agree to go on our several ways towards the same goal, not as hostile armies, but as regiments in the same fighting army under the same leader, and for the same goal."

The Rev. L. B. Fletcher, of Port Adelaide, has been unanimously called to the pastorate of Newtown Congregational Church.

The Rev. Selwyn J. Evans, of Hunter's Hill, who has been called to the Stow Congregational Church, Adelaide, will announce his decision to his church to-morrow.

Mr. C. E. Bowen, of the British and Foreign Bible Society, has just concluded a successful western tour, visiting amongst other places Peak Hill, Gilgandra, and Gulargambone.

The Church Missionary Association is making arrangements to hold a missionary breakfast on the Wednesday during the Sydney Diocesan Synod, which will commence September 29. It is expected that leading missionaries from India will be amongst the speakers.

Matters are well in hand for the annual demonstration of C.M.A. Young People's Union, to be held in the Town Hall, Sydney, on August 30. His Grace the Archbishop, and the Rev. T. Law, of India, will be the chief speakers.

Miss Kendall, who has been working for the past five years in Du-Sung, China, as an honorary missionary of the C.M.A., arrives in Sydney on furlough during the first week of August.

In connection with the Girls' Department of the Young Women's Christian Association, a second Hearth Fire Group was organised last Tuesday evening, and chose as its distinguished name, Ghirrawheen-place of flowers. Much enthusiasm is being evinced for this new movement, and it is confidently expected that many hearth fires will be lighted in the Sydney association during the next few months.

Miss Helen F. Barnes, national secretary of the Young Women's Christian Associations of Australasia, has spent the last ten days organising and developing the work of the Rockhampton association. She proceeds by boat to Townsville on the 13th instant, where she will remain for a further period of ten days, returning to Sydney early in August to prepare for the National Triennial Convention, to be held in Melbourne in October.

At the Young Women's Christian Association last Monday a special day of prayer was observed for association needs. Mrs. Nelson Howard and Mrs. Newby-Fraser led during the morning sessions, and Mr. Gillanders (general secretary, Y.M.C.A., Sydney), gave the closing message at 3 p.m.

The organising secretary of the Christian Endeavour Society (Mr. Whibley) has returned from his southern tour, and will be at the Balmain Convention to-morrow.

From Leicester (England) comes news of very successful meetings conducted by General Bramwell Booth.

On Sunday last Rev. J. Sims, Presbyterian minister, of Manly, occupied the pulpit of the Penrith Presbyterian Church, and preached sermons connected with the 20th anniversary of the induction of the Rev. James M'Kee to the pastoral charge at Penrith.

There was a very large gathering at the annual religious service in connection with Prince Bismarck, No. 73, and Daughters of Brinckley, No. 380, Loyal Orange lodges, on Sunday afternoon, in the Temperance Hall, Penrith. Other lodges represented were St. Marys, Rooty Hill, and Blacktown. The chair was taken by the R.W.G.M. of the R.B.P., Bro. J. Warren, and the united choir sang special hymns, under the conductorship of Bro. W. Perritt, with Bro. Elsa Hollier as organist. Addresses were delivered by the Rev. J. Tarn (Penrith), Bro. Charles Jones (Parramatta), and Captain Reynolds (Salvation Army). In his remarks the first speaker said that, although the Roman Catholics in England numbered about the same as 50 years ago, the monasteries, convents, and priests had increased.

ABSORBING THE CITY.

GREATER SYDNEY SCHEME.

Further evidence was taken by the Greater Sydney Commission at Parliament House yesterday, Professor Peden presiding.

Mr. S. E. Lees, a former Lord Mayor of Sydney, said that Greater Sydney should include not only those suburbs immediately adjoining it, but a wider area. That it should be conceived that North Sydney had no community of interest with the City of Sydney was to him a matter of surprise, seeing that the man resident at Milson's Point was nearer to the General Post Office than many of those who resided within the boundaries of Sydney proper. There was not one of their suburbs that could be said to be a non-residential suburb. Every one of them made homes for the citizens of Sydney. He was interested alike in the suburbs and in the city, and was satisfied that a Greater Sydney, embracing all the needs of a great metropolis, consolidating debts, borrowing at a minimum cost, removing all overlapping or dual control, enforcing town-planning, correcting contracted subdivisions of land, and so forth, would be the means of having work done more economically under one supervision, and of one character, giving it a solidity and consistency that would make for permanence, which would be a great advantage over what might be termed the present patchwork.

Alderman O'Riordan, Mayor of Alexandria, said that his council was unanimously opposed to the inclusion of Alexandria in a Greater Sydney.

The Commission adjourned till Monday.

"CATCHING COLD."

There are hundreds of alleged cures for a cold, and just two reliable means of prevention: first, the commonsense avoidance of chill, and second, the wholesale destruction of the disease germs which spread the malady. It is on the latter as text that these Health words are published, because for every man who "catches cold" there are a hundred cases in which the infecting germ of cold catches the man. This is self evident from the fact that whilst it is generally impossible to trace the actual cause of a cold, yet once a person has contracted the malady those about him promptly follow suit. The obvious conclusion is that colds, which are so often the foundation of chronic disease, are communicated by a disease germ. This we call "Infection," and as the life of a germ is infection, the real remedy is to DESTROY THE GERM.

These Disease Germs lodge in all conceivable places. It follows, therefore, that we must reach those places—not some of them, but all—destroy the germ. To do this a cleanser and disinfectant must be so scientifically combined that in ordinary household use it will not only remove dirt but also kill infection, particularly the infection of our ancient enemy —"the cold." The most reliable agent of this character is

LIFEBUOY SOAP.

Tens of thousands know this, for Lifebuoy Royal Disinfectant Soap has a brilliant record in fighting infection; but though they use Lifebuoy Soap with splendid results in the kitchen and sick room, though they scour tables and floors, and flush sinks and drains with Lifebuoy Soap solution, they have not yet learnt to extend these precautions to the laundry. It is in that Lifebuoy Soap is particularly fitted to do some of its best work, by protecting the family against disease germs. In fact, in a well-managed laundry, every family should, per medium of the weekly wash, get

A WEEKLY BILL OF HEALTH.

Through the laundry pass the clothes we wear, the bed linen in which we sleep, the tablecloth and serviette which lie close to our food, the handkerchief for our lips and the towels for our bodies. What more necessary therefore, than to make them chemically clean, germ free and germ proof by using in the laundry plenty of

LIFEBUOY SOAP?

That this disinfecting can be done has been proved by two eminent Scientists, Mr. F. H. Molesworth, F.C.S., of Sydney, and Dr. Karl Enoch, of Hamburg, who have destroyed the germs of Consumption and Cholera in fifteen minutes by immersing them in solutions of Lifebuoy Soap of 10 and 5 per cent. respectively. The Cold germ is less stubborn, and would succumb much more easily. From this it is clear that the laundry offers the best chance of all to SAFEGUARD FAMILY HEALTH.

By all means attack the other strongholds of Disease Germs; use Lifebuoy Soap wherever dirt can lodge, or germs find refuse—bedroom utensils, sanitary out-buildings, drains, sinks, floors and walls—scour and flush them with Lifebuoy Soap, but

DO NOT FORGET THE LAUNDRY.

Let all the clothes and linen be washed in Lifebuoy Soap and there will be less "Catching Cold," because when one of the family has a cold, the germs which swarm in the patient's clothing and on every fabric he touches, will, with any other stray microbes, get short shift and quick despatch. Yet, with all this deadliness to germs, Lifebuoy Soap will not injure the most delicate fabric, will not chap the hands, or discolour the nails, but will, on the other hand, make laundry work a pleasure, and pile the wash basket with snowy, fragrant, germ-free napery. Lifebuoy Soap means

PERFECT CLEANSING, PERFECT DISINFECTING.

KOSCIUSKO.

A WINTER ASCENT.

(BY REV. W. FISHER.)

If thou wouldst view Kosciusko aright
Go visit it by the pale moonlight.

Strictly speaking, we did not view Kosciusko by moonlight, but it was the moonlight that made our visit to the summit possible, and I may be pardoned for adapting Scott's well-known lines, to serve as a peg whereon to hang our tale.

At the end of June I found myself enjoying a week's holiday at the Hotel Kosciusko, amidst surroundings of snow and ice, ski and skates, that one does not usually associate with an Australian winter. Since the snow had fallen no visitor had made the trip to Betts' Camp, so, finding a kindred spirit in the person of Dr. A. T. Chapple, with whom I had foregathered on the ice on the afternoon of my arrival at the hotel, I decided with him to attempt the journey to Betts' Camp, and, conditions being favourable, to make a dash for the summit of Kosciusko. Accordingly, on the morning of Wednesday, June 25, we strapped on our rucksacs and cameras, shouldered our ski, and started from the hotel, one might say without undue exaggeration, with flags flying and band playing, and the encouraging cheers of the assembled house party. The snow on the track to Daner's Gap was hard frozen, so we decided to walk the first mile and a half uphill, not yet being experts in the gentle art of herringboning and sidestepping as expounded by authorities on ski-running.

At the top of the Gap we fastened on our ski, and started on the run down the track. The sky was overcast, and the clouds were hanging low over the hills. A warm thawling wind followed us, and the snow was inclined to be sticky. The doctor had donned the orthodox gum boots, which suited the ski very well, and made the pace in front. I had put on an old pair of climbing boots, with putties, thinking they might prove useful, as they did, at later stages. But the heels were not adapted for ski straps, and I had some trouble in keeping them properly in place. However, we pushed on steadily, if slowly, till about 1 o'clock, when we halted to do justice to the excellent burden thoughtfully provided by the hotel. Then photographs were taken, and we set forward again. Light snow was now falling, and the outlook was not too promising, as we faced the last rise, with the Perisher, and the Paralyser, not exactly names of good omen, on either hand. A fairly easy rundown brought us to our haven of refuge, Betts' Camp, where Mr. and Mrs. Trafford gave us a warm welcome, and saw to the comfort of the inner and outer man. On thinking over our programme for the next day it was borne in upon us that twelve hours would be a fair time allowance for the ascent and return, allowing a reasonable margin for unforeseen delays. As daylight from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. gave us 10 hours, the only thing to do was to take advantage of the moon, which was now in her last quarter, and might give us a couple of hours light before daybreak. So at 4 a.m. on Thursday I turned out and inspected the weather and the track. There had been no heavy fall of snow such as we feared, and there was sufficient moonlight to enable us to travel in safety. Though the hour was so early, Mrs. Trafford insisted on cooking us a substantial breakfast, and after the usual delays with recalcitrant ski, we got away soon after six. The clouds had again gathered, and it was a weird experience stumbling along by the light of the waning moon, with the morning star greeting us as we topped the first rise. It was impossible to miss the track, unless thick fog came on, as it is well defined by large poles at hundred-yard intervals, so we went steadily on up to Charlotte's Pass. The snow hereabouts was deeply drifted over the track, and formed an inclined plane, along which it was no easy matter to make our way. Sideslips were frequent, and the loose snow clogged badly under the skis. At the top of the pass the doctor, who proved the more expert with the ski, very nobly made an exchange, and gave me the lighter and more manageable pair. After the change we made better going till we reached the Snowy River, of which there was no sign except a dip in the snow-covered plain. We now started on the ascent to Dead Horse Ridge, and presently discovered that the snow was harder, and that it was possible to walk on it, with only an occasional break through the top crust. Accordingly I discarded the skis. We could now see Mount Etheridge looming through the mist, and just before we reached the summit of the ridge a watery sun appeared, the clouds dispersed, and we went on our way rejoicing. As we skirted the slopes of Mount Etheridge a magnificent sight met our view. The sun shone brightly. Etheridge, with its curiously-shaped isolated rocks, each covered with a mantle of snow, looking like some enormous sea monster, was on our left, while the gap above Lake Cootapatamba stood the shelter hut, and in front towered Kosciusko, in his dazzling mantle of white, with Wragge's hut and the cairn standing sharply out on the summit, and every outline showing up with marvellous distinctness against a sky of the deepest blue. Away on the right was Townsend, and the valleys were filled with cloud and mists, which came rolling up from the south-east through the gaps in the hills. But soon our old enemy the fog had us in his grip again. The slope became steeper and steeper. The ski had to be left behind. Hitherto we had always been able to see our line by the poles on the track. But just before the steepest pinch we were left with no landmark at all to guide us. The shelter hut was swallowed up in fog, and no friendly pole beckoned us on. A couple of ice-axes at this point would have given us a welcome feeling of security, which was sadly lacking, and a slip might have had serious consequences. Perhaps it was a merciful providence that hid the depths below from our sight. However, keeping as straight a line as possible, we persevered, and soon found ourselves on the level ground before the shelter-hut. This was standing like a miniature fort, entrenched with a moat and rampart of snow. The door was open, and snow lay inside in places two or three feet deep. It was now 11 o'clock, and we felt we had earned a meal. Fortunately there was wood, an axe, and a billy. With perseverance a fire was lighted, and hot tea rewarded our efforts. Refreshed and rested we set out for the summit, which we reached after an easy climb in about half an hour following the track. About half-way up we again got above the mists, and looked out on as fine a cloud effect as can well be imagined. All the ranges within view showed up distinctly, and along the valleys flowed the mists, "rolling in foaming billows." At the summit we found Wragge's hut, almost covered with snow, and the interior hung with icicles, making a most beautiful picture. Photographs were taken of the hut and the cairn, though operations were much hampered by the moisture condensing on the lens and turning to ice at once. On descending we took the straight line for the shelter-hut, and reached it in 10 minutes; and at 1.30 started back for Betts' Camp. We safely negotiated our nasty traverse, picked up the ski, and followed our tracks to Dead Horse Ridge. The mists had now cleared away, and from this point on till our arrival at the hotel next day we enjoyed the clear blue sky and the keen, frosty air that gladden the hearts of the mountaineers. We had a splendid run on the ski to the Snowy, and with conditions more in our favour made good time to Betts' camp, which we reached about 5 o'clock, tired and hungry, but feeling that our strenuous efforts of the early morning had met with their reward. Next day we were up early and away about 8.30. There was a hard frost, and we enjoyed a most exhilarating time with the crisp snow crunching under our feet, and reached the hotel in good order and condition just before noon, after a truly Alpine experience such as I had not thought possible in Australia.

However changeable the weather may be and however bad the cold you may get from it may be Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will quickly cure it.—Advt.

AT THE DERBY.

EPSOM SCENES AND SENSATIONS.

LONDON, June 6.

Wednesday of this week was Derby Day. In the morning it was the same old Derby Day, with everyone's heart more or less Epsomward, with the best page in every newspaper glowing under recital of the facts of other Derbies and the fancies of this; with 18 miles of Epsom road clogged by motley vehicles; with London railway stations a fighting mass of excitement, and every train route to Epsom a slow-moving, difficult procession of impeded cars. In the morning, thus, it was the same old Derby Day. But in the afternoon it was a strange new Derby Day, with sensation heavy upon it, the mid-course of the great race disfigured by sudden outrage; its finish a scramble of jostling horses, and its winner but a momentary idol, exalted only to be dethroned and dishonoured.

The disqualification of the favourite, after it had appeared to win, was no less sensational, and of much wider-spread effect. For the amount of money attaching to the Derby result must run into millions, and the number of people interested in that result into hundreds of thousands. Apart from that, and though the actual prize is not as large as that of other races, the Derby is still the greatest turf event of the world. A tremendous tradition envelops it, the winning of it is the ambition of every breeder and owner; it has a vast public, and its patrons include the cream of the racing fraternity. It comes as a great shock to all these interests to find the classic events under suspicion, even though this is the first Derby for 70 years that has been so suspect. Yet here was an unmistakably shady finish to the great race, and everyone is duly depressed. As a matter of fact, everyone knows that racing is honeycombed with fraudulent practices of one kind and another, but in the Derby and a few other classic events a straight run is somehow expected. Why that should be so is not quite clear, and the finish of this year's Derby, with half a dozen horses closely bunched half a mile from home, and the race from that point a series of jostles and bumps, showed conclusively that unfair tactics are as probable in a great event as in any other. That is the way of it, unfortunately, for the turf. The stewards took action on their own initiative, and in a few minutes had altered the result of the race and changed the destination of a mint of money. But, by some shocking mismanagement, Craganour's number had been hoisted at the winning-post. Many hundreds of bookmakers at Epsom operate far from the winning-post. They saw the result posted, and paid out to thousands of backers of the favourite. Then, after an interval, a new set of numbers was hoisted. Perhaps some of the money was returned—perhaps not.

But, after all, the Derby is largely what it is, despite the actual race and all that may or may not happen during the fierce few minutes of its course. Thousands of people are there, whose interest in the event is of the most detached kind. They are there because the surroundings of the Derby are a huge picnic, offering sights and sounds to be seen nowhere else. They are there because to be on Epsom Downs on a day of early summer is, in any case, well worth while. They are there because, being visitors to England, and having heard of Derby Day from their childhood upwards, they are glad to be able themselves to join the throng on the Epsom-road, and to drive out on to the pleasant hills of Surrey. So it comes about that, with these and a hundred other interests at work, the morning of Derby Day sees a considerable portion of London traffic moving southward across the bridges, or making a way to the Epsom railway terminals. Many went down overnight, and slept under the stars and the open sky. These would be on business bent, of course—hawkers, and hucksters, and showmen, and traders of all sorts and conditions. For them a "pitch" is of prime importance—and the best pitch to the earliest comer. By 4 o'clock in the morning the great Epsom-road procession had begun. Some walked the 18 miles from London. Some rode, and some drove—and at that hour the transport standard would not vary much from the serviceable. Chiefly, it was composed not of carriages, but of carts. There would be many one-horse shays, and many donkey barrows, and gipsy caravans, and conveyances and instruments of their propulsion such as are to be seen only in the underworld of London, and are used for nothing other than business, simple, direct, and uncompromising.

It is not until about 9 o'clock that the calibre of the traffic changes. Then the char-a-bancs begin the journey from innumerable London hotels, and four-in-hands come out from clubland, and motor 'buses and taxis by the hundred set sail across Westminster Bridge transformed by this time into a heaving sea of wheel traffic. Thenceforward for some hours there is no pause, and there is only one tide of traffic. It changes a little in character at about 10 o'clock, for then the private cars swim into it, and leisured luxury goes out in pursuit of the proletariat, and catches it up in Surrey.

And at the end, with one more golden meadow to skirt, and one more little hill to climb, is Epsom at last, and the indescribable panorama of its course, and stands, and its crowded slopes that yesterday was the green spaciousness of the rolling Downs. The stands are open to the sky, and on their topmost tier a host of people is ranged black against the clouds. The white curving rail that marks the course is ringed for a mile on either side with massed vehicles, thousands of vehicles of all shapes and sorts, the Epsom-road procession concentrated upon a strip of space, crowded and backed and manoeuvred into position until there is scarcely an inch of room-way for a man to squeeze through. But he must squeeze through, else will he not get into the beyond, the broad Down upon which he has looked from the opposite slope. He has seen it from that point, a wonderful array of waving banners, and a tumult of noise, and the movement of a vast army of humans. To-morrow's papers will tell him that there were 200,000 people there. It may be so. They may even number half a million. For the concourse of them, and the restless movement of their surface, and the black massing of them against the green of the hillside, is too vast a spectacle for mere numerical measurement.

But the best is when you have fought a way into the inner heart of that multitude. Then it surges and sways about you, and you with it, and its noises open out in detail, and its noise is a mere thunder of many voices. There are hundreds and hundreds of bookmakers there. Bawls wave over them, and in justification of its — often — bad and strange garments, and they shout in strange voices. There are hawkers there selling most of the things they regard as appropriate to the occasion. There are cocoanut shies, and Aunt Sallys, and merry-go-rounds, and nigger minstrels. There are refreshment tents and refreshments ungraced by tent or any covering, barrows of refreshments, open to the sky, barrows full of eggs, or full of fried fish, or full of whelks, that are certainly fish, and appear not to be fried, barrows full of cakes, or pork pies, barrows full of all kinds of edibles, some of it strange enough, most of it looking as though it might prove eventful. There are bare here, movable bars on wheels, which purvey many kinds of drink, and there are fountains of energy at play in the insistence of their incitation to quench a pardonable thirst. And everybody seems to be shouting something or other. Tipsters are shouting their possession of the great secret, men who have built up precarious platforms are shouting for persons willing to pay for a lift above the heads of the throng, every hawker of every ware is shouting it furiously and constantly, and in a continuous sea-wave of sound, the shouting of the bookmakers booms through the lesser din.

Luxurious motor cars and coster shays are inextricably intermingled round the rails of the course. Each has found its "pitch" hours before, and cannot move now if it would. Dainty ladies sit in open cars, and perch high upon four-in-hands, and East End 'Arriet inspects them critically from her cart a few inches away. The swarming submerged are cheek and jowl with Mayfair. Derby Day is the great leveller. A wonderful picnic is this Derby Day, a picnic on so vast and so variegated a scale that there can be nothing quite like it anywhere else. The race? Oh, yes, there is a great hush while the Derby Stakes is being run. But it is soon over, and the moment it ends the Derby picnic begins again, and the fun and the gaiety of expression of it is unchanged for all the winnings and losings. The sun is shining gloriously, the Epsom Downs lie openly cool under a broad sweep of sky. The day is long, and the twilight will be a dream in silver-grey. When it falls these happy thousands will turn into the meadow-fringed road, and so through pleasant Surrey lanes to London and home.

THE JUNE REVIEWS.

PROPORTIONAL VOTING.

Proportional representation has an able advocate in Earl Grey, who, in an article in the "Nineteenth Century," exhaustively discusses the question. No principle, however ingenious, says Earl Grey, can justify the present system which gives four representatives to the 184,806 electors of Romford, Walthamstow, Harrow, and Wandsworth, and 50 representatives to a smaller number of electors divided over 50 separate constituencies. "An ideal democracy requires not only that the various localities, but that the electors of those various localities shall also be equally represented. . . . Under proportional representation, a candidate can come forward without asking the permission of any party machine, and if he possesses any large measure of the esteem and confidence of the community his return is assured." In order to contrast the working of the local majority representation, and the local proportional representation systems, Earl Grey cites the case of the town of Sheffield, which, under the present system of local majority representation, is divided into five Parliamentary divisions, each returning one member. At the last general election 27,011 Liberals and 24,538 Conservatives voted. The Liberals, being in a majority, were entitled to the majority of representation, yet, owing to the way in which the boundary lines divided the five divisions of Sheffield, the Conservatives were enabled to win three seats. If the boundary lines had been drawn differently it would have been possible for the Liberals to have obtained all five seats. It is further argued that proportional representation, following on the grouping of electorates, would give equality of opportunity to all candidates, whether rich or poor, and free the people from the tyranny of the caucus.

THE TRADE IN ARMAMENTS.

An interesting contribution to the discussion on the growth of armaments is furnished by Mr. J. Fischer Williams, who writes in the "Contemporary" on the trade in armaments. He makes the bold suggestion that the provision of armaments should be made a State monopoly. Since the immediate cessation of war is not practical politics, he says, we can cure the evil in one way only, namely, by buying out the shareholders, who, as Dr. Liebknecht, the Socialist Deputy in the German Reichstag, recently phrased it, "coin national discord into gold." As to the old individualist objection to State enterprise, Mr. Williams contends that, if valid at all, it should be extended to the total suppression of the dockyards. To eliminate the element of private profit from the business of war he regards as cheap at any reasonable price. The cost would, of course, be enormous, but at the present stage to discuss the financial side of the undertaking would be premature.

SOBER BY ACT OF PARLIAMENT.

A somewhat remarkable article by Miss Edith Sellers appears in the "Nineteenth Century," under the above heading. She has been in nearly every country in Europe, and has made a study of the drink question. Nowhere, she says, is the sale of spirit quite so strictly prohibited as in Swedish Lapland, yet that was the only land where she was ever kept awake for the greater part of a night by the heathenish noise drunken men were making. Nowhere have so many Acts of Parliament been passed for the purpose of making men sober as in Scandinavia; nowhere have so many State, municipal, and communal decrees been issued; nowhere has she seen so much drunkenness as there. The laws are passed, but they are not enforced. Of Finland, however, Miss Sellers says the masses are against drinking, and the very man in the street has an almost passionate desire to be sober. She states that 178 of the 200 members of the Finnish Diet (some of these, of course, are women) are prohibitionists, and some nine out of every ten of the electors. She also deals at length with the spirit monopoly established by M. de Witte in Russia, and the steps he took to make men sober by providing them with wholesome food instead of vodka, and also with wholesome recreation. The conclusion she comes to is that it is useless to try to make men sober by passing Acts of Parliament, unless people's kitchens be provided, people's theatres, too, and even in little villages something in the way of pleasure resorts as rivals to inn-parlours.

THE MOTHER AND SOCIAL REFORM.

In her second, and concluding article on "The Mother and Social Reform," appearing in the "Nineteenth Century," Miss Anna Martin holds that the foundations of character are laid outside the school walls, and it is the mothers' attitude towards life which is the prime factor in the moral and spiritual development of her children. So she pleads, among other things, for legislation that will give a wife the right to draw part of her husband's wages from his employer in cases where his neglect to maintain his family has been proved. The State could also endow motherhood, as in France—she does not mention the Australian baby bonus—or undertake the entire cost of all children up to the age of 15; or it could extend the principle of the minimum wage over the whole field of industry, at the same time giving the wife a legal claim on a certain proportion of her husband's income.

SOLAR HEAT.

Mr. H. S. Shelton discusses the age of the sun's heat in an article in the "Contemporary." Known and current theories, he remarks, fail to account satisfactorily for solar heat, and he suggests a theory which may correct the discrepancies between geology and modern terrestrial physics on the one hand, and the speculative astronomical theories of yesterday on the other. The sun's source of energy, though vast, is yet finite, and must come to an end at some time or other. It is almost certain that geologic time is greater than can be accounted for by any known or suggested source of solar heat. Mr. Shelton's theory suggests a new source. It is the theory of radioactivity, based on the transmutation of elements—a result of the colossal energy change which takes place when one chemical element is transformed to another. If this transformation is assumed, it can be inferred that the amount of energy available would be sufficient to satisfy the most extensive demands of geologic time. If the energy change were of the same order as that involved in the degradation of radium, we should have a supply sufficient to last for about 1000 millions of years.

A RAINLESS WHEAT.

An article of much interest to the farmers of this country—"A Rainless Wheat"—appears in the current number of the "Nineteenth Century." The writer is Mr. William Macdonald, B.Sc. (Union Department of Agriculture, South Africa). Dry-farming, Mr. Macdonald points out, is no new thing—the principles of dry-farming to-day are merely the amplification of those fundamental methods of tillage set forth 182 years ago by the genius of Jethro Tull. It was Tull who first enunciated the three great principles of dry-farming, namely, drilling, reduction of seed, and absence of weed. The three principles mentioned have had a severe test in the dry lands of Lichtenburg, in the Western Transvaal, and the results have been wonderful. The most important discovery in connection with dry-farming, Mr. Macdonald tells us, is the value of durum (hard) wheat for poor soils, and in regions of light rainfall. The year of drought need not be feared when the principles of dry-farming are properly carried out. In the conservation of soil-moisture lies the ultimate conquest of drought, which to the intelligent dry-farmer is no more than a passing storm to the skilful mariner at sea.

THE BIBLE AND THE MARVELLOUS.

In an article on the above subject in the "Nineteenth Century" the Rev. J. A. Beaumont endeavours to show that in olden times there were states or forms of consciousness other than ours, and he suggests that the world as it was known to the people of the Old Testament literature was not merely objectively but actually and literally a different world from ours. To the ancient Semite in the first or primitive stage of consciousness, he argues, his belief in frequent occasions of personal contact between men and superhuman powers may have been entirely justified as founded on actual experiences. The "marvellous" element in Bible literature propounds a question. There are two methods of answer—the rationalistic and psychical. The former demands too much, assumes too much, excludes too much; the latter, if it also assumes something, at least excludes nothing, and therefore seems to the writer of the article to be the better way of accounting for things otherwise unaccountable.

IN THE GARDEN.

THE SHRUBBERY.

The season has arrived for pruning many established shrubs, but this requires discretion. By unskilful treatment many beautiful flowers will be sacrificed, and otherwise much injury will be done. Nearly every different kind of shrub requires somewhat different treatment. Some benefit by hard pruning, while in others little attention is necessary. Shrubs planted in favourable situations require more pruning than those in exposed positions. The amateur, before beginning to prune, should know the kinds of shrubs that produce their flowers on the previous season's wood, and those that develop them on the young current growth. Amongst the former are the bush honeysuckles, double-flowering cherries, English lilac, guelder rose, deciduous magnolias, single and double may bushes, and the double-flowering Japanese plums, which should not be pruned until the flowering period is over. Such shrubs as cassia, hibiscus, lagerstroemia, lantandra, and tecoma, which produce their flowers on the current season's growth, may be pruned from now till the end of August. The principal object in pruning is to maintain a neat, but not formal, growth. The first thing to be done is to cut out all the dead and decaying wood, then to remove all the weaker of those shoots that override and chafe each other, as well as the weakest and less matured ones, and to shorten those that are too vigorous. A well-pruned shrub should admit equal light and air to all its branches, so that the subsequent growth will have room to develop healthy foliage and flowers. When the pruning is finished, and the prunings have been removed to the rubbish heap, attention should be given to any shrubs that are infested with insect pests or fungoid diseases, and reliable remedies should be used.

IVY-LEAVED PELARGONIUMS.

Most of the newer varieties of the ivy-leaved pelargonium, sometimes, but erroneously, called ivy-leaved geranium, produce fine trusses of flowers of brilliant and varied colours. In the more favoured districts these plants are in flower nearly all the year round, but, of course, they bloom more profusely in the warmer months. In the cooler and colder parts they only produce their flowers during the summer and early autumn. Their straggling habit adapts them for training to a dwarf trellis, and a low, wooden fence, and for growing in window boxes, ivy-leaved pelargoniums produce a charming effect in bloom when trained as pyramids, or, indeed, on any shape formed of wire-netting, with a fairly large mesh. Beyond training and tying the principal stems of the young plants to supports, very little attention is necessary. These plants withstand dry, hot weather, thrive in ordinary soils, and even do well and flower freely in poor sandy ground. Where slight frosts are experienced in winter these plants require protection at night while the cold weather lasts. In the colder districts ivy-leaved pelargoniums give the best results when grown in large flower-pots (their stems tied to supports), or in window boxes, (their stems allowed to hang over the portion of the box exposed to the sun). Two or more varieties may be grown in the same box. During the colder months these plants should be removed to the glass-house for protection. If well-rooted, vigorous young plants are set out now in the warmer and more favoured districts they will produce flowers freely in the ensuing spring and summer. In the cooler parts the beginning of September will be early enough to plant in the open, but in the colder districts the plants should not be placed out of doors while frosty weather occurs. The following half-dozen varieties of the ivy-leaved pelargonium, with the colours of their flowers, are amongst the best in cultivation:—Beauty of Perth, bright heliotrope petals, splashed with deep crimson; Gloire de Lorraine, light cerise; Her Majesty the Queen, rich salmon; His Majesty the King, deep cerise; Jeanne d'Arc, white, suffused with pale lavender; Souvenir de Charles Turner, deep pink, upper petals pencilled with maroon.

NOTES.

Notwithstanding the exceptionally heavy rainfall in the coast districts during the last two months, the English marigold, Calendula officinalis, has been and is producing a fine floral effect in a few of the metropolitan parks and gardens. This old-fashioned plant, especially those varieties with golden yellow and rich orange coloured flower heads, is well worth more extensively growing. It is easily cultivated, but responds to liberal treatment. The English marigold shows to advantage when grown by itself or in groups in the borders.

Justicia carnea, which has long been growing in Australian gardens, but is now rarely seen except in old-established ones, is a present flowering very freely. It grows from four to five feet high, and each of its stems is surmounted with a large cluster of flesh-coloured flowers.

The winter-flowering sweet peas are now beginning to bloom freely in favourable situations. If the seed pods are removed as soon as they form the plants will continue to flower profusely. The tall-growing, spring flowering sweet peas, raised from the earliest sown seed this season will now be sufficiently forward to need support. Wire-netting with a fairly large mesh, which is not expensive and easily fixed in position, makes a much neater support than ordinary pea sticks. The netting should be tied to stakes seven feet apart, driven firmly into the ground, close to and parallel with each row of sweet peas, and left five feet above the surface. Covered with full blooms it is more easily imagined than described. If sparrows or other birds are eating the leaves of the sweet pea a simple and efficacious remedy is made by soaking one pound weight of quassia chips in two gallons of cold water for a few hours, then boiling and straining the solution, adding six gallons of water. With this gently syringe or spray the foliage, and the bitterness left by the quassia solution will protect the leaves from further injury by birds. In the coast districts the final sowing of seed for the spring and early summer flowering may now be made, as recommended in this column for the earlier sowings. In the colder parts the first sowing of sweet pea seeds may be made early next month, and the sowing may be continued at intervals till November, in order to ensure a continuous supply of bloom throughout the warmer months.

FRUIT GARDEN.

The principal work in the fruit garden, if the planting has been completed, will be the pruning of all established deciduous fruit trees, and as they have now cast their leaves the operation may be commenced forthwith. By thorough pruning, the health and vigour of the trees will be maintained, greater productiveness will result, and the crop will be of better quality, will not suffer so much from high winds, and will be more easily gathered. One of the chief objects of a skilful pruner is to maintain a symmetrical head and the equalisation of the branches and root system. Without these essentials the subsequent growth will be irregular and unproductive. Apples, pears, plums, and apricots, which bear most of their fruit on spurs, must be pruned in such a way as to keep the principal branches fairly well clothed with this short, vigorous bearing wood. The spurs, however, must not be allowed to develop too thickly on the branches, or a quantity of small fruit will be the result. There are a few exceptions amongst the trees already referred to that bear their fruit at the apex of the lateral growths, as, for example, such varieties of apple as the Cornish gilliflower and Irish peach, and they should be pruned accordingly. Peach and nectarine trees produce most on the young wood of the previous season, and consequently require different treatment. When pruning, cut out all the weakly and superfluous growths, preserving only the most healthy shoots, without, however, allowing them to overcrowd each other. In the pruning of fig trees the superfluous growths and the weaker of those that chafe each other only should be cut out. No shortening back of the shoots must be done, with the exception of the too vigorous ones, which are likely to prevent the formation of a well-balanced head, as the fruit is borne near the extremities of the branches. Two important factors in the production of first-class fruit are light and air to all parts of the tree when in leaf. When the pruning is finished, and the prunings are removed, attention should be given to any trees that are infested with insect pests or fungoid growths, and reliable remedies used to keep them in subjection.

It is the seasonable time for pruning grape vines. If they are trained on what is generally known as the current-bush method short pruning should be adopted, after the five or seven primary arms, or branches which crown the stock, have been formed. Past season's matured growths should then be shortened to one, or at most two buds (eyes), of which the terminal one should be left pointing outwards to prevent subsequent overcrowding. Vines trained on trellises or over arbours will require different treatment, and more of last season's matured growths should be left to produce the crop. In the colder districts, where the so-called bush fruits are grown, they should now be pruned. Gooseberries, red, and white currants bear their fruit mostly on spurs, and this kind of wood should be preserved in moderation. Black currants are produced almost entirely on the young wood of last season's growth, and should be pruned accordingly.

SOCIAL.

[All contributions and accounts of weddings or other social entertainments intended for the "Social" column in Saturday's issue should reach this office not later than Friday morning, and be fully endorsed.]

Sydney has been by no means dull during the past week, for there have been several large public balls, besides numerous small private dances, dinners, and theatre parties, added to which was the polo carnival at Kensington, and to-night the "polo" dinner is to take place, when the country teams competing in the Lady Dudley Cup will be entertained by the members of the Sydney Polo Club, and will bring this week's festivities to a close. The weather at the beginning and end of the week was perfect, but for a day or two it was cold and bleak.

The Archbishop and Mrs. Wright, who returned to Sydney last Saturday after a short visit to England, have been welcomed back on every side, and were the guests of honour at many receptions and entertainments during the past week. The members of the Ladies' Home Mission Union (in which Mrs. Wright takes such an active interest) entertained Mrs. Wright at an "at home" at the Patriotic Club, Limited, on Wednesday afternoon. The drawing-room was decorated with masses of arum lilies, violets, and jonquils, and tea was served in the large dining-room, the tables being arranged with violets, maiden hair fern, and violet ribbons. Both the Archbishop and Mrs. Wright thanked the members for their kindly welcome, and the Dean of Sydney, the Rev. S. D. Yarrington, Miss Joan Newton, and Miss Boardman, also spoke. A musical programme was contributed by Mrs. Grahame and the Misses J. Newton, Gard, and Rook. The afternoon's entertainment was a great success.

The Sydney polo carnival week was opened most auspiciously on Monday, and the weather being perfect, a large gathering assembled to witness the game at the Kensington course, and thoroughly enjoyed watching the play. There were thousands of motor cars, mostly filled with women, who were all keenly interested in the play, and most of whom wore coats and skirts, and handsome furs. On Tuesday afternoon his Excellency the Governor rode out with his two daughters, and Lady Edeline Strickland drove out during the afternoon, and a large gathering of visitors watched the play. Every day the attendance of visitors at Kensington has been unusually good, and the many women present were most interested spectators.

"To welcome Mrs. Allen" and Mr. Denis Allen upon their return from England, Mr. Arthur Allen was "At Home" to a large number of friends shortly after their arrival, who were invited to meet them at Meriboia, Edgecliff-road. Mrs. Allen, who was looking remarkably well after her trip, was warmly welcomed home by her many Sydney friends. The house was beautifully decorated with flowers, masses of Arum lilies in tall vases being arranged in the drawing-room, whilst in the hall lilies and greenery and wreaths of roses were seen on all sides. Tea was served in a beautiful new ballroom (built as a surprise to Mrs. Allen) on one of the lawns. The pavilion is open at the sides, and the dome-shaped roof of trellis-work is also open, but can be enclosed with awnings if necessary. Pot plants and tall palms and ferns, arranged in beds, surrounded the room, which is lighted with electricity, and a small stage for the band erected at the further end. The refreshment tables were decorated with masses of red camellias, red carnations, and roses. It was a most enjoyable gathering, and amongst the numerous guests present were Lady M'Millan, Lady and Miss Innes, Mr. and Mrs. Consett Stephen, Mr. and Mrs. Theyre Weigall (Mel.), Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Knox, Madame Clara Butt and Mr. Kennerley Rumford, Mr. A. F. Robinson, Miss Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. A. Turnbull, Dr. and Mrs. R. Davies, Mr. and Mrs. Rothe and Miss Rothe, Mr. and Mrs. R. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. A. M'Carthy, Mr. and Mrs. Beerbohm, Mrs. Geoffrey Fairfax, Mr. and Mrs. Hemsley, Mrs. Rich, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Weigall, Dr. and Mrs. Blackburn, Mr. and Mrs. H. Levy, Mr. P. T. Robinson, Mrs. Worrall, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Osborne, Mrs. Macfarlane, the Misses Garran, Miss Gurney, Mlle. Soubeiran, Mr. and Mrs. Rabett, the Misses Blomfield, Mrs. S. Levy, Mrs. and Miss Field, Miss Eadith Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Warry, Miss E. P. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. C. Cape, Mr. and Mrs. Colin Stephen, the Misses Knox, Miss Farran, the Misses Gordon, Mrs. A. Dowling, Miss Street, and Miss Massie.

Mrs. J. Spencer Brunton gave a most enjoyable "At Home" at her residence, Elystan, Woollahra, on Wednesday evening, when a delightful programme of music had been arranged, to which Miss Leah Myers contributed some charming songs, Mr. Godfrey Smith played, and Mr. Cecil Monk rendered violin solos, all of which gave great pleasure to the numerous guests. Mr. and Mrs. Brunton received their friends in the drawing-room, which was decorated with a profusion of Arum lilies, dark purple iris, and other flowers, with beautiful palms and pot plants. The hostess wore a handsome black net and lace dress, veiling old gold tissue and lace, and diamond ornaments, a golden tissue rose and small pale yellow feather mount being arranged in the hair. She was assisted in entertaining her guests by the Misses Brunton. Amongst others present were Lady Gould, Mrs. Adrian Knox, Mr. and Mrs. F. MacMaster, Mrs. Otto Falkner, Captain Talbot, Captain Forbes, Mr. and Mrs. H. White, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. Forbes Angus, Mr. and Mrs. Schute, Mrs. Orr, Mr. and Mrs. R. White, Mr. and Mrs. J. Burns, Mrs. Bowker, Dr. and Mrs. Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Collin, Mr. and Mrs. H. Levy, Mr. and Mrs. Richards, Mr. and Mrs. Shard, Mr. and Mrs. Holdship, Mr. and Mrs. Davenport, Mr. and Mrs. F. Macdonald, Mr. P. H. Morton, Miss S. Barton, Mr. C. Cropper, Mr. Cooper, Mr. Theo. Marks, Mr. J. McMaster and Miss McMaster, Mrs. MacNeil, and many others. Supper was served in the ballroom, the tables being decorated with choice flowers. The entertainment was given in honour of some of the visiting polo players and their wives, and proved a delightful innovation from the usual small dance or dinner.

During their stay in Sydney Mr. and Mrs. Kennerley Rumford have been the guests of honour at many social gatherings, and were present at a luncheon given by Mr. and Mrs. Earp, at their residence, Uig Lodge, Point Piper, last Monday afternoon. The guests also included Dean Talbot, Rev. C. Martin and Mrs. Martin (India), Mrs. T. Hughes, and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Buckler.

Mr. and Mrs. Beerbohm were amongst the passengers who arrived in Sydney last week, and have renewed their acquaintance with many old friends. Mrs. Beerbohm (who was Miss Elsie Anderson) is looking remarkably well, and is glad to be out here again for a visit. Mr. Beerbohm is a member of Mr. Waller's company.

At Mr. Bispham's most enjoyable concert at the Town Hall on Thursday evening, amongst the large and interested audience were Madame Clara Butt and Mr. Kennerley Rumford, who showed their appreciation of this talented artist in a most emphatic manner, and some of the songs sung as encores in the second part of the programme were given, we believe, at their request. Mr. Bispham and Mr. Harron Morley will appear at the Sydney Orchestral Society's concert this afternoon, and Mr. Bispham will take his farewell of Sydney at this concert in the evening.

The annual ball in aid of the Boys' Brigade will be held at the Town Hall next Wednesday, July 16, and promises to be a great success. An energetic committee of ladies has been working hard during the past few weeks, and a large attendance is anticipated. A most successful ball in aid of the Civil Ambulance and Transport Corps of the St. John Ambulance Brigade took place in the Paddington Town Hall on Thursday evening, and was largely attended, the visitors numbering about 450, and included many country matrons and members of the polo teams. The hall was prettily decorated, the prevailing colour scheme being pink. Roses and hollyhocks, in great profusion, were intermixed with greenery, and ornamented the sides of the staircase leading to the ballroom, and also formed a huge screen on the landing. These flowers also formed the principal decorations in the ballroom, almost covering the sides of the walls, and interspersed here and there with masses of dark autumn-tinted oak leaves, and the large arc lights were veiled in pink. The supper tables were prettily arranged with a profusion of white jonquils and pink tulle. There were so many well-known society people present that it was more like a large private dance than a public charity ball. The music and floor were good, and, as an excellent supper had been provided, the ball proved not only most enjoyable, but should result in a good financial balance for the deserving cause in which it was held. Many handsome dresses were deserving of notice. Mrs. H. Osborne wore cream satin and gold with a draped trained skirt of emerald green charmeuse. Mrs. Forbes, gold tissue, with panels of heavy guipure over black ninon. Mrs. R. White chose an effective combination of iris purple ninon over pale blue, with Oriental embroidery. The attendance numbered over 500, and dancing was kept up with the greatest spirit all the evening. The music was excellent, and for several of the dances was loudly applauded, and an encore demanded. Blue and gold ribbons (the University colours) were prominent amongst the decorations, also the University College shields and the New Zealand University shield. Another noticeable feature of the decorations was the beautiful groups of autumn-tinted oak leaves, which stood out in striking contrast to the lighter greenery of the palms and smilax. Huge panels of these darkly-tinted leaves were used to ornament the walls in the supper-room, with excellent effect, the tables being very prettily decorated with the University colours, carried out with masses of golden wattle, yellow jonquils, and a profusion of violets. Messrs. Alan S. Lloyd and H. A. Henry were the hon. secretaries of the ball committee, and much of the success of the dance was due to their efforts. The guests were received by Mr. T. de C. Armstrong (president of the University Sports Union), assisted by Mr. A. G. de C. Arnold and Mr. H. S. Utz; and Mrs. L. T. The decorations were an especial feature, the dining-hall, converted for the nonce into a ballroom, having the walls partly covered with lattice-work, on which were entwined festoons of greenery, the top of the walls being almost covered with palm leaves. There were large Japanese umbrellas suspended from the roof, the effectiveness of the decorations being enhanced by flowers. The common-room was also gay, with flags and greenery. The supper rooms were arranged in yellow and white, and the quadrangle, which was used for sitting out, had festoons of Japanese lanterns suspended across it. A committee including Messrs. R. J. R. The following interesting letter is written by Mr. Fred. E. Diamond, J.P., one of the most popular of Theatrical representatives in Australia. He is well-known as a Professional Press Correspondent. His tribute convinces as to the curative Powers of Clements Tonic.

CLEMENTS TONIC IS THE KING OF ALL TONICS

KEEP IT AND KEEP WELL.

Mr. Diamond has been for 30 years solely representing leading English and American Theatrical newspapers. He is sole agent for the "New York Clipper," the oldest American variety journal. As the following letter proves, he was completely broken down in health and cured.

To CLEMENTS TONIC, LTD.

"From May to the end of October, 1912, I suffered agonies with acute MUSCULAR RHEUMATISM. My ankles, knees, and shoulder joints became swollen and painful, and the excruciating pains in my back were almost unbearable. I was in a helpless and wretched condition, and could scarcely stand, and, to make matters worse, I completely lost my appetite, and to sleep at night was out of the question.

"I had the best medical advice, and for a long time carefully took the medicines prescribed. I had Turkish baths and hot salt-water baths out of number, also was massaged three times a week by an artist masseur.

"But all to no purpose, my troubles still remained.

"I began to despair of ever being well again, and, as a last resource, I made up my mind to try CLEMENTS TONIC, because I had read so much of what it had accomplished.

"I did so, and I FELT ITS WONDERFUL AND MAGICAL INFLUENCE from the first dose, and I rapidly began to improve. By the time I had finished my second large bottle the swelling of the joints and pains in the back left me, my appetite had returned, and I slept well.

"When I was on my fourth bottle I felt as vigorous and strong as I ever did in my life.

"I can now go about and enjoy myself with renewed energy, that makes life worth living.

"I have only Clements Tonic to thank for coming to my timely assistance, when all other remedies failed to restore me to perfect health.

"I WILL CONTINUE TO USE THIS KING OF ALL TONICS, in case of a recurrence of the rheumatism, and in my home and in my travels it shall always be found with me."

The bridesmaids were Miss Daisy Treeve, (sister of the bride) and Miss Jessie Murray. Mr. A. T. Kalms (brother of the bridegroom) was the best man, and Mr. W. T. Kalms groomsman. A reception was afterwards held at Sargent's rooms, Market-street, where the guests were entertained.

On June 13, at the Methodist Church, Port Macquarie, Charles G. Orr, second son of the late Mr. J. F. Orr and Mrs. Orr, of Sydney, was married to Mabel R. Woodlands, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Woodlands, of Grassmere, West Port Macquarie. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. L. J. Wilson, the church being prettily decorated for the occasion. The bride wore ivory crepe de chine, with point de gaze lace, and a wreath and veil, and carried a shower bouquet of choice flowers, a gift of the bridegroom. Miss Woodlands (sister) was bridesmaid. The Mayor of Port Macquarie (Alderman D. Stewart) was best man. After the ceremony, the wedding-breakfast was served at the residence of the bride's parents.

On Saturday, May 3, a marriage was solemnised in the Marrickville Methodist Church by Revs. J. G. Middleton and H. Price, between the Rev. Rupert J., only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Williams, of Marrickville, and Bertha Justham, second daughter of the late Benjamin W. Chapman and Mrs. Chapman, Lamerton, Marrickville. The church was beautifully decorated by the girl friends with palms, white flowers, and asparagus fern. The bride wore ivory crepe-de-chine silk, trimmed with Irish crochet lace, silver beads, and chiffon roses, and a wreath and veil. She carried a shower bouquet, which, with a gold wristlet watch, was the bridegroom's gift. Three bridesmaids were in attendance, the Misses Alice and Muriel Chapman, and Miss Edith Williams (sisters of the bride and bridegroom respectively). The Rev. W. C. Fullerton, of Moss Vale, acted as best man, with Messrs. S. R. Crook and R. B. Chapman as groomsmen. The duties of ushers were carried out by Messrs. A. Cheetham and Colin Burnside. A reception was held in the Manchester Unity Hall, where about 100 guests were received.

ENGAGEMENTS.

The engagement is announced of Mr. Thomas James Bowron, of Woodridge, Long Bay-road, Coogee, late of Petersham, to Miss Sarah (Alice), youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Heness, of Abergeldie, Belmont-street, Guildford, late of Stanmore.

An engagement is announced between Miss Donna Tearne, B. Sc., eldest daughter of Mr. Theodore Tearne, Mus. Bac. Oxon, of Southwold, North Sydney, and Mr. Selwyn Lewis, son of Archdeacon Lewis, of Armidale.

RAILWAY INTERLOCKING.

Mr. Charles Wilkin, M.I.M.E., for many years Interlocking Engineer of the New South Wales Government Railways, gave an instructive lecture in the Sir P. N. Russell Lecture Theatre at the University on the subject of railway interlocking as an integral part of the curriculum and qualifications of a modern engineer. The lecturer described the primitive methods adopted on the early English railways, showing that the idea of efficient signalling never occurred to the pioneer engineers and constructors, and that it was only by experience, and after many mishaps, that the necessity for these appliances became evident. With many excellent photographs and lantern slides he traced and described the gradual evolution of the interlocking system up to the latest modern plans, including manual, all electric, electro-pneumatic, electro-mechanical, automatic, semi-automatic, lock and block and hydraulic systems, all of which had their advocates. But while interlocking was an absolute sine qua non, the adoption of one, or any, of these systems was dependent entirely on the particular circumstances of the railways concerned.

The lecturer strongly advised all undergraduates in engineering to make themselves familiar with the all-important subject of interlocking, as without such knowledge they could not possibly possess the necessary skill required for modern and up-to-date railway construction and traffic working.

Among those present were Professor Warren, Assistant Professors Barraclough and Schofield, and other members of the Engineering School staff, and Messrs. Bradfield, Vicars, and several other consulting engineers.

LIFE IN LONDON AND THEREABOUT.

(CHRONICLED BY SIR HENRY LUCY.)

The King's Birthday—Premier's Birthday Banquet—Throng at the India Office—The Poet Laureatship—Parliamentary Bills—Ex-Ministerial Old-age Pensioners.

WESTMINSTER, June 6.

Not forgetting what happened at the India Office last year, when the Prime Minister entertained a large party in honour of the King's Birthday, tireless precautions were taken on Tuesday night to prevent the incursion of female hooligans , who, earlier in the day, commemorated the happy event in their own fashion by burning a hapless boatbuilder's stock on the river bank by Oxford. In addition to the uniformed police there was in attendance at the doors and within the lofty terraced hall an army of detectives, not all in evening dress. No one was admitted without a special ticket sent out with the cards of invitation. This, of course, was a futile precaution against the wiles of these women, who would not have found insuperable difficulty in transferring possession of one or two tickets issued by the thousand. However, nothing happened worse than a stupendous crush, which made the passage from the outer door into the reception room a full half-hour's journey.

I have reason to believe that neither the Prime Minister nor Mrs. Asquith put in an appearance. Certainly, when I left Downing-street at 11 o'clock, after the Premier's dinner, the host and hostess remained in conversation in the drawing-room. The tedious business of the reception was performed by Lord and Lady Crewe, who were posted at the entrance to the first gallery; and Mr. and Mrs. Winston Churchill, who stood on the very spot of the ground floor where last year the Premier was assaulted by a woman who had fraudulently obtained admission, and for whom Mrs. Asquith, armed with a fan, "went" with characteristic energy.

Among the guests bidden to the Prime Minister's birthday party assembled in the drawing-room awaiting the arrival of Royalty, interest centred in the question whether it would be represented by the Prince of Wales. Up to the accession of King George a Prince of Wales has for more than a generation been the Premier's principal guest at the birthday banquet. It was rumoured that the latest bearer of the ancient title would, on this occasion, make his debut into the Ministerial circle. That interesting event was, however, deferred, Prince Arthur of Connaught, a gentleman constitutionally disposed to take life seriously, occupying the seat to the left of the Premier. The place of honour on his right was reserved for a foreign guest, the Crown Prince of Sweden, who, like his father's ambassador at this court, talks excellent English. Evidence of the catholicity that reigns at No. 10 Downing-street was forthcoming in the fact that the Archbishop of Canterbury, seated next to the Crown Prince, was faced by the Papal Legate, Cardinal Bourne, who made the most of the lively company of Prince Arthur. There were, of course, no speeches and only one toast, "The King," to whose health and happiness on many future birthdays the distinguished company upstanding drank a bumper.

The death of Mr. Alfred Austin provides Mr. Asquith with an opportunity so shrewd a man is not likely to let slip of abolishing an office which has little—not always a decent ode—to recommend it. Lord Tennyson died in the year that brought Mr. Gladstone back to brief and final tenure of office, bringing his sheaves with him in the form of a new Home Rule Bill. Appointment of a successor to the Laureateship was embarrassed by the fact that there was only one man worthy to walk in Tennyson's shoes, and he being Swinburne was regarded as impossible. Mr. Gladstone accordingly left the post vacant, a judicious compromise adopted by Lord Rosebery. Lord Salisbury, coming into office in 1895, knowing and caring as little about poetry, as did Lord Palmerston, very nearly eclipsed that statesman's memorable bestowal of a Civil List pension upon the Poet Close. He made Mr. Alfred Austin poet laureate. In the course of his 18 years' incumbency of office, Mr. Austin only once succeeded in commanding public attention for his official verse. Unfortunately, it was centred upon some halting lines entitled "Jameson's Raid," in the course of which he almost hysterically applauded what was generally recognised as the most deplorable escapade that ever hurried on a terrible war. For the rest, his poetical effusions appearing from time to time, whilst equally lacking in grace and beauty, were hopelessly whelmed in the commonplace. As with the aloe, nature can only produce one Tennyson in a century. The country will be content to await the due coming of a second before handing to another Poet Laureate the myrtle crown and the yearly tribute of a cask of wine that pertains to the office .

In debate in the House of Commons on Tuesday night, a Scotch member lifted up his voice and deplored the growing custom of Ministers to "bring in too many bills." The complaint is not without justification. But as compared to the Legislature of California the burden imposed is light indeed. A friend lately home from a visit to Sacramento tells me that the Legislature has decided that the enactment of 4000 new bills is "absolutely essential to the preservation of the State and the protection of its people." Amongst a catalogue approaching completion there figures a bill regulating the size of canary birds' cages, and another making it penal for a one-armed man to ride a motor-cycle. With this weight of grandmotherly legislation on its mind, this same representative body has found time to pass a law designed for the repression of Japanese citizens which threatens to embroil the United States in war with the victorious Empire of the East.

On Friday in last week Viscount Cross celebrated his 90th birthday, an age exceeded in the Peerage only by the Earl of Wemyss, who has been occupying a day of his 95th year in writing for the birthday number of "Answers" an article discussing the past, present, and future of the House of Lords. Amongst various distinctive claims Lord Cross enjoys the proud position of being the champion pensioner of the State in Great Britain. For 23 years he has been in enjoyment of the benefits of the Political Officers' Pension Act, added to the Statute Book in 1869, with the avowed object of assisting ex-Ministers who were able to make statutory declaration that their private means were not sufficient to maintain a position proper to their former estate.

The first man to profit by the Act was C. P. Villiers, who was on the list almost before the ink of the signature giving the Royal assent was dry. His claim, as far as Ministerial service went, was not overwhelming. He held the minor office of Judge Advocate-General for six years, and was President of the Poor Law Board for seven. He claimed his pension from 19th August, 1869, and drew it with unfailing regularity till his death in 1898. There are two grades of pension, one amounting to £2000, the other £1200. Mr. Villiers, though he ranked in the second grade, drew from the State an aggregate amount of £30,810. Shortly after his death disclosure was made that through all this time he had been a man of considerable wealth, leaving behind him a large fortune. How far this was compatible with the statement of comparative poverty indispensable to allotment of the pension was a matter that excited much comment when his will was proved.

Whilst Lord Cross has enjoyed his pension for a term of five years less than Mr. Villiers, he has beaten the record in the matter of aggregate receipts. This is due to the fact that he ranked on the higher scale, drawing a pension of £2000 a year. Up to January in the present year this footed up to the precise sum of £40,760 17s 5d. Considering that he was for many years partner in a prosperous Lancashire bank, his ability to make the statutory declaration of comparative poverty was, as in the case of Mr. Villiers, a surprise. The third ex-Minister in the scale of magnitude of pension money is Lord George Hamilton, who, in or out of office, has been liberally dealt with by the Exchequer ever since Disraeli, coming into office in 1874, appointed him Under-Secretary of State for India. Since he went on the pension list, in April, 1892, he has drawn £24,206. During the last 40 years he has also enjoyed the bounty of the State free residence at Deal Castle. Mr. Henry Chaplin comes fourth, with an aggregate pension of a trifle under £14,000. Since payment of members was established life has been embittered to him by a rule of the Treasury that deducts the £400 a year from the pension.

It is a curious thing that since this Act came into operation the beneficiaries have been almost exclusively members of what is commonly regarded as the rent-endowed, land-estated class. The exceptions over a period of 44 years have been Mr. Childers, Mr. Shaw-Lefevre (now Lord Eversley), and Mr. Mundella, who did not live long enough to draw three full years' pension. At the present time the full measure of this exceptionally liberal development of the system of old-age pensions is divided to the last farthing among good Unionists.

A WOMAN'S LETTER.

A Muslin Season.

LONDON W., June 6.

We have begun the summer well; it is a perfect feast of colour, sunshine, and general gladness. London is full to overflowing, and on all sides one hears of its being one of the most brilliant seasons on record.

Women are wearing brighter colours, and with the sunshine and the glorious wealth of flowers that one sees on all sides the world looks a happy place at this moment. We have had some real muslin dress weather, with a dry light air, which all adds to the beauty of functions. One is less tired than in the duller weather; the only danger is the sudden drop in temperature, against which one has to be wary and careful about additions to clothing.

The Little Coat.

One of the features of dress this season is the little coat, of a different material from the skirt, often in a contrasting colour. I may say at once that in tailor-made gowns I do not like it at all. I saw a woman the other afternoon at an at-home wearing a skirt of small shepherd's plaid check with a black coat, which had cuffs of the check and little touches on the collar. It did not please me. It is a patchy style at best; but in light materials the combination of a dainty flowered coatee made of some pretty printed floral silk or ninon is charming, and it is becoming quite general. Women were timid at first about adopting this style, but they are finding out that the little smart sashed coat is far more elegant than hiding the figure by a scarf or some outsized ruffle. It is necessary here to provide for a little extra warmth over the shoulders, and the coatee just meets the case. Thus you see lovely ninon or printed voiles with a coatee in far larger pattern. These little adjuncts are always furnished with a sash and belt, made like a kimono as to the shoulders and sleeves, with a front open to show the blouse or bodice underneath; a great single rose is thrust into its belt. Sleeves may be to the wrist or elbow-length as you wish. There are some exquisite white dresses to be seen, and if Ascot is run in fine, warm weather the sight in the paddock enclosure will be wonderfully beautiful. The well-draped gowns and smart larger hats will all tend to make it a memorable year from the point of dress.

A New Figure.

You will doubtless see from fashion plates and illustrations in various periodicals how strangely the figure has altered. The waist now is taken as the thicker part of a woman's figure, and draperies and trimmings are drawn up on to the waist right in front, with a very low bust, so that there is a straight line from bust to the hem of the gown. It makes for a much more graceful outline than the one which held sway for so many years, and I am sure that it is a much healthier line of figure than any compression. For sports women wear a different class of corset to the one worn for ordinary dress wear.

Tailor-made Still.

Tailor-made costumes continue to get plainer and simpler. Indeed, even in Paris where they were inclined to decorate too much, the best men have entirely given up all superfluous touches, and turn out coats and skirts as simply and neatly made as when tailor-made suits became fashionable. Given the best material and scrupulous fitting, the serge coat and skirt gains everything in being treated as men's suits are made. Serge this year for tailor-made suits is of the fine smooth cloth variety. It wears beautifully, and does not absorb dust as does the rough variety. Serge coating is, I believe, the name given to it.

Ball Dress.

Ball dresses are made narrow in the skirt and short enough to allow for comfortable dancing. Somehow or other the underskirt is so wrapped and so contrived that the feet have more freedom than one would imagine. Over this comes a tunic, fulled at the waist with a flat bow keeping the centre. Then a deeper draping falling below of needle-run net and embroidered with mauve and pink flowers, the underskirt being made of the softest white satin. There is a broad sash at the waist with a flat bow keeping the scheme together. The bodice is entirely plain, made of white ninon with tiny hemstitchings for finish. Thus from the waist upwards the figure looks almost nude, and yet the drapings of the skirt come up into a point, so that it is a perfectly wearable toilette.

Hairdressing.

There is a great change in the dressing of the hair. It is all much higher; in fact, the chignon and front pad, or frame, or what one wears to lift the hair, is all in one, put on like a helmet; they call it "Le Casque," and the hair is swathed and dressed over it; a tiny fringe falls down to the eyebrows, and there is a glittering fillet of diamante, the same style you see finishing off bodices, only these are mounted on a wire. All the great turban-like bandeaux are gone. The hair requires a skilful hand to get the right shape; but it is much more "dressed" than it has been for some time. I see less, too, of that hideous fashion of dividing the hair down the back and making a plait at each side, with which the ears are covered. As a matter of fact, the ears are still covered: you take the side portion of your hair after having finished everywhere else, and take it over the ears right round the base of the chignon, which is dressed on a level with the nose. The swathes are kept in position with slides or flat broad-headed tortoiseshell pins. With small hats I think the covered ears are more becoming.

New Season Hats.

Hats all show a tendency to increase in size. The shops show them, and people are coming out in them by legions. The fashionable morning or river hat is a broad-brimmed white rush hat, with a wide black velvet band and bow. Or you may wear one of these broad-brimmed hats with a soft swathe of silk round it, finished with a generous bow. I was at an at home a day or two since, and saw a very pretty hat worn by a young white-haired woman. She had magnificent dark eyes, and was very bright, and her hat of tuscan, with a wreath of pink roses across the front, with two large black moire ribbon bows at the back, with the brim turned up, was wonderfully becoming. All the newest hats are turned up at the back on account of the way the hair is being dressed. These bows stood high, and had six loops in each. But it is curious how seldom one sees a really pretty hat. They often look better on than off. The very small cap-like hats are getting fewer and fewer. And one sees more of girls' faces than one has been allowed to do for some time past. The milliners are getting fonder and fonder of tulle. They make great butterfly bows of it, for the backs of hats and all brims are generally covered with a loosely drawn puff of tulle, the flowers and other adornments showing through. There are lots of hats merely trimmed with a tiny wreath of small flowers and a full crown of tulle put over the straw or silk, and the brim trimmed with a full kilting of black tulle. The idea is to keep the hat very soft and becoming. There is, as you see, a great difference between the two styles of hats women require. The morning or hard wear hat is very simple; the afternoon hat is more elaborate.

ALWAYS ITCHING, ALWAYS SCRATCHING.

35 Francis-st, Glebe, Sydney, N.S.W.—"About two and a half years ago I was attacked with an itching which gradually grew in violence until it became almost unbearable. In and around about the ears, round about the eyes, forehead, cheekbones, and all around the jaws were so itchy that at times I was almost driven crazy. I thought at times it would break out into open sores. The itching was always very troublesome when at work, and often kept me awake at night for hours; in fact, I had no rest either night or day; always itching, always scratching, always miserable.

"I had special ointments, lotions, and powders, and applied them faithfully, but no lasting relief came. Just a few moments of peace, and then the itching would come back as bad as ever. At last (after suffering nearly two years) I saw an account of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I got a cake of Cuticura Soap and a tin of Cuticura Ointment, and found instant relief. There has been no recurrence of the itching in the slightest degree for over four months. (Signed) Robt. S. Dodd, May 30, 1911."

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold throughout the world, a sample of each, with 32-page Skin Book, will be mailed free on application to R. Towns and Co., Dept. M., Sydney, N.S.W.—Advt.

II.

THE MOSQUE.

(BY A. B. PIDDINGTON.)

The Puerta del Perdon, through which the Mosque is reached, is a noble door of Moorish design and plated with copper, now grey-green with age, on which is to be found the inscription in Cufic characters, "The lordship belongs to Allah and his protection." For the characters and their translation I take the word of Baedeker, but that they are here at all in a door built by a Christian Emperor is not a new thing, for Moorish workmen, before the great expulsion of their race, took pleasure in the pious trick of making the Christian pay for Mohammedan inscriptions, which they passed off, no doubt, as so much mere flowing decoration. The Puerta leads first to a spacious orange court or Patio de los Naranjos—a vast and desert courtyard, whose trees, now old and scraggy, and whose famous fountain, Al-Mida, now dingy and grey, carry on into the desolate enclosure a melancholy concord with the note of sadness and decay in the city throughout.

All the more sudden is the shock of wonder when, having crossed the Patio and entered the wall of the Mosque, through the Puerta de las Palmas, the visitor wakes, as it were, out of the modern and real world to gaze with a start of delight that no heart could be too young or too old to feel upon a wide and silent fairyland of beauty, mystery, and devotion. True, the design of this interior is almost childlike in the simplicity of its invention, the architectural plan having been to cover a vast area, almost equal in extent to the floor space of St. Peter's in Rome, with low parallel aisles of pillars surmounted by arches. Any child with a set of wooden blocks could have thought out such a scheme, or perhaps built it without thought by merely marshalling one arch behind another and flanking the colonnade thus formed by others parallel to it. But beauty in architecture is often what Horace found woman's beauty to be—"simplex munditiis"—and the builders for the Abd-er-rahmans and other Caliphs were of those who builded better than they knew, for this seemingly simple-minded notion of planting upon some three thousand square yards of land rows of overarching trees in masonry has produced, as a result, not monotony, but an infinite variety of vistas, according to the spectator's point of view and the direction of his gaze.

The huge oblong is traversed by 19 aisles or colonnades in its length from north to south, and, as the arches over these aisles are placed at equal distances, there are resultant aisles from east to west, 14 in number. It may seem difficult to believe how such a composition can give anything but repetition of the same view up and down each aisle, and, of course, this would be the case if the eye could be confined to looking merely from one end of an aisle to another. The secret of the infinite variety in this Cleopatra amongst buildings is that, as well as the straight up and down gaze (such as is to be had in the nave, for example, of a Gothic church), the vision of the spectator in this mosque takes in a fan-shaped area to right and to left of the aisle down which he is looking, and this area is full of colonnades seen slant-wise. A well-planned orchard or nursery gives just the same experience; and as in such an orchard you see broadways diagonally on either hand, as well as straight in front of you, so here, from any point at the end of a colonnade, the arches right and left of the direct line of observation fall into radiating lines seen at different angles to that direct line. Fill an oblong paper with 19 equidistant points in its length and 14 in its breadth, and it will be seen that, from any spot on one side between two of such points, you can draw to the adjacent sides a whole series of sides running clear or nearly clear between the points which cover the page. Further, the outside lines which bound this radiating series will be exactly equal if the spot from which all spring is in the centre of the line. But if that spot is near the end of the line, the outside rays of the fan will be very unequal both in length and in the angles they make with a line drawn straight from the spot that is chosen to the opposite side.

Translated into the language of the actual impression produced on a spectator in the mosque, the illustration shows how, looking straight from one side to the opposite side as he stands at the end of a colonnade, such a spectator will see, not only that direct colonnade before him (which will be similar to every other parallel colonnade), but a number of oblique vistas down aisles to his right and left. Each of the outside oblique vistas of the whole field of vision will be equal at the centre of one side of the mosque, while near one of the corners they will be one very short and the other very long. At each opening, therefore, where a stand is made for this experiment or experience, the eye will receive a different set of perspective effects in the heights of the overhead arches and in the dwindling pathway between the columns. In such a space, and with such a number of colonnades and arches, the number of possible combinations of line, angle, height, and apparent size is incalculable.

This revelry of changing shafts and capitals and arches accounts for the bewildering variety of aspect the mosque takes on as you move through its vast expanse as if through a plantation of date palms, petrified into noble masonry by the muttered spell of a magician; so that at times you are reminded of the curious optical illusion experienced in a train, when the trees of a passing wood seem to move away from the line of the train's journey with a look of swimming or dancing in a circle. Some observers, strange to say, speak of the monotony or uniformity of the mosque—it is because they have looked at the trees, and not the forest.

Was this diversity won through multiplied uniformity foreseen and designed? It is not improbable; for the architects of the Mosque were of that race which invented the science as well as the name of Al-gebra, and in that science, one of the most fascinating of chapters deals with the astonishing number of permutations and combinations that can be obtained by arranging in different orders a very few units, as, for example, the letters from A to G, taken in groups of two to seven letters, and in any order, or the number of patterns that can be made with a dozen square patches of colour, arranged with similar liberty. But whether it has come from doctrine or from happy chance, the result has been that perhaps nowhere else has the finite of man's architecture come so near to touching the infinite of his aspiration, and this without employing either the gigantic, as in the Pyramids, or in the mammoth temples with their colossal sculptures of the Egyptian builders, or the magnificent altitudes with which architects in the Gothic style have sent their thought towering up from earth to the heaven they adored.

I have so far spoken of the building as if it stood now just as its four great builders left it; but the Spanish conquerors of the Moors, always more concerned about the victory of their race than the art of the conquered, and about the externals of their religion than the moral basis of their creed, have done three unpardonable things to this eighth wonder of the world. Originally there was no wall where now the western wall is, through the single door in which the Mosque itself is entered, but each of the nineteen aisles was prolonged into the Patio de los Naranjos by rows of orange trees exactly in line with the regiment of columns in the interior, if interior it could be called, which was really only a covered court or promenade, divided and adorned by the columns supporting the roof. We may well doubt whether any approach to any building can ever have equalled what this must have been in its high and palmy days. It is hard to picture now with a blank wall closing off the view of the interior what the Moorish worshipper saw when he walked with thousands of the devout along one of these leafy avenues or paused at the fountain of ablutions hearing the sound of perennial waters such as the Moors brought everywhere, or saw, in front of him, the pious lights of many thousand lamps in the Mosque and on either hand of him

> Hanging in shades the orange bright,
> Like golden lamps in a green light, to adopt the couplet of old Marvell, which outshines in beauty even that famous line in Mignon's song,

> Im dunkeln Laub die Goldorangen gluhn.

But once the original scene is pictured it is not hard to realise how the eyes of such a worshipper would be drawn through this outer preliminary arcade of natural beauty to the fabulous richness of Allah's house within.

But this exquisite continuity between garden and temple, by which the outer alley-way of living trees was prolonged into an interior arcade of their counterpart in marble or jasper or porphyry, has been cut through violently by the wall which built up all the northern entrances merely to provide a sort of chimney-back for the tawdry chapels of insignificant saints. A further mischief was done when the original roof of carved, inlaid, and painted woods, fastened in with nails of pure gold, was stripped off to make room for a commonplace Gothic vaulting. Last and greatest injury of all, a complete church, 250ft long, was built in the centre of the Mosque, and to make room for it 63 columns were swept away. It is said that the Municipality of Cordova threatened with death anyone intending to carry out such a design, and in those days such a bylaw would not have been held void on the ground of unreasonableness, but the Emperor Charles V., who had not then seen the Mosque, overrode this expression of municipal common sense, with a result disastrous then, and irremediable now. The story goes that when he saw it he rebuked the Cathedral Chapter for having built a fine church which could have been built anywhere, but ruined what existed here only in all the world. Yet, as it is, there are nearly 900 columns standing, and the first built portion of the Mosque (which is also the first the visitor sees), invaded though it is by this intrusion, has still its original unity, and a grandeur ample enough to enthrall the dullest vision. The later Moorish builders had wisely continued the original plan, adding field to field of fresh forest architecture, so that, before the church was forced in the stretch and magnitude of so great a range of beauty must have been beyond imagination. It is to be noted, too, that the few chambers built by the Moors, such as the Mihrab (or praying recess) and the Maksurrah (where the Caliph sat when not officiating), are very small, so that they took off but little from the spaciousness of the floors, and that little at the end of the building.

The Mosque is still, except where the church has burst through the original roof, a low-ceiled building, 38 feet high, the columns being 13 feet high, but carrying pilasters to support the second row of arches directly over those which connect the columns. All the arches are coloured in a wash of primitive red and white stripes, and the pillars have all sorts of capitals, and are of all kinds of marble and stone. On one of them is shown a cross, said to have been scratched by the finger-nail of the first Christian captive in Cordova, who was chained here till he died. As Herodotus says:—"Those persons may believe this who wish to; I set it down as it was told to me." The coloured arches overhead are of the horseshoe shape, which is so distinctly Moorish. It would be interesting to know the origin of this fascinating curve, which looks as if some genius, admiring the Roman arch, but unwilling to reproduce it exactly, had suddenly produced a new architectural type by simply drawing the terminals of the curve together. Once discovered, the pattern lent itself admirably to the genius for adapting and multiplying curvilinear ornament, which seems to ramble at will rather than stride with a purpose over all that decoration which we call Arabesque. In this Mosque alone the variations in the arch from the simple original begin with the Puerta del Perdon, where the Gothic form has had enough influence to make the crown of the arch slightly pointed, and so produce a hybrid in this case singularly graceful; though in later developments the blend of the two styles tended to become more like a freak than an invention, till at last, in the grotesque opening to the Capilla de Trastamara, you see a wavering outline, void of the spring and vitality either of the Roman or of the Moorish arch, as well as of the strength and aspiration of the Gothic, the complete expression of the kind of mind which must be original at all costs, and will say anything for the sake of saying something.

But it was not by imitation, or by breeding of hybrids, that the Moors produced their finest triumphs of variety, but chiefly by a spirited and artistic interruption of the line of curve forming the standard shape of arch, which at first consisted of one unbroken sweep of the pencil. This curve they indented with a series of miniature arches all round it, and next, having thus created the indented horseshoe arch, they practised every artifice of interweaving beauty with beauty in the way they made one series of arches carry another upon it, or reach into another laterally. The most beautiful of these combinations are to be seen in the successive arches of the aisle, by which is approached the Mihrab, or Holy of Holies, at the south (the Mecca) end of the building. First comes a broad and vigorous grand arch, single and simple, spanning the whole aisle in which you walk. By this is entered the Capilla de Abderraman, and in front of the spectator is seen a piled-up composition, which begins with three arched alleyways, dividing, of course, the same width of avenue as that through which he has just walked under the single opening. These triple arches seem lofty and narrow by comparison, and are all indented, while from the crowns of the left hand and central members of the set spring right and left the sides, which form an upper arch, striding, as it were, from pinnacle to pinnacle. This is flanked by a sister arch, whose sides have leapt up in like manner, this time from the crowns of the middle and right-hand arch. Over the first three arches and the two above them, and encircling them all, is a scheme of decoration which might be called an unsupported arch (unsupported that is by columns or by imposts), really an arch built on the wall in alto relievo. The three stories of arches thus formed are indented and coloured in vivid primitive tones, and the spandrils or half-spandrils between them have been utilised for Arabesque carvings, so that the total richness is almost unrivalled. Continuing towards the Mihrab comes a similar group of three arches on the lower story, but surmounted this time by three perfectly plain massive curves solidly connected and topped by a pediment, which is the only piece of horizontal line I remember in the structure of the Mosque, and in this and in its exquisite tracery is almost of the Greek simplicity.

The effect of this sequence of three styles is like a crescendo from breadth to luxuriance, followed by a diminuendo back to simplicity, and by such a succession of diversified beauty the spectator is led to the antechamber of the Mihrab itself, once in its splendour of wealth the shining climacteric of a Mosque greater and richer than any outside of Mecca. The gold which plated its inner walls has disappeared, as on the other side of the Atlantic the spoils of the Inca temples have disappeared to satiate the greed and poison the lives of the same marauding conquerors. The floor no longer carries the famous inlaid pulpit in which there were 33,000 pieces of choice woods, fastened with gold and ivory nails; the venerated copy of the Koran, enriched with a binding of cloth-of-gold sewn with pearls, but thought still richer from the blood of the first Othman spilt upon it, has, after many wanderings, vanished like the Ark of Israel from the knowledge of men. Yet the Mihrab is still in architectural richness of design, and in exquisite proportion one of the famous shrines of the world. It is entered through a low arch in which the wheel has almost come full circle, and the outer wall in which it stands is rich with azulejos—the coloured tiles which to this day blaze with a metallic lustre modern methods cannot reproduce, any more than they can the stained glass of the middle ages, or the glazed porcelain of the della Robbias. Inside the chamber is small, and almost cell-like, with a roof formed by a single block of white marble, carved in the shape of a half-shell, the deep flutings of which run down to a hexagonal panelled wall with a wainscot of horseshoe arches; these, again, being aflame with azulejos. Unluckily the walling-up of the doors on the west, and still more the erection of the church, have darkened the Mihrab so that it can only be seen by the guide's torch. But the century-long worship which took place here has literally left its mark, since the whole outer circuit of the marble floors next to the wall is worn to a depth of two or three inches by the knees of the Faithful, who thus went chanting round the sacred copy of the Koran, set up on the pulpit in the centre. And even now when, to us, the Faithful and their faith have faded into rude hordes practising a despised superstition, the mind of the very alien feels in the symmetry, the seclusion and the awe of this little chamber, how surely the strong and direct soul of Mohammed informed the old Caliph and his builders, so that they understood the task of making the flower of all the beauty and devotion of their house of God blossom out of a perfection of measure and type as simple in its way as the Psyche of Praxiteles.

The modern traveller sees this astounding Mosque, with its colouring dulled, its amplitude curtailed, and its treasury of ornament plundered, but as he notices how every column has been polished just at the height of the shoulder, he peoples it readily with its vanished makers and myriads of worshippers; he sees, again, the sunlight streaming in from the courtyard to meet the light of the artificial firmament within; he pictures the floor brilliant with the dyes of Tyre and Sidon in the praying-mats of the Faithful, and he realises how the Moors made of their religion, not only a frenzy that could support them in death, but a delight and a wonder in the religious acts of daily life.

"Cordoba Muerta!" But so long as its Mosque endures, the memory of the silent town will call up the image of death only as poets have thought of it—eternal peace brooding over eternal beauty.

ON THE LAND.

FARM AND STATION.

THE FARMER AND THE EXPERT.

There is not to-day a shadow of doubt as to the necessity of suitably training the farmer, as well as the engineer, the physician, or the teacher. Among the younger generation of farmers there are many graduates of schools of agriculture. These men are not only putting into practice improved methods of farming, but they are helping to solve the agricultural problems of the nation. You will doubtless find diploma students of the Hawkesbury College, and certificated men from the Sydney Technical College anywhere in the farming and dairying districts of this State. Many have their own farms in the Richmond River, Clarence, and Manning districts, as well as at Wyong and Gosford, and the South Coast districts, some fruitgrowing, others dairying and general farming, and, as a rule, reports show that they are mostly doing well.

The education of men for life in the country involves more than the making of scientific farmers and good business men. Their training should be such as will fit them for a life of usefulness in a rural environment. An education which unfits men and women to live the life allotted to them is a misfortune, but the education which provides the training necessary for a life of healthfulness, usefulness, and progress is a priceless possession.

Agriculture is more and more coming to be recognised as an exacting and difficult business. It has its uncertainties, due generally to bad methods and the vagaries of the season, but it also has its profitable seasons. Not many occupations require such wide and varied knowledge, experience, and technical skill to enable one to be successful. Striking confirmation of these statements is found in the relatively few remarkable successes in agriculture, although many may, and do, gain a comfortable living, amid the attractions of a healthy rural life, when up-to-date methods of farming are followed. The farmer comes directly in contact with natural conditions and things. To succeed he must cope with the soil, the weather, and with nature in her varied moods. To be able to win success under these circumstances, perhaps, requires proportionately greater knowledge and skill than are necessary in dealing with only artificial forces, such as buildings, machinery, and goods. These are standard and uniform; they can be understood and controlled, while nature can only be approximately interpreted, and subjected to man's will.

Since these things are so, every agency which aids us in bringing the forces of nature more nearly under our control is to be welcomed. The Department of Agriculture, under the direction of a capable Minister and a thoroughly practical and up-to-date Under-Secretary like Mr. G. Valder, is doing a valuable work in endeavouring to help the man on the land in every direction—by its experimental plots under trained experts, and by lectures and demonstrations at stated intervals in the various farming districts, as well as by affording orchardists object-lessons in the highly important work of pruning, spraying, grafting and budding, cultivation, and the judicious use of fertilisers.

It is gratifying to know that the practical methods of agriculture, farming, and fruitgrowing placed before the people in the rural districts from time to time, as well as the valuable lessons to be learned from proper methods of cultivation, fallowing, and rotation of crops, are fully appreciated by the agriculturists and farmers in whose interests the departmental experts are sent out. Our agricultural colleges and experiment stations have learned many scientific facts which have not been as widely applied as they might have been if their application had been better understood. We have paid for the investigations which have resulted in this scientific research, at least in part, without perhaps receiving all the possible benefit from them. But the department by its extended sphere of influence, by its experts, and by the training of departmental cadets in the agricultural classes and laboratory at the University, under Professor Watt, promises to enable us to gain more of this benefit.

Many farmers, it is true, are inclined to question what a so-called "expert" can teach them, believing that they have more practical knowledge and experience of the capabilities and producing powers of their farms than the expert can possibly have. But this fallacy is gradually being dispelled, and the more enlightened farmers are beginning to realise the benefits of scientific and up-to-date methods. The departmental expert looks at farm problems from a different point of view, perhaps, than that taken by the farmer. He works with a wider knowledge and experience of all matters relating to the soil, and it stands to reason that the farmer who is unprejudiced and willing to learn can get many valuable suggestions from the trained expert. It has been found to be almost a general rule that the better farmer a man is the more anxious he is to have the information, and the suggestions which an expert can give him, while the poor or only moderately successful man more often scorns to take advantage of expert advice. We believe a wisely-selected and properly-trained expert is one of the most important factors in advancing the agricultural and farming interests of this State. The evidence taken by the Public Works Committee in regard to more adequate accommodation for the Department of Agriculture has a special interest in this connection, and the proposal before the committee for the erection of an up-to-date building at considerable cost, possessing all the means and appliances for forwarding the work of the department, is one which should commend itself to the Cabinet as being necessary for the advancement of the agricultural interests of the State. A suggestion might with advantage be made at the present stage with a view to securing the more extended usefulness of the agricultural reference library in connection with the department, which is at present housed in an obscure and unsuitable place up in the dome of the Lands Office. Provision should be made in the new offices for a properly-equipped information bureau, where the man who is interested in agricultural and other rural problems, as well as the departmental expert, may have ready access to the vast stores of useful information and valuable current publications, at present practically out of his reach, and where the public can obtain information on agricultural and farming matters.

THE WOOL TRADE.

SOME WEAKENING INFLUENCES.

A slack period prevails, as far as wool is concerned. Stud and flock sheep have been filling some of the stores during the week, and flockmasters have been concerned more in securing fresh blood to maintain, or improve upon their flocks than in selling wool. Some of the passed-in lots from last week's auctions have been realised at prices on a par with auction rates. There is a good inquiry for scoured skin wools, which are now of good length. The demand is strong for the better qualities; but values are barely maintained, especially for the lower grades of merino and for crossbreds, slight concessions being necessary to effect sales.

The statistical position is a good one, and it is fortunate that at the present time so little wool is available. If the auctions that were arranged in Brisbane, to precede the next series in Sydney, had not been postponed, it is doubtful if more than 25,000 bales would have been catalogued; and, judging from present wool arrivals in Sydney, the quantity likely to be offered in Sydney at the end of this month is within very moderate dimensions. The only centre offering wool in quantity at the present time is London. With a stringent money market, a disturbed situation in the Balkans, and the United States tariff still in the throes of the Senate, the position in London is not too satisfactory. The bulk of the wools to be offered there this year have been catalogued; and the financial as well as the international political situation has not been too satisfactory during the period that the wool has been submitted. Doubtless, those out for cheap wool have not been slow to take advantage of the situation. But holders are inclined to be firm.

From the fact that it is proposed to carry over from 40,000 to 50,000 bales to the next series, out of the 171,000 bales available for the July London sales, it is evident that holders have as much or more faith in the position six weeks to two months hence than they have at the present time. There is some prospect of the trouble in the Balkans being settled, and of the free wool bill in the United States becoming operative, by the time the next London series are in progress. If those hopes are in a fair way to being realised, the financial stringency would probably pass away, or become less acute, and the statistical wool position again assert itself. Fortunately, as far as wool production is concerned, there is a splendid outlook. The trade will probably handle in the forthcoming season one of the best clips; and, as no great weight of wool stands in the way, it should pass into consumption as speedily as it becomes available. With a calmer atmosphere in Europe, a lower tariff or free wool in the United States, and other world markets expanding, the season should be a prosperous one. In the meantime, there is one of those slight depressions that occasionally accompany the most successful periods.

EFFECT OF U.S.A. FREE WOOL.

There can be no doubt that if the present prohibitive tariff on wool in the United States is removed it will expand the Australian markets, and its effects should speedily be felt. Most American wool-users are going "dead slow" in buying the staple, pending a settlement of the tariff. Even with a 5½d per lb duty they had to secure Australian wools for their requirements. They could only look at the lightest condition greasy, as the scoured wool duty is 16½d per lb. An absence of duty would set American users free to operate on all classes of wool, and doubtless Australia would feel the benefit more than any other country.

CANADA AND THE TARIFF.

It would seem from statements made in the "Monetary Times," by Mr. John Hallam, a Toronto wool-dealer, that Canada was looking to capturing the bulk of the wool trade with the United States. He says: "There is a wrong impression prevailing among some growers and dealers, that in case of free trade with the United States, that Canada would have that market practically to itself. This is wrong, as the United States in 1912 imported 193,400,713lb of wool, which is about 17½ times the total production of wool in Canada, and in 1896, when the Wilson Bill went into effect, removing the tariff from wool, as an example to show that other nations are alive to the situation, and are ready to take advantage of all opportunities to expand their trade at the earliest possible moment, a vessel laden with wool lay outside Boston Harbour for three days, waiting for the time to arrive when the duty would be removed and she be enabled to land her cargo on a free trade basis."

Writing with reference to the wools grown, used, and exported by a country like Canada, the same authority says that . . . "No country produces all the grades of wool which are best adapted to all the uses to which wool is put; hence each country exports its surplus of a particular grade, and imports the grades of wool which it requires to manufacture its products to the best advantage. This explains the reason for the exporting of 1,196,924 pounds of wool from Canada during the fiscal year of March 3, 1911 (416,166 pounds being exported to the United States), while during the same period 6,422,396 pounds were imported into Canada (876,406 pounds being imported from the United States). This shows that we imported 5,855,472 more pounds of wool into Canada during that year than we exported, and when we take this amount in connection with approximately 11,000,000 pounds, which is produced in Canada, it gives an idea of the great importance the manufacture of woollen goods is to the Dominion."

Coming to the question of the effect of the free tariff on values, Mr. Hallam says:—"With the tariff removed, with the world's production of 2,952,782,985 pounds to draw upon, with the normal production and consumption of wool in other countries, with the markets of the world open to all buyers, there cannot be any great change in prices of wool in countries outside of the United States on account of the removal of the tariff, and Canadians will have to be satisfied with receiving the preference over other nations in the trade with the United States on account of their proximity to the American markets, with prices practically the same as at present, subject only to the usual fluctuation in the world's market occasioned by the universal law of supply and demand."

BENEFIT TO AUSTRALIA.

What Australians look for as the result of free wool into America is a further broadening of the market; of a stimulus that comes from increased and wider competition. If one section lags, there are other sections active, supporting the market, and not rendering it dependent on any one section, however influential it may have been previously. It is not expected that choice lines, such as America formerly operated on, will be forced higher, but that the bulk of the wools will get all the benefit from direct buying and probably larger consumption. That this will be a factor advantageous to Australian woolgrowers there can be no doubt, and the sooner the change is effected the better for all trade, including some of the people in the United States, who are at present opposing the proposed change.

BRISBANE SALES POSTPONED.

In the ordinary course of events, a two or three days' series of auctions would have been held in Brisbane during the fourth week of the present month; but, owing to the Board of Health regulations, and interstate restrictions, in connection with the smallpox outbreak in Sydney, the series has been postponed, probably till September. Only a moderate volume of wool was in view for the sales originally arranged for July 22, 23, and 24; consequently, there was a probability that the auctions would not have extended over two days. It was estimated that about 25,000 bales would have been catalogued at the July series. Following that fixture was the second series for the current year, set down for September 16, 17, and 18; the Sydney auctions finishing on September 11, and resuming September 22, to admit of the sales taking place without any clashing of the markets. The weekly series opens in Sydney on September 1 if the roster as arranged is adhered to. There was an increase in the sales in Brisbane of 29,923 bales last season, as compared with the previous statistical year. A number of brands were offered in the northern market last season for the first time, and there are indications that other growers intend pursuing that policy during the current season.

WOOL WAREHOUSING CHARGES.

An alteration has been made in the charge by the associated woolselling brokers for warehousing wool. It appears that the former charge of 1-8d per lb proved high in the case of heavy bales, such as stained pieces, crutchings, and locks. A consolidated charge is now made, which, as heretofore, covers ordinary fire insurance, while the wool is in store. The "Wool and Stock Journal," the organ of the Sydney Woolselling Brokers' Association, says with reference thereto that:—

A slight variation in the warehousing charge of the associated brokers has recently been made. The old charge of 1-8d per lb for warehousing was found to bear somewhat heavily in cases of low-grade wools, such as stained pieces, crutchings, and locks. Taking the average for a number of years past, it has been found that the charge works out at 3s 9d per bale for greasy, and 2s 6d per bale for scoured, and it has been decided to make a consolidated charge in future, the scale being:—

Greasy.	Scoured.
3/9 per bale	2/6 per bale
1/6 per butt	/9 per butt
/6 per bag	/6 per bag

The above charge will, it is anticipated, be found to work much more equitably than formerly, and will prevent anomalies, such as were possible under the old method.

SYDNEY WOOL RECEIPTS.

Fair quantities of wool for the time of the year have been received by rail and boat during the past week. The season is opening well, and if shearing proceeds under fair weather conditions, the prospects are for wool to come forward freely and early. The receipts by rail and boat for the week, and from July 1, compare with last year's arrivals as follows:—

BRADFORD TOPS.

Our cable message of yesterday's date states that there is very little inquiry for Bradford tops, and that business is practically at a standstill. Fine are down ½d, and coarse ¼d. On the corresponding date last year the market was very strong, and quotations for all qualities moved upwards. How prices compared with the previous week, and how prices have fluctuated this year, since February last, may be seen as follows:—

THE SHEEP DOG.

(BY J.W.H.)

At the recent Sheep Show, while the principal exhibits were interesting to the observer from the city mainly from the variety which the eye could note in the enlarged skin area growing profitable wool on the multiplied wrinkles of the Tasmanian or Uralla merino, the thick locks of the prize Lincolns, or the trim body of the little Southdown, or the limb development of the huge Corriedale, there was one class which seized and held the attention alike of town or city dweller. When the time for the sheep dog trials arrived, the pavilion was deserted by all save a few who had come down from the country to do business or learn a point or two in the production of wool-bearers. And on the lawn and the seats of the grandstand keenly interested observers took their places to watch the contest between instinct and training, assisted by the judgment of the dog's master, on the one hand, and the stupidity of three sorely puzzled sheep—let loose after long confinement—on the other. It did not require expert knowledge to note with approbation the quick and ready obedience of the dog to the movement of the master's hand, or the short shrill note of his whistle, or to watch with almost breathless interest the uneasy "jumbucks" being backed through the race or up to the bridge; or into the yard, when they imagined that their safety lay in facing and stamping at their cautious, but persistent, tormentor; to cry, "Oh!" in sympathy at barely missed success in a manoeuvre so intricate that the dog himself must have lost count of the moves, and of all but mechanical obedience to his master's will; or to send forth ringing applause as the gate was closed with half-a-minute to spare.

But looking on at the scene with no less appreciation, the man with "out-back" experience could not help contrasting this sheep-dog fancy work with some of the visions which thronged his memory. He could see a dreary road, and through the clouds of dust which hid almost constantly the driven and the driver, he could hear the drover's husky call to "Peter," and the occasional yelp which bore token of response from somewhere in the murk, and at the same time gave warning to laggards of the mob that Nemesis was coming. He could see that thirsty drove approaching water after a "two days' perish." The anxious look on the faces of the men in trust, lest the rush should mean the smothering of hundreds of their woolly charge; and "Peter" working everywhere, a quarter of a mile back, cutting off the small mobs to be taken forward with safety, and with no refreshment other than a few laps from the crown of his master's hat, supplied from the ever handy water bag, "working" those sheep with an ability equalling that displayed by Kipling's "Sergeant What's-his-name." He sat again in the circle round the camp fire, with his pannikin in his hand, the unconscious "Peter" licking his sore feet, or dreaming in his slumber of that rush that "took him all his time" to block; and listened while the gratified controller of the dog's destinies told other stories of his hero's prowess, and smiled at the brief colloquy at the boundary gate, next morning, when the squatter said, coaxingly, "I'll give you £10 for that dog, mate," and received the reply, "I thank you, Sir, but that dog's my living," as the drover passed on with his "day's cut;" to leave the squatter to break the tenth commandment for many a week afterwards. I dare say Peter's pedigree would look small beside that of many a competitor at the show last week. It had found its way into no kennel club's stud book, and the camp fire chronicle abovementioned could only record: "Who bred Peter? Well, he's the best dog I ever owned. I travelled with him over some of the hardest trips in the country for over four years, until he picked up a bait, when we was crossing Jones's run, on the Nanekerawa, during the big drought. I'd a went for the cove for damages, but I could see he was near as much cut up about it as I was, knowin' the dog as he did, and he swore he'd sack the boundary rider as dropped that bait near the stock route, if he could only find him out. Peter's mother was by an imported dog that Old Murray, on the Bland, owned. He gave me my pick of the litter, for the loan of my dog one shearing time, and I was lucky enough to pick Peter, though he ain't much like the old dog, after all."

Other memories came to the man sitting on the grandstand seats the other day. He could see men busy over the "hand lambing" of 50 years ago, before the days of wire-fencing, and its haphazard methods. The shepherd, with an eye to his "bonus" for all over 80 per cent., was very busy with his "green" lambs. They were on the land needed for yesterday's "drop," and must be moved across the gully before sundown. And there was the dog. With the instinctive respect for motherhood, and its concern for the safety of its offspring, the only check upon his activity, the old, shaggy haired dog was an illustration of perpetual motion. With a twinkle in his eye that seemed positively humorous, he managed one wing of the awkward squad. The mother's back turned, a kindly push under the body of the reluctant lamb would send it running in the right direction, while a retreat on his own part, always towards the aimed-at destination, would bring a plucky sheep several yards on the way ere she turned once more to greet her following young one. He was by no means silent, this cunning old dog. The command, "Speak up, Sleep," from his master, at the other wing, would bring a deep-toned bark, which would set every ewe in the reluctant mob coaxing her baby to a common centre.

He was not the most popular at yarding work at the marketing pens a few weeks after, or at the woolshed later on. His vocal powers were never to be despised, but he was kept principally at the outside work, and gallantly surrendered the forward scrimmage to the shrill-voiced little slut, whose master was kept at the yards, through the whole of the busy weeks by virtue of his possession. If the sheep "blocked" up in front, "Fly" was lifted bodily, and running along the mass of woolly backs, started the leaders, and then returned to the rear, through the lane lined by the rushing sheep on either side, eagerly following their leaders to get out of the way of the jerky little fury in their midst. And, when that shepherd took his flock out to his own station at the season's close, accompanied by an assistant and several other dogs, a wallaroo, crossing the track from a creek near by, bailed up on a heap of rocks to do battle with all comers. "Fly" joined in the hunt, and the drivers called, and waited. But presently a howl of pain was heard, and with a cry, "He's got the little slut," the old shepherd forgot his age, and sprang up those rocks, and, gripping a huge stone as a lethal weapon, hurled himself upon the struggling heap of marsupial and dogs, and seizing the enemy by the throat with his left hand, pounded the life out of him with the other, while his companion roared with laughter.

The breeding of these noted dogs of olden time defied elucidation. The "kelpie" and the "barb" of modern times seem to have a somewhat hazy origin, if one may judge from newspaper discussion, but the genesis of the dogs of memory was far more involved. The recognised "collie," or "coolie," as he was usually called, bore but little resemblance to the gentle, silky-haired pet of to-day, or to the more active, if less shapely, "border collie" of the showground trials. Some of the most useful dogs showed unmistakable tokens of relationship to the blue, wall-eyed cattle dog. They were great drivers, these dogs, but rather too "severe" for ewes and lambs, or the close work of yarding-up. Still, though they "mouthed" the sheep in a way which would have made the boil ring at the showground in a few seconds, many of them would never break the skin in a whole year's heavy work, while others, who seemed to lean to their ancestors as the "heelers'" side, could never be trusted many yards from their masters.

FARMERS AND LIBERALS.

HIGHEST CORDIALITY.

OVATION TO MR. WADE.

The smoke of battle has cleared away; the combatants have slept after the fight, and have risen, feeling refreshed. Despite the statements made during the earlier days of the Farmers and Settlers' Conference, leading to the inference that the votes given in the country districts at the elections of 1910 were largely revenge votes for neglect of rural or country interests, and that there would never again be implicit trust in Liberal promises, Mr. Wade, the leader of the Liberal party, received full farmers and settlers' honours yesterday afternoon when he entered the conference, more when he rose to speak, and still more when he sat down. He also received encouraging cheers as his speech proceeded. If he had entertained any lurking fear of latent ill-will, the fear must surely have been dissipated as soon as he appeared, and the fact that the farmers are still Liberals in thought and sentiment, Liberals in aspiration, and Liberals in action, could scarcely have been more certainly borne home to him.

He began his speech,—"Mr. President and gentlemen, also friends," and there were cheers at the last two words. Then he replied to Mr. Holman's speech of the previous day, after acknowledging the generous working together of farmer and settler and Liberal voters in many constituencies in this State during the late Commonwealth elections, and as he made point after point the "Hear, hears" which greeted him were perfectly cordial. The reported finding of 10,000,000 acres of land fit for closer settlement in various old-settled districts of the State were sarcastically referred to, and received in the same spirit, but when sarcasm was replaced by declamatory criticism of the fact that, although the present Government dared not bring in a bill to do away with freehold tenure in future, it had tried to achieve the same object by its administration of the present Acts, there were more "Hear, hears." Mr. Wade outlined some of the features of his land policy. The condition of residence on lands taken up when the Liberals came into power again would not be insisted on, provided the selector expended a substantial sum on improvement, and in making the land productive—more than the selector with residence would be expected to do, but residence would be considered as giving a claim to priority. Those who had taken land under leasehold tenure—during the regime of the present Government—would be enabled by Act of Parliament to convert, and transfers would be made simpler than they are to-day. "At the same time," said Mr. Wade, "we say these lands shall not be used for building up large estates." Administration should not be allowed to override the sentiment of the majority in Parliament; therefore, one of the foremost Acts of the Liberal party would be to confer on those people who have been forced to take a leasehold tenure the right to convert if they are so inclined.

Passing from land matters to railways, Mr. Wade traced the orders for extra rolling stock back as far as the time when his own Government took office, and claimed that a substantial percentage of additions were made during his time. He had also carried out duplication of lines, and the present Government had only continued his work. It had gone on smoothly for the last 2½ years, and would continue to go on smoothly as long as it was let alone. The late Government had constructed new lines of a far greater mileage than the present Government had done, and—this evoked a loud sympathetic cheer—had made them at half the cost. These lines of the late Government were both developmental and cross-country lines, and the Royal Commission to advise on decentralisation had been appointed by him. There would be more done in the direction of decentralisation when the Liberals came back to power than had yet been done. Inferentially it was understood that this referred to ports as well as to linking-up railways.

The marching side by side of the Liberal electors and those who gave allegiance to the farmers and settlers' Country party in defeating the common enemy of Labour-Socialism was reserved for the peroration of the speech. "You have seen fit to form yourselves into a political party, and I have no objection to it. Politically, I have no objection to it, because those who come from the country must have clear views of the interests they represent," about enunciated in a few words his view of the new-born party. Then he referred to those electorates where the two parties are already in agreement, and foretold an agreement where none had yet been reached.

Mr. Beeby delivered a very short address to the conference later in the afternoon, but Mr. Wade had overshadowed the interest taken in him.

ROYAL HORSE SHOW.

The secretary of the Royal Agricultural Society states that so far as entries are concerned prospects for the horse show, which begins on August 2, are very bright. A number of entries have already been received in several classes, and it is probable that the season being favourable, those who bring stud horses to the show may meet a good lively market. The demand for draught horses appears to be as strong as ever, and the depression in stud stock for useful purposes which existed last year is not now nearly so marked. It is expected that there will be a good show of hacks, light harness horses, hunters, and trotters. There are three jumping events and a handicap trot in addition to the parade on August 2, and a fine equine display is assured. Intending exhibitors are reminded that entries for all classes and events close on Wednesday, July 23.

A VETERAN AUCTIONEER.

Mr. J. C. Stanford, of Melbourne, who officiated at the two sheep sales held this week by Messrs. Hill, Clark, and Co., Ltd., and Powers, Rutherford, and Co., has probably a unique record as an auctioneer. He has been selling stock for the latter firm for 49 years. Though now in his 72nd year, Mr. Stanford is hale and full of vigour. Few, if any, of the younger knights of the hammer could have satisfactorily disposed of 680 lots of pedigreed sheep, in the space of five hours, as he did at last Tuesday's sale.

SHEEP FOR WESTERN AUSTRALIA.

NEWCASTLE.—The steamer Monaro is taking 2000 sheep, which were conveyed by rail from Collarenebri to Newcastle to Geraldton. On her last trip she carried 1700 sheep to Western Australia, and only lost one. The Monaro was damaged in a collision yesterday, but the repairs will be completed in time to permit of her leaving the port, either on Sunday or Monday.

DAIRYING.

DAPTO.—At the annual meeting of the Dapto branch of the South Coast and West Camden Milk Suppliers' Association Mr. G. Lindsay was elected president; Mr. E. T. Evans secretary and treasurer, and Mr. John McPhail delegate. The last-named expressed regret that the executive of the association had not been able to do more for the producers during the past year, but he was hopeful that during the coming year a scheme would be evolved which would put the milk industry on a more satisfactory basis.

DISTRICT ITEMS.

COOMA.—There is splendid grass throughout the district, and an excellent spring is expected.

DAPTO.—Very mild weather conditions for this season of the year prevail, and there is a nice shoot in the grass. The experiments in the growth of wheat and for fodder purposes have proved very successful, excellent crops having been grown all over the district. An official from the Department of Agriculture is at present in the district judging plots, prizes for the best acre having been offered by the Dapto Agricultural Society.

INVERELL.—On Monday a nine months old foal was missed from W. Lockrey's farm, Robroy. On Tuesday morning it was discovered in a well 75ft deep, which contained 4ft of water. The foal was hoisted out with a block and tackle, the only apparent injury being a scratch on the shoulder.

REAL ESTATE.

NOTES OF THE WEEK.

The real estate market this week has not been quite so brisk as it was last week. People seem to have got into a nervous condition over the smallpox scare, and inspection of properties has to a certain extent not proved inviting to citizens in search of investments. They prefer to play a waiting game, and this has had the effect of temporarily quietening the market. But inquiries for properties show no signs of abatement. Another difficulty that has to be faced is that of financing. The rates for money are still high. However, in spite of these troubles, there are sales to be recorded this week. Messrs. Richardson and Wrench sold a residential property in Bayswater-road, Darlinghurst, for £8750, and a block of land in Bridge-road, Stanmore, for £2600. This was at the rate of £6 15s per foot. Also land on the South Annandale estate, Parramatta-road, for £1500; a half-interest in a cottage at Marrickville for £300; ten acres of land at Bexley for £300, a lot on the Mount Byron estate, Coogee, for £110; five lots of the Salisbury estate, Waterloo, for £178; and two lots at Woodford, on the Mountains, at 20s per foot.

There was an improved attendance at the indoor sale of this firm yesterday, and a more lengthy catalogue than usual was submitted. This included several inviting properties, for which there was a fair amount of bidding. £2300 was offered for two shops and dwellings, and a house in Crown-street, city. For a cottage in Crown-street, Surry Hills, £475 was the highest bid, and £420 was offered for a house in Edward-street, Redfern; while for three cottages in Waverley £850 was submitted, but all these prices were rejected, as being below the reserves, but as the margin in some cases was only small, there is a chance of a deal by private treaty.

Messrs. G. W. Holdship and Craig, Ltd., of Leura, sold a city property in George-street West this week for £6500.

Mr. Percy G. Sharpe reports having sold a number of suburban properties, including a cottage in Audley-street, Petersham, for £825; a leasehold property, Belmore-road, Randwick, £1790; two lots of the Greenoaks estate, Darling Point, one at £700, and the other at £725. A house in Summer Hill for £950, and 25½ acres of land at Pittwater for £1750.

Messrs. Hardie and Gorman have also had a fairly busy week. They sold at Shirley-road, Wollstonecraft, a cottage for £1350. Land in Waverley-road, Waverley, for £460. A brick house in Leichhardt for £425; and two lots of land at Eastwood for £132.

Messrs. Stanton and Son disposed of a brick cottage in O'Connor-street, Haberfield, for £1035, six brick cottages at Newtown for £1790, and a block of land at Rosebery Model Suburb at £3 per foot.

There is still a demand for land at reasonable rates at Cronulla. This week Messrs. Priestman and Co., local agents, sold a number of blocks of land in this district at various prices.

Real estate business in the mountains, despite the winter season, is still active. Messrs. Holdship and Craig, Ltd., of Leura, have disposed of a number of mountain properties during the last few weeks. The Leura Coffee Palace as a going concern, with all land and improvements, was sold for £5500; two cottages at Leura were disposed of, one for £1475, and the other for £1450. Another cottage in Leura realised £525. The firm also sold over 30 blocks of vacant land at Leura, from £40 to £750 per block.

There is still a big demand for farms in the South Coast district. Messrs Stewart and Morton, of Nowra, have disposed of quite a number during the last month. The prices mostly ranged from £30 to £41 per acre.

Messrs. Arthur Rickard and Co. find quite a large number of buyers for suburban blocks on the easy payment system. This week alone over 50 such contracts were signed. It is a method of securing suburban homes for the people that has become popular with the working classes, many of whom have under such easy payments been able to invest savings bank amounts in a home for themselves and their families.

A subdivision sale is to take place this afternoon at Moss Vale, when Messrs. Richardson and Wrench, in conjunction with Mr. E. H. Badgery, will, under instructions from the executors of the estate of the late John Morrice, offer at the Royal Hotel a number of fair-sized blocks, with frontages to the old Argyle-road. The land is situated between the town of Moss Vale and the Browley estate, just beyond the shopping centre and only a few minutes walk from the railway station. There are four residential sites in a choice position, each in area from 5 to 7½ acres; also two fine building sites adjoining the above, in areas 16½ acres and 11½ acres. There is also a farm or grazing block 61½ acres, fronting Creek-rd and Yarrawa-acres, fronting Creek-road and Yarrawa-rd. In addition there will be offered a corner building site at the Berrima-road and Browley-street. Judging from the inquiries, this sale ought to prove attractive to many looking for summer residences in the beautiful and health-giving district of Moss Vale.

PROGRESS OF THE SUBURBS.

VII.—PARRAMATTA DISTRICT.

Parramatta, next to Sydney, stands out as the oldest settlement in Australia. Indeed, its settlement (with visionary expectations at one time of being the mother city of Australia) dates from Governor Phillip and the first fleet. In those early days of colonisation Parramatta was the model capital of Australia, as compared with what George Barrington characterised as "that newly-formed seat of temptation, Sydney." Parramatta without doubt is intimately bound up with the early official life of this continent, and it is associated with many prominent and worthy names. John Bateman, the founder of Victoria, was born there. Wentworth, the Australian patriot, passed the first years of his young life at Parramatta, where his father, Dr. D'Arcy Wentworth, was surgeon, magistrate, and superintendent, and where, too, young Wentworth's mother died when her future illustrious son was only 7 years of age. Bligh, King, Marsden, Macarthur, the Suttors, and other noteworthy colonists were Parramatta folk, or folk more or less intimately associated with Parramatta. But Parramatta has, in addition, associations of the highest scientific import and significance. From 1822 to 1847 it was the great astronomical centre of the Southern Hemisphere, and connected with it were such men as Sir Thomas Macdougall Brisbane, Dr. Charles Rumker, and James Dunlop.

When Governor Phillip started the cultivation of the soil, he put nine acres under wheat, at Farm Cove, to serve 1100 people with bread. It was a failure, and the Governor was forced to make excursions in search of more fertile country. He discovered Parramatta, and write of it: "I have found a tract of country, running to the westward for many miles, which appears to be generally rich, good land." He named the place Rose-hill, after Sir George Rose, a person of note in those days, but later Phillip renamed it Parramatta, a fair-sounding native name. Not unfittingly, it was on the King's Accession Day, in 1791, that Governor Phillip changed the name of the settlement from Rosehill to Parramatta, and on the same occasion the grounds surrounding Government House were named Cumberland Park, in honour of the Prince who, it was feared, would ascend the throne in 1837 on the death of William IV.

But those were days of small things, for at Parramatta settlement was slow. Phillip selected the crescent in front of old Government House, in April, 1788, as the seat of government. But it was not until November 2 of that year that work was properly begun. On that memorable day the Governor, accompanied by Surveyor-General Alt and Captain James Campbell, afterwards first commandant and first magistrate of Parramatta, reached the place which had been chosen for landing. The voyage, of course, was by river, and the pioneers were accompanied by a dozen marines. Amongst the first public works undertaken was the construction of a battery. This was rendered necessary by the ill-feeling between the aborigines and the new arrivals. A storehouse was then built, the military being accommodated in tents. The following year a road to Sydney (now Parramatta-road) was constructed through the thick bush, log bridges being placed over the creeks en route. In the same year a hospital was erected and barracks built. The hospital was erected on a site in the bush. That land is now occupied by the asylum in Macquarie-street, as originally designed Parramatta, at this period of its history, had but one street, "George," called after his Majesty George III., but Church-street was added the following year. It was then that the first Government House was erected. It was built on the summit of Rose Hill, and commanded excellent views. It was a building of one story, 44ft long by 16ft wide, and it was made of brick, with lath and plaster lining. It was undoubtedly superior to the wattle and dab huts which lined George-street, but even the construction of Government House was not too good, for six years later the roof fell in, and then the second Government House was built on the same site. This building was palatial in comparison to the first one, and had attic stories and cellars. Historians described it as "simple, elegant, and well arranged." It was without doubt the conspicuous building of the district, the principal ornament of Rose Hill, one that overlooked the town, the meadows, the forests, and the river. This building was considered of sufficient importance for representatives of the Crown of England to occupy until 1819, when what people of to-day know as "old Government House" was built from designs prepared by Lieutenant Watts, the amateur architect, who is also responsible for the old hospital and for the dam.

To old Government House all the Governors from Philip (1790) to Denison's period in 1861 came occasionally for rest and recreation. Perhaps the most frequent visitor was Sir Thomas Brisbane 1821-5). He loved to come to this, his country seat, and on the eve of his departure he was in the unique position of being invited to attend two banquets on one day, both at the same hour. One was given by the free settlers and officers, "pure merinos" as they called themselves, and the other banquet by emancipists, men who were transported for small offences, and who, having served their time, had been pardoned. The Governor suggested that he divide his time between the two functions, or that they should unite, but the pure merinos would not feed with the ex-black sheep, and the consequence was that the Governor dined at "the Woolpack" with the emancipists, whilst the other faction held high revel at the "Red Cow." The Woolpack and the Red Cow were the first hostelries in this ancient town. The Red Cow, which stood on the site now occupied by the Commercial Bank in George-street, was even 50 years ago a most popular resort. There were two buildings; the one-story one was known as the "Cow," and the two-story building alongside was the assembly room, more commonly known as the long room. A notable ball was held there on the occasion of the coming of age of the late King Edward. Behind these two buildings stood the bakery, erected by a large contractor named Patrick Hayes, then the landlord of the Red Cow. Hayes turned out 2500 loaves a day from the bakery to supply the whole of the Government institutions of Sydney. The late Mr. James Kidman became successor to Mr. Hayes in the business.

But melancholy interest attaches to the Governors' residences of Parramatta. Governor Bourke's wife died there, and was buried in St. John's Cemetery. And even more tragic was the connection of Governor Fitzroy with old Government House. He and Lady Mary (his wife) were starting to drive to Sydney on December 7, 1847. Something frightened the horses. They dashed wildly down the hill, and overturned the carriage on a stump, throwing the occupants violently out. The Governor escaped unhurt, but Lady Mary Fitzroy and Lieutenant Charles Masters, A.D.C., died the same day from the effects of the injuries they had received. An obelisk marks the spot where the melancholy event took place.

Dr. Thomas Arndell, the first medical man to take up work in Parramatta, looked after the patients in the hospital, then situated in the bush. In the same year, 1791, a notable person, John Macarthur, made his first appearance, and to-day there still stands the cottage in which this pioneer colonist and father of the wool industry of Australia lived. It was called Elizabeth Farm, after his wife. Just in front of this cottage stands an old olive tree, said to have been planted by Captain Tench. The first olive tree in Australia. Many other old trees grow in this estate, —willows brought from St. Helena, cork oak from Spain, and English oaks. Many prominent men have lived in this cottage, which is still in good repair, though considerably over 100 years old.

In the same year that John Macarthur arrived the first execution in the district took place, when James Chapman, convicted of the heinous crime of stealing wearing apparel, was hanged on July 28, 1791.

The road to Sydney now had been constructed, and there was also the river; but means of transport in those early days was scarce and the rates were very high. There were sailing packet boats which, upon occasions, took 14 hours to reach Sydney. Then there were the horse-worked boats. It cost a passenger 1s to get to Sydney by one of those boats in the early days. It costs 1s to-day to travel by steamer the same road. But in 1803 H. Kable was permitted to run a stage coach from Sydney to Parramatta, and the Hawkesbury, and 15 or 17 years later James Watsford and a'Beckett ran coaches, the fare being 6s for the single journey.

The above is a brief outline of the work of early colonisation of the historic township of Parramatta, as culled from its official history recently compiled by Mr. J. Cheyne Wharton; but Parramatta was destined to make steady and solid progress. The foundation of a town had been laid in 1792, which year also saw the opening of the first shop in Parramatta by Captain Bond, who conducted his business in a well-stocked shop at the corner of Church and Macquarie streets. The goods comprised a miscellaneous assortment, which he had brought out with him in his ship, The Royal Admiral. This citizen was also the first publican in the town, and hardly 10 years' later the Government established the first brewery in Parramatta.

Mr. John Tull, the first schoolmaster in Parramatta, entered upon his duties in 1796, in a building erected by Mr. Marsden, near where St. John's now stands. His salary was £10 per year, with residence, Government stores, and labour. The salary came from the English Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge. The amount was gradually raised, and when Mr. Tull died in 1817, after 20 years' valuable services, the salary was something like £60 per year. His first official chief was Lieut. Dawes, the first astronomer, after whom Dawes Point was named. In his official educational capacity Dawes was known as Superintendent of Schools at Sydney and Parramatta. In 1796 a gaol was built at Parramatta. To erect this building each settler and housekeeper had to provide a number of logs each week. This order was promptly obeyed, and a gaol 100ft long, with 30 separate cells, was erected on the bank of the river, near the military barracks. This prison was burnt down in 1799 because of its unpopularity, and in 1802 it was replaced with a more durable one on Gaol Green, now Alfred-square. Forty years later the present gaol was opened, and Mr. John Lackey, father of the politician, was the first gaoler. "The Factory" was a depot where women convicts were sent for confinement, employment, and for punishment. It was in charge of Superintendent Oakes.

The first Government grant in Australia was given to John Ruse, and to-day "Experiment Cottage" stands on this land at Parramatta. Surgeon John Harris purchased the land from Ruse, and added it to his own grant of 110 acres, known as Harris Park. The house, which still remains in the possession of the Harris family, is considerably over 100 years old. Surgeon Harris died there in 1838. In the early 'Fifties Thomas Harris resided there, and raised horses and cattle. He also had the whole of the land from the homestead to the railway station under the plough. The estate was left by will to John Harris, and it was so willed that the heir to the estate must always be a John Harris. In consequence of this clause before the land could be cut up and sold, it was necessary to have an enabling bill passed through Parliament.

The first free immigrant settler in the district was Philip Schaeffer. On March 30, 1791, he was placed in the possession of 140 acres on the north side of the river, known as the Vineyard, afterwards as Subiaco. At the same time Robert Webb, a seaman, of the Sirius, had been granted a farm of 60 acres. His was on the north side of the river, opposite the Queen's wharf, and near to Pemberton Grange. As settlers presented themselves, they were put in possession of allotments of land at Parramatta, Prospect Hill, and the Field of Mars. Early settlement continued, but under great difficulties, and when cattle strayed away and were lost sight of for years, the difficulty was increased. Gradually, however, convict days and convict laws disappeared, and Parramatta, like Sydney, freed itself of all these disagreeable early methods of colonisation. A new era opened up for Parramatta, and while it still contained its old conservative ways, in the same manner as did the old English towns, yet progress was as rapid as it was solid. The religious and educational life of the district, possessing as it does such an historical record, has been most marked. The oldest Grammar School in Australia (King's School) was founded in Parramatta in 1832, and its influence is still felt. One cannot forget that, associated with the religious and scholastic life of Parramatta, is the name of the Rev. Samuel Marsden, and others, who followed in later years. They largely changed the characters of the people, and did much for the social life of the district. But it was not until the opening of the railway to Parramatta, in September, 1855, that commercial progress was assured. Residents like Mr. James Macarthur had been discussing the advisability of introducing railway communication between Sydney and Parramatta, and in 1848 a company started the project, but it was left to the Government to complete the scheme in 1855, and this line was the first part of what is now the great railway system of New South Wales. It helped Parramatta a great deal. Six years later the district was incorporated, the first municipal election taking place in December, 1861. John Williams was elected the first Mayor of the district, and the council met in the old Court-House until a council chambers was built, which was ultimately superseded by a very fine town hall. There soon came the question of lighting the town. With a railway station, the people claimed that there should be a street lamp or night light, as it was called, close to the railway bridge, and there the first street lamp was erected. Gradually the municipal life of Parramatta became an important factor in the development of this historic town, and under good local government the district has made very solid progress. Parramatta to-day, stands out as a very fine town, with large business-houses, the centre of a big industrial, and also a fruit-growing, and agricultural area, which is fast becoming dotted with rich farms and orchards, opened up by tram extension on one side, and with manufactories on the other side, the latter having the advantage of railway, as well as river communication with the metropolis. Of recent years there has been a big demand for land in Baulkham and Castle hills, beautiful spots around Parramatta, and an equally brisk demand for blocks for industrial purposes at Auburn, and the surrounding parts.

LANE COVE DISTRICT.

Last week it should have been stated that the Lane Cove municipality, which is on the north side of the river, was once part of the municipality of Willoughby. The separation took place 15 years ago.

"The Butchers' Block," Mr. Watson of the Historical Society states, was on the western side of Burns' Bay, which was, and is known to old residents, as "Murderous Bay." Mr. Watson adds:—"Without in the slightest degree wishing to detract from the valuable services of Mr. John Dobbie, or Mr. Board, in establishing schools in the district of Lane Cove, neither of them established the first school. A school supported by Government aid existed in Lane Cove 80 years ago, it may have been earlier, which was presided over by Mr. and Mrs. William Gunn, whose joint salary was £40 per annum, and a Government capita grant which provided an extra £18 1s 10d, in the year 1838, when 17 male and 23 female pupils were under tuition, and this must surely have a prior claim to the one which sprang from Mr. Dobbie's Sunday School."

POLICE COURTS.

ASSAULT BY A PUGILIST.

At the Central Police Court, before Mr. Barnett, S.M., James Barry, 26, a pugilist, was charged with unlawfully assaulting Jack Marins, an employee at the Crystal Palace, on July 10. The accused pleaded guilty. The prosecutor said that he endeavoured to put Barry out of the engine-room at the Crystal Palace, when he struck him. The blow knocked out four teeth and splintered the jawbone. Accused was fined £10, with professional costs, £1 1s, and £2 2s, medical fees; in default, four months' gaol, with hard labour.

ALLEGED BIGAMY.

At the Newtown Police Court, Horace Leslie Wood, aged 31, appeared in answer to a charge of bigamy.

Senior-constable M'Atamney produced a certificate of the marriage of the accused and Pauline Ethel Pope on April 4, 1908, and a certified copy of the certificate of marriage of the accused and Clarice Cassandra Vincent, on May 20, 1911. He also produced a certificate of the death of Ethel Pauline Wood, which occurred at the Royal Prince Alfred Hospital, on June 20, 1913. He was satisfied that the Ethel Pauline Wood referred to in the death certificate was identical with the woman mentioned in the first marriage certificate.

Minnie Axman, of Foreman-street, St. Peters, said that Pauline Ethel Wood was her sister, and she remembered her marriage with Wood. Her sister had previously been married to a man named Alfred Pope. Her sister stated at the time of her second marriage that Pope was dead, although witness had since heard that Pope was at a buckjumping show in Sydney four years ago.

Charlotte Vincent, of Crown-street, St. Peters, said that her daughter Clarice had married Wood at Rockdale in May, 1911.

Wood was committed for trial at the August Quarter Sessions.

LAW REPORT.

EQUITY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Harvey.)

DISPUTE BETWEEN FATHER AND SON.

Adams v Adams.

Robert Adams brought a suit against William Henry Adams, his father, to compel the latter to carry out an agreement with regard to the transfer of certain property at Warri and Bruce to the plaintiff.

Mr. R. K. Manning (instructed by Messrs. S. J. Bull and Son) appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Ralston, K.C., with Mr. Harriott (instructed by Messrs. D. M. Myers and Hill, agents for Mr. E. F. Thomas, of Goulburn), for the defendant.

The statement of claim set out that the defendant, who was the father of the plaintiff, had agreed that the latter should pay him a yearly sum of £28 10s during his life, and should have the use of all the defendant's lands in the parishes of Warri and Bruce, the defendant reserving the right to make his home on the property. A memorandum of agreement was signed in May, 1905, and the plaintiff had since performed his part of it, and had expended large sums of money on improving the property. The defendant, however, had authorised the cutting and removal of timber by a third party without the plaintiff's consent, and had otherwise refused to be bound by the agreement. The plaintiff feared that, unless restrained, the defendant would further interfere with his right to the use and occupation of the property, and prayed the Court to order the defendant to specifically perform the agreement and to transfer the said lands to the plaintiff as from the date of the defendant's death. The Court was asked to declare that the plaintiff was entitled to the sole use, occupation, and enjoyment of the lands, subject to the defendant's right to a home there, and an injunction was also sought to restrain the defendant from selling or transferring the land or the timber thereon.

The defence was a denial of the agreement, it being contended that if the defendant had signed an agreement, which he denied, he had done so in ignorance of its contents.

The suit was heard towards the end of last month, and judgment was now delivered.

His Honor said that during the course of the argument he stated that he was satisfied that defendant had, in fact, signed the document in question, but he thought it was doubtful whether he understood the nature of the document; and it appeared to him extremely probable that he signed it thinking it was a lease of the properties only, and that at all events he did not understand that it was an agreement for the absolute sale of the properties to the plaintiff at the defendant's death. Unfortunately the whole of the evidence as to the circumstances under which the document came to be signed was for one reason or another quite unreliable. The plaintiff and his wife did not give their evidence in a manner which at all favourably impressed him, and he regarded them both as utterly unreliable witnesses; and for some reason or another they refrained from calling Hellmund, the independent witness to the document, although he was at the court and had been subpoenaed and interviewed by plaintiff and his advisers. The defendant was 81 or 82 years of age, his hearing and sight were failing him, and his memory as to occurrences of eight years ago was evidently very weak. He had no doubt that many things were said and done by him which he had now completely forgotten. He thought, however, that defendant endeavoured to tell the truth to the best of his ability so far as his recollection served him. The evidence given by defendant's wife was, in his opinion, no more and no less reliable than that of her husband. He thought there was ample evidence upon which he ought to find that the plaintiff withdrew from the arrangement with his father in October, 1911, and that the defendant recovered possession of his lands, and dealt with them freed from any agreement with his son. He therefore held that the agreement between the plaintiff and defendant was mutually rescinded, and that the plaintiff was therefore not entitled to come to this Court to enforce it. The caveat must be removed, and plaintiff must pay to defendant seven-ninths of the costs of the suit.

QUARTER SESSIONS.

(Before Judge Docker and juries.)

Mr. C. A. White prosecuted for the Crown.

LARCENY CHARGES.

Frederick Howard, charged with stealing one dress and one dressing-case from the dwelling-house of Alfred Charles Jerrard, the property of Annie Simms, entered a plea of not guilty. The jury found him guilty, and he was remanded to allow of his calling evidence to the effect that he would be looked after by the Salvation Army, until he could find a boat in which he could work his passage back to England.

Albert Bertram, 26, a clerk, was arraigned on a charge of stealing two ammeters, the property of his Majesty the King. He pleaded guilty. Mr. P. K. White, who appeared for the accused, said that previously his client was of good character. No doubt it was owing to bad associations that he had got into this trouble, he having lived above his means. He gambled on the racecourse. His Honor said he found that it was owing to other misconduct that accused stole these articles. He was sentenced to six months' imprisonment with hard labour in Goulburn gaol.

Edward William Phillips, 23, a carter, pleaded guilty to charges of stealing two crates containing crockery, the property of Joseph Chaleyer, and forging an order for the delivery of a cask containing crockery. Mr. White, on behalf of accused, asked that leniency be extended. His Honor said there was a great deal too much stealing of this kind going on, and it was necessary for the Court to pass exemplary sentences in order to check it. On account of the prisoner's youth, however, he would deal leniently with him. He was sentenced to 12 months' imprisonment with hard labour on each charge, sentences to be concurrent.

Sydney Jeffries, on two charges of larceny, was brought up for sentence. He was sentenced to three months' hard labour. The sentence was suspended on his entering into a recognisance of £20 to be of good behaviour.

ALLEGED MISAPPROPRIATION.

Alexander Cornbloom was charged with fraudulently misappropriating a sum of money. The indictment set out that the accused, having received from Ida Gertrude Wiseman the sum of £50 upon terms requiring him to pay £40 thereof to Adele Mary Gleeson, did fraudulently omit to pay portion of the money, viz., £20, being the balance of the £40. He pleaded not guilty. The jury found otherwise, and he was remanded for sentence. The jury made a recommendation to mercy on account of the prisoner's age and family. He was remanded for sentence.

HEAVY SENTENCES.

Percy Pearce, 22, John Crowley, 19, and Richard Jones, 20, were brought up for sentence on an indictment charging them with breaking and entering a warehouse with intent to steal therein. They pleaded guilty, and Mr. E. R. Abigail asked for leniency on their behalf. His Honor took a serious view of the charge, saying he was not aware that burglaries had been so frequent since the apprehension of the accused. If they had been older men he would have passed the full sentence of 10 years. They were each sentenced to five years' imprisonment, with hard labour.

Six lads they went a-camping
For a fortnight near the sea;
Five lads they all contracted colds,
But the sixth not a cold had he,
For he didn't forget, this lad,
To place in his bag secure
The greatest Mascotte in all the world—
Woods' Great Peppermint Cure.

HABERFIELD,
GARDEN SUBURB.
WHY NOT OWN YOUR OWN HOME HERE?

"GARDEN SUBURB!" Isn't there a real charm and attraction about the phrase? Isn't there a sense of healthfulness, a suggestion of freedom and fresh air, a notion of expansiveness, about the title? Just conjure up all the fine features that you would expect and seek in a perfectly-planned Garden Suburb—and then go out to HABERFIELD, and find them.

HABERFIELD is a real triumph of suburb planning, modelled upon the proved successes of world-wide effort in this direction. It is the embodiment of everything desirable in a home-place. It rigidly excludes every element which can be, in any way, harmful, distasteful, or obnoxious.

The pleasant design and attractive exterior of a HABERFIELD Home are set off to the greatest advantage by the clever planning of the suburb. To produce a healthy and beautiful suburb was the aim never lost sight of from the earliest moment. The result is the existence of an estate where the modern science of suburb planning is seen to perfection.

Wide, tree-lined streets, and large, open spaces, together with the pleasant gardens, surrounding the handsome homes, unite in purifying and cleansing the air. Fresh air is the first and soundest canon of good health.

The Villas themselves are all of distinctive design—each differing from the others. The interiors are decorated and finished with close regard to the general scheme of the structure. The appointments throughout are modern and artistic. Each building is sound, weatherproof, well ventilated, and possessed of every necessary convenience.

Prices are from £825 upwards. If you only have Fifty Pounds to pay as deposit, we can deal with you at HABERFIELD. Our Easy Terms of Repayment on a 5 per cent. basis will astonish you. In most cases the repayments are practically less than the property is worth on a rental basis.

Haberfield is reached by Abbotsford or Haberfield trams, from G.P.O. in 30 minutes, or by "through" train to Summer Hill in 10 minutes. Take tram in George-street, and alight at O'Connor-street.

ROSEBERY,
MODEL AND INDUSTRIAL SUBURB,
FOR PRESENT PLEASURE AND FUTURE PROFIT.

The expansion of this remarkable suburb means much to the present resident and to the intending buyer. The great outlay in improvements made by the management enchances the value of private holdings, without any active effort on the part of the individual owners. The erection of every Cottage, the improvement and betterment of every acre of ground, redounds to the definite advantage of the rest of the estate. The main point that the prospective buyer should hold in view is that the improvement in values is practically a daily one. Therefore, the sooner the act of purchase is performed—and the conditions are so liberal, and the terms so easy, that a very slight immediate payment is necessary—the larger the return on the investment. This is just what Rosebery offers. The purchase of your own home—which means quick emancipation from the rent burden—is an absolute investment as well, certain of a clear substantial enhancement.

SPLENDIDLY SITUATED.

The location of Rosebery provides the finest opportunity for the development of an unsurpassed home area. Situated between Rosebery and Victoria Park Racecourses, and adjoining the Kensington Golf Links, the natural advantages lend themselves to the best treatment along the lines established by the experience of modern suburb-planning. We offer one splendid Cottage at the special and unparalleled price of £675. You should examine this Cottage. It is the Home Bargain of Australia.

THE EASIEST OF LIBERAL TERMS.

From any responsible person we will accept a deposit as low as £50, and the balance of purchase money at the rate of 25s per week. These weekly payments include discharge of principal and interest. In other words, no other payment, except the weekly amount, is asked for. Although the present commercial rate of interest is high, our financial arrangements permit us to offer terms on a 6 per cent. basis. This low rate of interest, at the terms, is unavailable anywhere else.

HOW IT CAME.
The Farm Centre was called into existence through the unusual success of a Suburban Agent, who by putting human nature into his business caused it to grow beyond its own bounds.
He found that by serving people exactly as he would like to be served himself, was the sure way to the coveted goal of success, and quietly kept this principle at work all the way along.
Now the reward has come, and he has the delight of seeing it increase as the days do grow expanding with every mail, and extending its scope to every town and settlement in N. S. Wales.
What a good place for you to go for a Farm or Home. Surely there is no other with the same advantages, or where your own expectations will be realised to the full.

THINK IT OVER WELL.

THE FARMERS.

STRIKE DEFENCE LEAGUE.

TROUBLE FORECASTED.

PREPARING FOR EMERGENCIES.

A number of motions were adopted by the Farmers and Settlers' Conference yesterday. Mr. A. K. Trethowan presided.

The following were elected to the executive council:—Messrs. A. Perritt, C. Parbury, and P. McDonald (coastal); L. McLauchlan, J. Perry, and A. E. Hunt (northern); and A. G. Manning, W. J. Cartwright, and W. P. Dyce (southern).

A telegram was read from the Western Australian Farmers' Association congratulating their New South Wales brethren on their decision to form a political party of their own. Similar action had been taken in Western Australia, and had met with general approval. They had floated a co-operative trading company, and "unity of action and free-trade for the farmer" were their watchwords.

"That the Electoral Act be so amended that every elector be compelled to vote" was moved by Mr. A. E. Hunt.

The motion was lost.

NORTH SHORE BRIDGE.

Mr. G. A. Codrington (Delungra) moved, and Mr. J. Flannagan (Gunbar) seconded:—"That in the opinion of this conference such undertakings as the proposed underground railway in Sydney, the eastern suburbs railway extension, and the North Shore bridge or tunnel should not be built out of public funds of the State, inasmuch as they are designed only as a solution of local passenger traffic problems, and offer no advantage for the extension of facilities for the production and distribution of the natural wealth of the country."

An amendment deleting the references to the underground and eastern suburbs railways was carried at the suggestion of Messrs. A. G. Manning (Hiawatha) and H. F. Ogilvie (Bowna), and the motion as amended was adopted.

The following motion was adopted:—"That this conference is strongly opposed to the Federal electoral authorities debarring landholders from acting as presiding officers at the Federal polling booths."

STRIKE BREAKING.

Mr. W. Court (Breeza) moved—"That, with a view of mutual assistance in case of strikes, a register be kept by each branch of members able and willing to take the place of strikers, when delay is likely to cause loss and damage to producers."

The mover said that in the future there would be more strikes. There was no legislation to prevent strikes, and the only way to minimise them was for the farmers to act for themselves. The harvest time would be the time chosen for a strike, and the harvests came at different times in certain districts. If one district helped the other at the critical time the reciprocation would probably be successful.

Mr. W. E. Wearne (executive) suggested that each branch should enrol members in a strike defence league, so that it would be ready for emergencies.

The motion was carried, and a committee was set up to report on the matter.

After a long discussion, the executive was recommended to take cognisance of strikes affecting primary producers, and to summon labour from among the farmers to secure the delivery of such produce, or to have it stowed in the ships.

FARMERS AND IMMIGRATION.

Regarding immigration Mr. J. E. Jelbart (Burrumbuttock) proposed and Mr. S. Dickenson (Crowther) seconded a proposal to appoint a committee to inquire into the immigration problem, and to present a report on the advisableness of the association's carrying out, in conjunction with the State and Federal Governments, a scheme of immigration from the rural districts of the British Islands and Europe to the farming districts of the State.

The report of a committee on immigration was adopted. It was decided to establish a register of the requirements of members of the association in regard to male and female workers, and to endeavour to make arrangements with the State and Federal Governments to secure the workers required from the British and European country districts. The Government was recommended to appoint a commissioner with special knowledge of country conditions to select the immigrants.

After the luncheon adjournment the president, Mr. Robert Patten, M.P., who returned by the Melbourne express in the morning, took the chair.

On the motion of Mr. J. J. Cullen (Wagga), seconded by Mr. W. Weedon (Lockhart), a resolution was carried in favour of the term of residence on purchases under the Closer Settlement Act being reduced to five years.

The Carrathool and Temora branches submitted the following motion:—"That the Crown Lands Act be so amended that holders of settlement leases and homestead selections shall have the right to convert their holdings up to an unimproved capital value of £5000."

The following amendment was agreed to:—"That homestead selectors and holders of settlement leases be allowed to convert their lands into conditional purchase or conditional leases according to the opinion of the local land board as to a living area."

MOTIONS ADOPTED.

Conference agreed to motions urging the Government to institute a vigorous policy of pioneer railway construction, to regulate the conditions of the working of all industrial employment agencies to amend the Arbitration Act so as to compel the unions to pay a sum into a Government fund as a guarantee of the preservation of awards, to make provision for apprenticing unskilled labourers and youths for farm work, and recommending that the Public Works Committee should be a body of men entirely outside members of Parliament.

It was resolved, in regard to stock routes not required for travelling stock purposes, that they should be made available for bona fide settlement after inquiry by a locally constituted board taking evidence as to what could be judiciously curtailed, and what retained, so doing away with the system of special leases, which is objected to.

It was decided that all Crown lessees entitled to tenant right in improvements should be paid by the Government, and not as at present by the incoming tenant. It was represented by the Liverpool Plains District Council that Crown lessees be allowed to dispose of timber without paying royalty instead of destroying same, on land in course of preparation for cultivation, and that the provision of the Forestry Act requiring lessees to give notice to the forestry officers be suspended in regard to all timber on such land.

The conference carried a motion criticising the action of the Minister in refusing to allow members of shire councils and pastures protection boards to be members of land boards.

GRETA COLLIERY FATALITY.

MR. EDDEN MAKING INQUIRIES.

The Minister for Mines (Mr. A. Edden) has received a report from Inspector Bates, of the Mines Department, in respect to the accident at the Central Greta colliery on Thursday, as a result of which one man is missing, and is presumed to have perished under a fall of the roof.

As a result of this report the Minister has ordered a full inquiry to be made into the matter. He has given instructions for a Crown Law officer to be sent up for the inquest.

NO-LICENSE AT BURWOOD.

MR. D. R. HALL'S ADVOCACY.

Mr. Hall (Attorney-General) yesterday afternoon opened a bazaar at Burwood in aid of the local no-license campaign.

Mr. Hall said he never had much trouble in finding reasons why people should vote in favour of no-license. The subject was very difficult to argue about, because it was hard to find arguments in favour of the other side. It was just like trying to demonstrate that white was white. There were few homes that had not, in some way or other, felt the evil results of the liquor traffic. If, added Mr. Hall, they got only one "dry" area, it would be preferable to reduction, for reduction merely increased the business of the remaining hotels.

POLO CARNIVAL.

KNOX CUP CONTESTS.

FINAL MATCHES TO-DAY.

To-day will see the final contests of the 1913 Dudley Polo Carnival. It is the fourth year that the Dudley Cup has been fought for. In 1910 Narromine first secured the honour; in 1911 Muswellbrook was victorious; last year the trophy went to a team led by Lord Denman. This year it is generally anticipated that the Western Rough-riders will again carry off the prize, for, having decisively defeated Sydney A, Narromine ought easily to beat Sydney B.

Yesterday's programme was chiefly confined to the semi-finals for the Knox Cup. The surprise of the day was the defeat of Cooma at the hands of Narromine B. Judging by their showing against Sydney B, the Westerners were not thought to have a chance. But a marvellous reversal of form was shown, E. Ryrie giving a fine exhibition, reminiscent of his play some years ago. Besides the Cooma ponies had already suffered in three previous contests, and could not withstand the dashing Narromine attack.

Muswellbrook and Harden supplied the other semi-final match. The play was fast. In this their first appearance in Dudley Cup matches Harden have created a good impression. But the Hunter River champions proved too strong. H. H. White and Bruce White were on the ball all the time, and despite brilliant stick work by W. Ross, the Southern red jackets could not secure a lead. Muswellbrook will therefore meet Narromine B in the Knox Cup final, and Narromine has a handicap of 5 goals, but even with this lead Muswellbrook should win.

KNOX CUP.

MUSWELLBROOK v HARDEN.

Teams.—Muswellbrook (colours, royal blue): Back, D. M. Bell; 1, A. Pearse; 2, B. White; 3, H. H. White (captain).

Harden (colours, red and white): Back, A. Bunyan; 1, K. M'Donnell; 2, J. K. Ross; 3, W. F. Ross.

With one goal in their favour at the outset, Harden opened up in fine style, but the Muswellbrook combination was superior, and Bruce White evened things up in the first chukka by securing a goal. For three hard-fought periods Harden tried to score, but failed. Even when the Ross brothers eluded the blue forwards Pearse sent them back. M'Donnell was not up to the form he showed in the previous games, and Bunyan was slow. H. White and Pearse goaled for the Northerners, and the third chukka ended with the score 3 to 1 against Harden. But after that the red jackets livened up. Bunyan was great in defence, and M'Donnell did some fine dashes, and from then till the end of the game it was fairly even.

W. Ross scored two fine goals for Harden, but the blues maintained their lead through two goals by the White brothers. Several times Harden threatened the line, and 8 behinds were scored, several being very close to the posts. Fine rallies up and down won loud applause from the crowd, but always the blues led. A goal by J. K. Ross was set off by one by H. White, and try as they would Harden could not reduce the margin. M'Donnell was in good form towards the end, and W. Ross played excellently. The final bell went with Muswellbrook winners by 6 goals 11 behinds to Harden's 4 goals 8 behinds.

COOMA v NARROMINE.

Teams.—Cooma (colours, sky blue): Back, G. Garnock; 1, V. Allen; 2, N. E. Allen; 3, H. Hepburn.

Narromine B (colours, white, red diamonds): Back, N. R. Beveridge; 1, R. Agnew; 2, C. E. Ryrie; 3, F. M. Mack (captain).

This game was a great surprise. Cooma in form should have won easily, but their horses were tired and stiff from three hard contests. Narromine played up wonderfully well, but for a time the Monaro men had all the best of the game. Both teams had a handicap of 5 goals, and Cooma added 2 more in the first period to Narromine's 1. N. Allen was prominent for Cooma getting both goals. The Southerners' stick work was far superior to Narromine's. N. Allen secured a third goal in the next chukka, while Narromine was stationary; then Hepburn goaled. But the Diamonds were getting into their stride. Twice Ryrie beat the Cooma field and goaled. Then Mack got a second goal and Ryrie a third. For three hardly-fought periods Cooma failed to score, but Narromine, putting a lot of dash into their work, took the lead. A goal by Ryrie was one of the finest efforts of the carnival. He eluded the field, went the whole length of the ground, then centred beautifully, and goaled, amid great applause. At the end of the fifth chukka the record was Narromine, 5 goals 2 behinds; Cooma, 4 goals 9 behinds.

Cooma was unlucky in registering too many minors, through being too anxious to drive home when nearing the line. Narromine, on the other hand, drove very straight, taking careful aim, and only 2 behinds were recorded. Still in the ascendant the diamonds hustled their tired adversaries. Mack landed another goal after a great run, and Ryrie once more hoisted the red flag. V. Allen, playing in place of the injured Crisp, now goaled for Cooma, after Garnock had made a great run, but this was their final score. Several times they just missed the post, and luck was against them. Beveridge was a vastly improved back, while Agnew well supported Ryrie in his headlong charges. N. Allen played best for Cooma, but the whole side played well. When the 5 goals handicap were added to each, Narromine was victorious by 12 goals 3 behinds to 10 goals 13 behinds. But Cooma, like Harden, had made a very creditable first appearance in the Dudley Cup carnival.

OHIO v GLEN INNES.

This was purely an exhibition game, having no bearing on the competitions. The Nivison brothers attacked strongly at the outset, and scored 3 goals to Glen Innes's nil; but soon the White brothers got going, and with Dutton in support, landed 6 goals, while Ohio was stationary. The final scores were:—Glen Innes, 6 goals 6 behinds; Ohio, 3 goals 3 behinds.

LAME HORSES.

RESULT OF POOR SHOEING.

INSTRUCTOR'S EVIDENCE.

Much of the lameness in horses is due to bad shoeing by men who have not even a fair knowledge of anatomy. Mr. John Curnow, a master farrier, who is instructor in farriery at the Technical College, gave this evidence at yesterday's sitting of the Royal Commission to inquire into the operation of the Arbitration Act.

Many of the workmen in the business failed to appreciate that the subject, i.e., the horse, was a living structure, continued Mr. Curnow. At present the right kind of boys were not attending the classes at the Technical College. The classes were attended chiefly by boys who intended to go upon the land. They wanted a knowledge of shoeing so that they could attend to their own horses. The boys who were really wanted were those who intended to take up farriery as a trade, but this class was not being obtained. The boys seemed to find much greater attraction elsewhere at night.

"The class is rather making bad amateurs than good professionals," sugested the Commissioner, Mr. A. B. Piddington, K.C.

Mr. Curnow agreed. He thought that it would be a good thing if employers were made to pay their apprentices dues for a course in farriery at the Technical College.

If the penalty clauses in the Arbitration Act were strictly enforced, it would have the effect of preventing strikes, or, diminishing them greatly, Mr. Curnow said. Insistence of payment of fines for striking would make men more careful in deciding to throw down their tools. These clauses were not enforced as strictly as they should be.

Witness added that during the past 12 years farriers' employees had received increases in their wages amounting to 33 1-3 per cent. The increase in prices to customers amounted to about 20 per cent.

Mr. Lewis F. G. Oswald, proprietor of Oswald's Bond, and a member of the Sydney Free and Bonded Stores' Association, also gave evidence.

GOVERNMENT HOUSE CASE.

APPEAL TO PRIVY COUNCIL.

COWRA, Friday.

In response to a numerously-signed requisition, a public meeting, called by the Mayor (Alderman Montgomery), was held last night to enable residents and ratepayers of Cowra and district to show their sympathy with the Governor-General, and their loyalty to the King and Empire, and also as an expression of appreciation of the action taken by the Citizens' Committee at Sydney.

A subscription list was opened in support of the proposed appeal to the Privy Council against the eviction of the Governor-General from Government House, Sydney, and about £25 was handed in, further sums being promised. Mr. T. Henley, M.L.A., addressed the meeting.

THE SHIRES' VOTE.

MR. BRINER'S CRITICISM.

BOWRAVILLE, Friday.

Mr. Briner, M.L.A., in a letter to the secretary of the Macksville Advancement Association, refers to the recent visit of the local government engineer, Mr. Jones, to Nambucca, who passed through the district in a motor car, as a waste of time. He says: "The Government has deprived the shires of Bellingen and Dorrigo of £37,000 for the current year. That one act of the Minister," he says, "in overriding an Act of Parliament, should keep the Labour crowd out of office for the rest of their lives if the Liberals will only rise to the occasion, and think of something besides Sydney and suburbs."

THEFT AT DOUBLE BAY.

Mrs. Florence Sheehan has reported to the Sydney detective office that, on Thursday afternoon, she missed two old gift-rings (valued at £30) from her house, No. 1 Court-road, Double Bay.

Weakness overcome, Anaemia remedied, Ill-health banished, Lost Vitality restored.

Every wineglassful of "Wincarnis" creates a definite amount of new strength, new vigour, new vitality, and new life. And this is the reason. "Wincarnis" (the wine of life) is a tonic, restorative, blood-maker and nerve food. Its first effect is to promote a feeling of invigoration. Then it enriches and revitalises the blood, soothes and feeds the nerves, rebuilds the wasted tissue of the body, and surcharges the whole system with renewed vigour and vitality. That is why every wineglassful of "Wincarnis" makes you stronger and healthier than you were before. If you suffer from Anæmia, Sleeplessness, Brain-fag, Weakness, Debility, Exhaustion, Lowered Vitality, Nervous Disorders, or if you are merely "run-down" or "out-of-sorts," we urge you to commence taking "Wincarnis" to-day. Remember that "Wincarnis" has an unrivalled reputation of nearly thirty years' standing—that it is recommended by over 10,000 doctors—and that countless thousands of sufferers have proved, beyond question, that it gives new life to the invalid, renewed strength to the weak—increased vigour to brain-workers—and a wealth of health to everyone.

Will you try just one bottle?

WINCARNIS

To-day is the best day to commence taking "Wincarnis." Buy a bottle to-day from your Wine Merchant or Licensed Chemist or Grocer, and test its Marvellous Strengthening Properties.

NEWCASTLE.

WEEK'S COAL TRADE.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

For the week ending to-day the exports of coal amounted to 121,306 tons, of which 75,115 were for the other States and New Zealand, and 46,191 for oversea ports. Details are:—Victoria, 31,400 tons; South Australia, 30,770; Western Australia, 7140; Queensland, 2650; Tasmania, 1600; New Zealand, 1555; Chile, 15,333; Java and Strait Settlements, 1336; Philippine Islands, 8556; U.S.A., 6842; United Kingdom and Continent, 1200; and Japan, 900 tons.

The Rev. J. J. O'Reilly, assistant priest at St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, Newcastle, has been promoted to the charge of the Taree parish. He was entertained by the Newcastle parishioners, and presented with a purse of sovereigns. Some time ago he was stationed at Stockton and Carrington, and the parishioners of those two districts also presented him with a purse of sovereigns.

FETTLER KILLED.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

James Hayes, a fettler, whilst working on the quadruplication works between Hexham and Waratah, was killed by the Armidale train, which left Newcastle at 12.32 to-day. He was working with a gang of men distributing ballast from a truck of a ballast train. The Armidale train whistled, but Hayes, thinking it was the signal from the engine of the ballast train to move on, stepped back out of the way. At that moment the rapidly-approaching mail train was within a few yards of him, and he had not the time to get out of its way. He was terribly mutilated, and death resulted instantly. He leaves a widow and two children.

CHESS.

NOTES.

Mr. W. S. Viner, jun., chess champion of Australia, is now in Sydney for a brief visit. His match with Mr. S. Crakanthorp (who has challenged his title) will start at Bellingen on August 6.

At the Sydney School Arts interest is being taken in the current contest for the club championship. Players prominent in the running are Messrs. Bradshaw, Jonas, and Parker.

The second of the correspondence games between the Sydney and Melbourne clubs is nearing completion. Sydney has the advantage of a Queen against Rook and Knight.

(f) This Kt could also have taken the K Kt P. The rules give White the option of interpreting the telegraphed move as though the Kt had taken 1. Kt P, although the Q P was intended to be captured by Black. White's first reply to 32. Kt (B5) takes Q P, seems to be 33. R to K B 5.

THE WEATHER.

LIGHT ISOLATED SHOWERS.

FROSTS AND FOGS.

The chief point of interest in the weather during the past day or two has been the loss in energy of the high pressure. The "high" still occupies the whole continent, and a "Col," or area of relatively low pressure, is again shown over Central Australia. This "Col" area so far has been associated in South Australia, with very scattered light rain south of Farina.

In New South Wales additional very light and isolated precipitation has occurred at places north of Sydney, and a heavy fall of 170 points at Ballina. The other amounts were Port Macquarie 13, Manning Heads and Byron Bay each 11, Newcastle 2, and Sydney and Parramatta each 1 point.

At 9 a.m. yesterday it was cloudy to overcast at places on the north coast, over northern districts, and in the far west. Fogs occurred in scattered parts of eastern districts. Frosts were almost general over the central and southern areas, more particularly in Riverina and the central and southern slopes and tablelands. A good many frosts were also advised from central and south coastal districts.

The conditions yesterday morning were very cold generally; the majority of the early morning registrations sinking to the thirties and twenties (deg.). The lowest were:—Kiandra 21 deg., Bombala and Rockley each 22 deg., Nimitybelle, Cooma, Queanbeyan, Yass, Bathurst, Cootamundra, Murrumburrah, and Bega each 25 deg., and Carcoar, Orange, Adelong, Young, Molong, and Moss Vale each 26deg.

A SEAMAN DROWNED.

FALL FROM THE RIGGING.

The death of Joseph James M'Conville, 27, an A.B. seaman, who was drowned through falling from the steamer Gabo in Darling Harbour on June 14, formed the subject of an inquiry yesterday. In evidence it was shown that at about 9.15 p.m. on June 14, as the Gabo left the wharf on her trip to Brisbane, the deceased fell from the starboard rigging. A lifebelt was thrown into the water. The chief officer ran aft and saw M'Conville floating about 15 feet astern, about three feet away from the lifebelt. The steamer's engines were stopped, a boat was lowered, and for half an hour a search was prosecuted, but neither the man nor the belt could be located, and the Gabo proceeded down the harbour. It was not until seven days' later that the Water Police recovered the deceased's body floating near the Union Company's wharf. The lifebelt had been found floating near the steamer Medic, at Darling Island, on June 15.

Senior-constable Mortimer told the City Coroner that this belt was tested by Captain Newton, and he (witness) heard that it proved to be not up to the standard.

A verdict of accidental drowning was recorded.

NEW ZEALAND GREENSTONE.

The Ulimaroa, which arrived at Sydney on Thursday last from New Zealand ports, had among the cargo for Sydney a huge block of greenstone, which is on its way to Germany, to be worked up into jewellery. The stone measures about 7ft by 4ft by 3ft, and it is claimed to be the largest piece of greenstone ever obtained. It was taken from the New Zealand Greenstone Company's quarry at Greymouth, and is valued at £700. Its approximate weight is two tons. It is considered to be flawless, and samples from it have been proved, when polished, to be perfect in colour and beautiful in vein.

BAD ROADS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I see in to-day's "Herald" a letter from Mr. W. A. Brodie, re bad footpaths. Does that gentleman own a motor-car or ever ride in one? I do not think so, or else he would not put footpaths before roads. I had a look over the ground mentioned in his letter to-day, and was trying to find a very serious fault, but as I do not walk much I have not encountered the dangers of the footpaths that are mentioned. Mine exist on the roads where we break springs, cut tyres, etc. Let Mr. Brodie take a ride in a motor as far as Parramatta or Tom Ugly's Point and see what he thinks of it. Besides having his dinner well shaken up, and his bones rattled, he might be content to see us have a fair road, as the footpaths are not too bad or not bad enough to squeal about. I am, etc.,

THE LAND SYSTEM.

WELLINGTON, Friday.

During the Address in Reply debate in the House of Representatives, Mr. Craigie, member for Timaru, moved an amendment that in the opinion of the House it is desirable that the law relating to the aggregation of land should be made more effective. This could best be obtained by means of the ever-increasing graduated land tax. The Government accepted the motion as one of want of confidence, but the Opposition repudiated responsibility for the motion, which was lost on the voices.

THE YEAR'S EXPORTS.

WELLINGTON, Friday.

The values of principal exports for the 12 months ended June 30 were £21,790,476, against £18,959,997 for 1911.

FARRIERS' DISPUTE.

A COMPROMISE SUGGESTED.

MEETINGS ON MONDAY NIGHT.

There is a prospect of a settlement of the farriers' dispute concernig the objection of the journeymen to the use of the machine-made horseshoes.

Yesterday afternoon the Industrial Commissioner, Mr. J. B. Holme, and Inspector Kirby conferred with the president, Mr. J. B. Molloy, Messrs. Curnow, Swan, and other representatives of the Master Farriers' Association, and Messrs. Henwood and O'Keefe representing the union, the result being that both parties agreed to recommend to meetings, to be held on Monday night, that a settlement be arranged on the understanding that no machine-made horseshoes be used for three months of the year—from the middle of April to the middle of July.

A SCHOOL ABLAZE.

EXCITEMENT AT MORTLAKE.

Not long after 12 noon yesterday a fire broke out in the Mortlake Public school, in Tennyson-road. The building is of weatherboard structure, with iron roof, and consists of two class-rooms and outer offices.

One of the teachers in charge of some infants first noticed the outbreak. A fire was burning in the grate, and she also observed smoke curling round the corner of the ceiling where the iron stove-pipe passed through to the roof. An assistant teacher was informed, and one of the pupils was sent to ring up the fire station.

By the time the Burwood brigade arrived the school was well alight, and groups of excited children, with their teachers, watched the blaze from a safe distance.

The fire did considerable damage to the building and its contents.

THE COUNTRY PARTY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—On Saturday last, July 5, the Country Party Association of Australia was formed in Sydney. As your journal recognises that its first duty to the public is to be a newspaper rather than a party organ, I venture to ask, as a member of the executive council of the new association, that you will permit me to enlighten the public as to the objective of the C.P.A. The association was formed to put an end to class legislation, and if it succeeds in putting a strong body of members into Parliament neither of the extreme sections shall any longer be permitted to dominate the community. Our members look upon the Wade party as being representative of aggressive capitalism, and as being also a party of class privilege. We look upon the so-called Labour party as also a class machine, one existing to exploit the rest of the community for its own particular benefit, regardless of consequences. These two parties have for long carried on an incessant warfare, quite ignoring the fact that there is a third party, which has a right to be considered in legislation, that third party being, of course, the general public. The Parliamentary third party will be representative of the great middle section of the people, and its chief business will be to put the interests of the country before those of any class, and to prevent the extreme sections exploiting the public. We desire to induce all classes of men and women of moderate political views to join our standard, and help us to wrest the legislative machine out of the hands of extremists.

I am, etc.,

WOOLLOOMOOLOO DAY NURSERY.

JUVENILE FANCY DRESS BALL.

The Paddington Town Hall was the scene of a picturesque gathering yesterday afternoon, when a children's poster plain and fancy dress matinee ball took place, in aid of the Woolloomooloo Day Nursery. There was a large attendance of children and many grown-up spectators, who much enjoyed the pretty sight presented, especially in the grand procession, which took place just before 4 o'clock, the little ones afterwards being marched in to the tearoom. Mrs. Alfred Backhouse was president of the ball committee, and Mrs. F. Sawkins and Mrs. C. Heydon the joint hon. secretaries. Much regret was expressed at the unavoidable absence, through illness, of Mrs. Sawkins, who had worked so indefatigably in organising the little ball up to the early part of the week, when she was suddenly taken ill. The committee included the following ladies:—Mrs. Michaelis (vice-president), Mrs. Lion, Mrs. Macneil Simpson, Mrs. Sheridan, Mrs. Loney, Mrs. A. E. Hughes, Mrs. L. Hordern, Mrs. M'Elhone, Mrs. Hayes, Mrs. Selwyn Harrison, Mrs. Rouse, Mrs. S. Jamieson, Mrs. Kenna, Mrs. Harry Musgrove, Mrs. J. Harris, Miss Ethel Ranken, Miss Perry, Miss Lloyd, Miss Babbage, Miss Durham, Miss Henriques, Miss Tully, and Miss Connar.

About 40 children represented different posters, amongst the number being Miss P. Sawkins, Emily Iceley, Barbara Abbott, Philiss Sawkins, Joyce Murdock, Cynthia Macneill Simpson, Baby Musgrove, Norman Sawkins, Baby Longworthy, Mabel M'Elhone, Kathleen Sawkins, Marjorie Abbott, Joan Bourke, Lorna Reid, A. Loney, Joan Bonamy, Ruth Waud, and Elsa Alexander; many of the posters being cleverly carried out. Amongst the other fancy dresses were a delightful little couple, who walked together in the grand march, one being "Bubbles," represented by Master Wunderlich; the other a charming little Japanese girl, Lynette Shenton. A pretty little "Snowball," a "Queen of Butterflies," a little "Masher" (aged about 3 years), several charming Kate Greenaway children, and about 20 North American Indians (boys and girls) were amongst the most conspicuous in the bright and merry scene. Judge Backhouse was an interested spectator during the afternoon, and the ball was most successful in every way. The hall was prettily decorated with many of the flowers and greenery used at the Civil Ambulance Ball the previous night, and allowed to remain for the Day Nursery Ball by kind permission of the committee.

WHERE SHALL I GO?

One frequently hears one's friends exclaiming, when they are thinking of having photographs taken, WHERE SHALL I GO? Careful and prudent people will, of course, go to the Studio that has a long-established reputation—a Studio where the operators are skilful men, who understand the special circumstances of each visitor, and who are enlightened enough to take an honest interest in each sitter. A Studio where grouping, posing, backgrounds, and material are something more than mere words, and a Studio where "the desire to please" is the first and last thought of every member of the staff.

Spend a quarter of an hour some morning looking over the charming portraiture examples in our spacious Vestibule, next to Singer's, in the Queen Victoria Markets, and note especially the attractive offer of our fine Rococo Portraiture, which may be obtained as follows:—

THE WAR IN THE BALKANS.

Until the end of last month the pessimists had found very little to comfort them in the recent history of European affairs. In the north events were happening of which the cumulative effect was to remove an atmosphere of ill-founded and half-understood suspicion. In the East it seemed as if there was at last some prospect of tranquility for an oppressed population, whose wrongs had confused the diplomacy of Europe for at least a generation. The union of the Balkan States for a common purpose was contrary to all expectation. For many years their leaders, though suffering from the same grievance, and acknowledging the same enemy, had been able to agree neither on the terms of an alliance nor on the occasion for action. It seemed safe to predict that Turkey would be able to treat the smaller States as she had treated the Great Powers. She would provide for her own security by playing one off against the other, and would be strong enough to defeat any one of them that might attack her without assistance from the other. The degree in which any one statesman contributed to the formation of the Balkan Alliance is naturally a matter of considerable doubt, but it was the misfortune of Turkey that at the same time there should be at the head of affairs in Servia, Bulgaria, and Greece men of unusual capacity. The obvious occasion of the attack was the preoccupation of Turkey with the war in Tripoli. But the justification was the same as had been urged for many years by Bulgaria and Servia in their appeals to the Great Powers. The allies claimed that they were fighting for the liberation of their brethren in Macedonia, and for the banishment from Christian soil of the Turk, who had oppressed them for four centuries. The allies claimed further that they had waited long enough to prove that the intervention of the Powers could not be hoped for. Their success was in one sense a proof of the justice of their cause. It proved that Turkish misgovernment had gone so far as to destroy the one faculty which had generally been conceded them. The Turks were proved to have lost, if not their bravery, at least their ability to put their fighting qualities to profitable use. The allies on the other hand showed themselves to be controlled by first-class executive ability and to be animated by a courage and ardour which could only spring from a passionate belief in their cause. Their victories were welcomed in the cause of civilisation, not only because they seemed to herald the expulsion of the Turks from Europe, but because they seemed to promise an era of peace in the Balkans, and in the countries surrounding them.

It would be unjust to infer from the dissension of the past two months that the war was fought for territory and not for liberation. The quarrels that have followed the victory are only another proof that a people is always ready to discard the leaders who have brought about its success. Alike in Greece and Servia the Prime Ministers have lost influence, because they counselled moderation. King Constantine has taken advisers other than M. Venezelos, and in Servia the military clique who surrounded King Peter have undermined M. Pasitch. Although we have as yet heard nothing of the wishes of either Austria or Russia, except that they both advise peace, we can guess that the Servian authorities have promised some concessions as the price of non-intervention, if not of assistance. It was King Milan's advisers who made of Servia a vassal State, and kept her so until the accession of the regicide king, who, helped by the Radicals, has made her free and regenerate. The balance of criticism on the justice of the present quarrel seems to be strongly in favour of Bulgaria. It was argued very plausibly that Greece had claims to a larger share in Macedonia than had been allowed her on account of the great number of Greeks in the former Turkish provinces. But the Servians have no case on racial grounds. Their excuse for ignoring the treaty drawn up before the war was that a state of things not originally contemplated had been brought about by the creation of the kingdom of Albania. There can be very little doubt that the war was prolonged by Servia and Greece in order that the Bulgarian troops might be detained at Chatalja, and the country which had made by far the heaviest sacrifices during the war should be still further handicapped. It seems to have been generally thought, however, that Bulgaria, in spite of her losses, would be more than a match for the Servians, especially if, as was anticipated, they were joined by volunteers from Macedonia. The war, however, has kept up its character for surprises. Wholesale lying has involved the campaign in hopeless murk, but the Servians have certainly succeeded in clearing their frontier, and have apparently gained the victory in a decisive battle. Clearly the men who fought at Kumanovo are very different from their fathers who were so decisively beaten at Slivnitsa, as different as the Greeks of this war are from those who were defeated in 1897. Possibly if the war were to be prolonged the superior numbers and equipment of the Bulgarians would enable them to win, although the small proportion of their troops who are thoroughly trained and disciplined has already suffered terribly in its desperate charges against the Turks. But it seems probable either that the Powers have intervened, or that Bulgaria expects to gain more from arbitration than she could gain from fighting. The Roumanians, who, after their intervention in 1878, were deprived of a rich province by their friends, have in this war played the part of the rejoicing third, and are now invoking the blessed doctrine of the balance of power. In their invocation they will certainly have the support of the Great Powers. If Servia were crushed there would be no obstacle to the march of Austria, and a very chequered existence for the new State of Albania. If Servia were victorious Austrian ambitions would be severely checked and the rebellious ardour of her Slav subjects encouraged. It will be left to Russia or some other arbitrator to apply the doctrine of the balance of power to the apportionment of new territory. If peace is concluded immediately two possible disasters will have been averted. There will be no danger of a recrudescence of the Turkish power in Europe. The loss of the European dominions of Turkey has been compared to an operation for appendicitis, but there is little doubt that, however great their burden, the Turks would attempt to recapture them if they saw a chance of success. Secondly, there will be less danger of a war between Russia and Austria, or between the Germans and the Slavs. It may be true that the recent crisis was caused by popular feeling which had no real influence on either Government. But it was at least of sufficient importance to bring about a grave financial crisis in Austria, to cause a serious disturbance in the Russian Parliament, and to depress commerce all over Europe.

STATE PARLIAMENTS.

The various Parliaments of Australasia are getting back to work, and most of the 658 legislators in Australia, not to speak of another 122 in New Zealand, will shortly be busily engaged in making life either more or less livable in this corner of the world. Australia and New Zealand have to obtain 780 members of Parliament out of a population of 5,500,000, whereas the United Kingdom has only to choose 670 (over and above the 629 peers who mostly inherit the honour) out of a population of 45,000,000. It is rather the fashion amongst persons of some shades of opinion to question whether it is possible out of the small population of Australasia to meet so much larger a demand; and whether the character and calibre of Australian State Parliaments must not suffer in consequence. Well—on the face of it it does not seem an impossible task to obtain 780 legislators of average ability out of five and a half million citizens. The average member of the British Parliament is not so preeminently above his fellow-citizen in character and intelligence that it should be impossible to recruit another score or two of Parliaments for the United Kingdom if it were so wished. Indeed, one would say that there were plenty of electorates in Great Britain in which at least five per cent. of the electors would be capable of filling the bill quite as well as any of the candidates in whom the party machines have managed to discover the necessary attainments. As a matter of fact, those who have been privileged to listen to debates in the Imperial Parliament know that there is very little difference in calibre between the average Australian member and the average British member. If there is any advantage noticeable on either side, the average British member is probably the better educated of the two, and the Australian more imaginative and decidedly more fluent. There is very little to choose between those who compose the main body of British legislators, and those on this side of the world, in character, capacity, or even in manners. It is not amongst the average members, but amongst the leaders, that the difference really shows. There is little difficulty in finding eight Parliaments for Australasia: the difficulty is in obtaining eight competent Ministries—eight competent sets of party leaders. It may be that the percentage of Asquiths and Haldanes, Churchills and Lloyd Georges, Balfours and Morleys, that is born to a people in any generation is more or less constant, and Australia with 4,500,000 people can only expect one man of that calibre where the United Kingdom produces ten. If that were the case, and it were assumed that no great intellects are undiscovered or go to waste, then Australasia would have little hope of properly filling eight Ministries when Britain only fills one. But it is impossible to help suspecting that, however many Napoleons or William Pitts were born in this generation, not one in ten would find his way to the highest places in the State. The man whom the period of the French Revolution turned into a statesman or a soldier would probably aspire to achieving a corner in beef.

The men who have led in every field of man's activity, from the making of constitutions down to the "bearing" of mining stocks, are mostly those who are blest with the heaven-sent gift of imagination. Imagination will set to work on whatever task the times provide to fire it; and it is just here that the great hope lies for

...the personnel of the seven Australian Parliaments. For if there is a task in the world to-day to fire the imagination it is that which lies before those who are shaping the future of this country. The Australian Parliaments have a continent to play with—the only one which has not yet been made or marred; and they have all the experience of the world up to the year 1913 A.D. to help them. It is not only the work of the Federal Parliament that appeals to the imagination. The Federal Parliament has several great tasks to shoulder—the most important being the preservation of the whole of Australia from all sorts of interference, so that the various parts of Australia can work out the line of development which suits them best in their own way. But it is doubtful whether the most important field in Australian development does not belong to the State Parliament. It is quite a question whether a man of great powers, who wanted to use those powers for the greatest possible advantage of his country, would not find more real constructive work to be done, now that defence is settled, in the State Parliament than in the Federal House. The State Parliament has within its scope by far the greater part of the big works of development, and indeed must necessarily always have them. Just because it is impossible for New South Wales to decide competently or fairly upon the question of a South Australian storage dam, or a railway to serve some far corner of Western Australia. If Sydney or Brisbane people were asked to determine the local development of Tasmania or Western Australia, and vice versa, the simple result would be that the development of each of them would be held up by the objection of the others who were not concerned in it. That is happening every day in the British Parliament; and if any further instance is needed it can be seen very clearly to-day in the difficulty of Sydney in obtaining the North Shore bridge, however she may desire it, as long as the authority which is asked to provide it is drawn from a larger area than that concerned in the question. The great works of Australia will always remain to be invented and undertaken by the State Parliaments. The State authorities in Australia have to take the place of the great public utility companies in other lands. They have to finance half the enterprise in the country. Their financial responsibilities are enormous. This field of State activity—the throwing open of whole counties for settlement, the turning of wilderness into orchard and wheat paddock, the devising of measures to make happy the lives of those who settle there, the storing of waters, the making of harbours, the planning of towns, the education of children, the maintenance of peace throughout it all—this is a field large enough to offer scope to a Bismarck. A single big city afforded a field large enough to claim the imagination of Joseph Chamberlain during perhaps the most active years of his life—and the results were sufficiently wonderful to justify that devotion. Also there was a famous Athenian who said he could not play upon a stringed instrument, but knew how to make of a small city a great State. Within the boundaries even of Greater Sydney there is scope enough for the greatest. We do not pretend that the personnel either of the State Parliaments or the municipal bodies of Australia is as good as it ought to be. But it is the greatest mistake to imagine that they do not offer a field for statesmen. A great part of the future of Australia lies there.

To-day's "Herald."—Sir Henry Lucy (page 7), after passing notice of the Prime Minister's birthday dinner and reception, remarks upon the vacant Poet Laureateship, and returns to an old grievance, the persistency of life of right hon. gentlemen who have managed to secure an ex-Minister's pension. The writer of "A Woman's Letter" (also on page 7) sums up the season as a muslin one, and notes the new features of the mode. Mr. Piddington, continuing his papers on Cordova (page 7), describes the Mosque, even in its present state one of the chief glories of Moorish Spain. Mr. Fisher's account of an ascent of Kosciusko in midwinter, and our special correspondent's description of the Derby. On page 4 will be found the first of four short papers on our trout streams.

A SECOND SEDAN.

BULGARIA'S PITIFUL PLIGHT.

APPEAL TO RUSSIA.

ROUMANIA DECLARES WAR.

BULGARIA INVADED.

PARIS, July 10.

A telegram from St. Petersburg states that Bulgaria has announced that in order to prevent further bloodshed she will place herself unreservedly in the hands of Russia.

LONDON, July 11.

The Foreign Office has not been advised of Bulgaria's appeal to Russia, but Continental advices confirm the report.

Continental diplomatic circles regard the appeal as an indication that it was diplomacy at Sofia, and not the Bulgarian army, that lost the game. They predict the downfall of Dr. Daneff, the Bulgarian Premier, as a result of his countering the Czar's peace proposals.

French diplomatists foresee that while Russia's acceptance of Bulgaria's appeal makes for peace in the Balkans, it is less assuring in regard to the European balance. They fear counter action on the part of Austria, who has been consistently rebuffed throughout.

Viennese quarters regard the appeal as indicating the complete failure of the Russophile policy. Dr. Daneff sacrificed military necessities to political considerations in rejecting General Savoff's plan of campaign.

It is believed that Bulgaria will now be deprived of a large share of the fruits of the Turkish war.

VIENNA, July 11.

The "Neue Freie Presse" states that Bulgaria addressed all the Powers, and not Russia alone. It is added that the step was taken on the advice of France acting in agreement with her partners in the Triple Entente.

SERVIAN DEMANDS.

LONDON, July 11.

It is understood that Servia has already prepared a reply to Bulgaria, to the effect that she is ready to cease hostilities on condition that the ante-war Serbo-Bulgarian treaty is voided, and that she shall keep all Macedonian territory which she at present occupies.

It is also understood that Greece will demand all the territory she acquired during the war, and also Seres, Kavala, and Drama, whose populations are purely Greek.

ROUMANIAN DECLARATION.

LONDON, July 11.

Advices from Sofia state that Roumania has declared war on Bulgaria, and has recalled her Minister.

The Paris "Matin" states that Roumanian troops crossed the frontier on Thursday night.

BUCHAREST, July 10.

The Roumanian army has been ordered to enter Bulgaria. The Government has notified Bulgaria accordingly.

BULGARIANS' DESPERATE PLIGHT.

ATHENS, July 11.

After the fight at Doiran the Bulgarians took up a position in the Belisi passes, on the main road to Strumnitza, with the object of preventing the Greeks from joining with the Servians, who were driving the Bulgarian fourth army back from Istib. The Greeks made a series of desperate bayonet charges, and eventually dislodged the Bulgarians, and then pursued them to Strumnitza. The Greeks captured nine guns.

The Greeks also opened an attack on the extreme Bulgarian left wing near Demir-hissar, and a severe fight for possession of a railway bridge over the Struma ended in a victory for the Greeks.

Another force operating to the northwards cut off the Bulgarians' remaining avenue of retreat.

Thus General Ivanoff, with 50,000 Bulgarians, is hemmed in, and his Sedan is imminent.

A number of unconfirmed rumours have reached here that he has already surrendered.

BERLIN, July 10.

It is reported that General Ivanoff, the Bulgarian Commander, with all his troops, has been forced to surrender to the Greeks and Servians, who cut off his retreat.

SERVIAN SUCCESSES.

BELGRADE, July 11.

The Servians have occupied Radovitch.

The Bulgarians fled in disorder, abandoning a number of rifles and a quantity of ammunition and foodstuffs.

The panic-stricken Bulgarian columns crossed the mountains towards Pechevo.

The Servians, advancing from Ketchana, attacked the broken right wing of the Bulgarians at Tsarevoselo, and a great battle is now raging round Kustendil.

The wounded state that the battles of the past few days have been indescribably terrible. The medical corps have had the greatest difficulty in extricating the wounded from the tangled heaps of dead men and horses, which have been covered with rocks and debris in the mountain passes.

Regarding the ill-starred Bulgarian invasion of Servia, it is reported that very few of the Bulgarian troops escaped from Konagevatz. They were ambushed on three sides.

TURKISH ATTITUDE.

LONDON, July 11.

The Constantinople correspondent of the "Daily Telegraph" states that if Bulgaria does not evacuate immediately the territory on the Turkish side of the Enos-Midia line, Turkish troops will be ordered on Saturday or Sunday to take possession of the territories fixed by the London Treaty.

RIFLE SHOOTING.

THE EMPIRE TROPHY.

LONDON, July 11.

The Australian rifle team for the Empire Trophy is as follows:—Blacklow, Cutler, Harrison, Edwards, Grant, Halliday, Cross, and Harris.

July 11, 12.45 p.m.

The result of the shooting at the first range for the Empire Trophy was:—

Great Britain	377
Australia	364
Canada	363
India	334

The shooting at the second range resulted as follows:—

Great Britain	386
Australia	385
Canada	379
India	352

SENSATIONAL CRICKET.

GENTLEMEN V PLAYERS.

JESSOP'S BIG HITTING.

LONDON, May 10.

The match between the Gentlemen and Players of England, which commenced at Kennington Oval to-day, was responsible for some sensational cricket.

The Gentlemen batted first on a wet wicket. The first three wickets fell for no runs, and seven were down for 38.

Then G. L. Jessop, who went in eighth, played a brilliant innings for 81, made in 70 minutes. M. Falcon, the last man in, cleverly gave Jessop the strike, and the innings realised 139, Jessop having scored 81 out of 101, whilst he was in. He received an ovation on retiring.

When stumps were drawn, the Players had lost two wickets for 93. F. A. Tarrant being 57 not out.

THE SUFFRAGISTS.

HUNGER STRIKER RELEASED.

REMARKABLE CONFESSION.

LONDON, July 10.

Clara Given, who was recently sentenced to three years' imprisonment for setting fire to the grand-stand and stables at Hurst Park racecourse, has been released on license, as she is seriously ill, owing to her maintaining a hunger strike for a week.

Mrs. Edith Rigby, wife of Dr. Charles Rigby, and one of the first women to be arrested in the suffragist cause seven years ago, was remanded at Liverpool Police Court today. She has confessed to being the author of the outrage in the Liverpool Stock Exchange and the recent burning of Sir William Lever's mansion, Rivington-Hill.

The accused states that the outrages were carried out on her own initiative, in order to show the Government that, when women were driven to desperation, it was easy for them to blow up buildings.

MILITANT CENTRE RAIDED.

The police yesterday raided the headquarters of the Women's Social and Political Union in Manchester, which has latterly become the chief centre of the militant suffragists.

ATTEMPT ON MR. W. REDMOND.

A packet addressed to Mr. William Redmond, M.P., at the House of Commons, exploded while the contents of the mail boxes were being sorted in the Dublin Post Office, but the sorters were not injured.

The packet contained women's suffragist literature as well as the explosive.

THE FALLING-OFF OF PRISONERS.

Miss Christobel Pankhurst, who is still in Paris, has telegraphed to the Women's Social and Political Union, stating that the reason that there are fewer women at present serving sentences than formerly is the belief that it is bad tactics to sacrifice the health and energy of so many for mere window-smashing, which formerly was useful, but now only assists the Government to capture great bands of women at a time.

RAND STRIKE.

WHAT THE UNIONS WANT.

STRIKE-BREAKERS' COMPENSATION.

JOHANNESBURG, July 11.

Six policemen and three dragoons were admitted to the hospital as a result of the injuries they received during the recent riots. Sixteen civilians, 25 police, and 23 soldiers were treated for minor injuries.

The New Kleinfontein strike-breakers are to receive a year's wages in compensation for their removal at the conclusion of the strike.

When the final terms of settlement are discussed, the Federation of Trade Unions will endeavour to secure recognitions of the unions, an eight-hours day, a minimum wage, and the repeal of the Industrial Disputes Act. The latter has practically been a dead letter throughout the recent crisis.

The mineowners claim that had the Act been enforced the strike would never have extended beyond the New Kleinfontein trouble.

At a meeting of 1000 trades-unionists in Pretoria yesterday, a resolution was agreed to urging the recall of Lord Gladstone.

RAILWAYMEN'S DEMANDS.

The railway secretary of the Railwaymen's Union has announced that their demands have been formulated, and the men will strike in six days unless the Government concedes them.

LOSS OF A SHIP.

BOARD OF TRADE INQUIRY.

LONDON, July 10.

At the Board of Trade inquiry into the loss of the ship Mount Oswald, with 24 hands, in February last year, while bound from Baltimore to Hamburg, a pilot gave evidence to the effect that he had urged the captain to put the ship into dry dock at Hampton Roads.

It was stated in evidence that the only letter from the captain to the owners on the question of docking merely asked their advice, and did not request them to place the vessel in dry dock.

PEARCE V. BARRY.

LONDON, July 11.

Referring to the sculling of Barry and Pearce, who are to row for the championship shortly, "Sporting Life" states that the English critics do not approve of the Australian's style. He shows more arm work with a weaker finish than Barry, but his pace is undeniable, especially off the mark.

GENERAL CABLE NEWS.

LONDON, July 11.

In the House of Commons last night the Postmaster-General, Mr. Herbert Samuel, stated, in reply to a question, that the Goldschmidt Wireless Company had expressed its willingness to tender for the construction of wireless stations in the Imperial chain, but it had not expressed its willingness to submit its system to any tests.

The new Holt (Blue Funnel) liner Ulysses, 14,500 tons, was launched at Belfast to-day.

The remains of the late Mr. J. C. Williamson, who died in Paris on Sunday will shortly be removed to America, and interred in the grave of his parents in Chicago.

The estate of the late Lieutenant Bowers, who perished with Captain Scott in the Antarctic has been valued for probate purposes at £219.

A separate report of the affairs of the British Australian Oil Company attributes the position to the exhaustion of capital before the works were completed, and the rushing of products on the Australian market before their suitability had been demonstrated. It commends Mr. Lawson's report.

The Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, in the matter of the New Zealand Kauri Timber Company versus the Commissioner for Taxes, dismissed the appeal with costs.

Knight, a professional driver, was sentenced to six weeks' imprisonment to-day for administering capsicum to a horse prior to the animal entering the arena at Olympia.

The Admiralty Court, in the matter of the collision between the steamer Tainui and the steamer Inca, near Cape Finisterre during a fog in May last, has found that the Tainui was three-fourths to blame and the Inca one-fourth.

Ireland defeated England at bowls by 82 points to 74, and Scotland defeated Wales by 91 to 65.

The King has ordered medals to be struck for members of the Scott Antarctic Expedition.

Madame Elsa Fisher, under the stage name of Madame Elsa Stralia, made her debut in opera at Covent Garden last night in the role of Donna Elvira ("Don Giovanni"). The newspapers this morning praise her performance.

VANCOUVER, July 10.

A fierce fire is raging in the forests near Mill Valley. Several towns are in danger, and others have been wiped out. Every available soldier is fighting the flames. Five deaths are reported.

Elaborate preparations are being made to receive the crew of H.M.A.S. New Zealand, on the occasion of the visit of the warship. A military banquet will probably be held.

TOKIO, July 11.

The death is announced of Count Hayashi, ex-Cabinet Minister, after an operation for the amputation of a leg.

NO PREFERENCE.

NEW FEDERAL POLICY.

NON-UNION QUESTION.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

One of the most objectionable features introduced by the ex-Minister for Home Affairs, Mr. O'Malley—and it eventually became the settled policy of the Fisher Administration—was the principle of giving absolute preference of employment to labour unionists. The idea was carried so far that, in the end, tenderers for all Commonwealth works were required to undertake in their contracts that they, too, would give absolute preference to unionists in any works they were carrying out for the Government.

It was generally believed that the change of Government would see the end of this line of action. The expectation has been realised, as the Prime Minister, Mr. Cook, announced to-night that the edict had been revoked, and in future the clause dealing with this particular phase would not appear on Federal tender forms. The abolition is to apply immediately.

The new order will also be applied to workmen employed on the day-labour system by the Government. While the Fisher Administration was in power it was almost impossible for a man to get employment on public works unless he was a financial member of a union. This has now been abolished.

The only thing that will be required in future of a man in Government employ is that he will be able to do the work asked of him. The order which went out to-day will not have the effect of displacing any of the employees who are at present engaged on Government works. In making the announcement, Mr. Cook said: "In future the fact that a man is not a member of a union will not bar him from Commonwealth employment. All citizens will be treated alike."

A UNITED CABINET.

PREPARED TO FIGHT.

ADDRESS BY MR. HOLMAN.

(BY OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.)

COOTAMUNDRA, Friday.

The people of Cootamundra extended a hearty welcome to-day to the Premier, who is also member for the electorate. Mr. Holman visited the schools and other public institutions during the day. At night a procession of townspeople, headed by a brass band, escorted Mr. Holman to the Town Hall, where a conversazione was held in his honour. It was in every way a representative gathering, the leaders of the Liberal party in the constituency sitting side by side with members of the local Labour league. There were many ladies present. It was Mr. Holman's first public appearance in the electorate since he returned from England and assumed the Premiership.

Responding to the toast of his health, which was honoured amid enthusiasm, the Premier said that nine years ago he came to the town an unknown man, representing a party which was practically unknown in the electorate. "I have never," he went on, "had cause to complain of the treatment which was accorded me, and what is more I shall never forget it. I received from all sections of the community the utmost kindness and courtesy. I think you will pardon me when I say that since my entry into politics I have lived a strenuous, industrious, and on the whole useful life." (Hear, hear.)

Referring to his visit to England, Mr. Holman said that while it was a great pleasure and satisfaction to meet members of the British aristocracy there was no greater pleasure than renewing acquaintance with the scenes of his youth. "I left the cabinet-making establishment at the age of 14. At that time I was a boy running errands. I went back 25 years later, met some of the men who had been there as workmen when I was a boy. (Applause.) I honestly believe that I did myself no harm by act or deed during my visit to the old country. Pleasant as the recollections of my voyage have been, there is nothing so attractive in life as the knowledge that I have found the work I like to do; I have found the work which I believe I am capable of doing. I have come back now to lead, not merely the Government of New South Wales, but to lead also in this part of Australia this great democratic movement, to which for so many years the whole of my energies have been devoted. (Applause.) Pleasant as was my experience in Europe, there is nothing like being back in Australia to help to make this part of the Commonwealth a place worthy of the ideals of Australian democracy. (Applause.) I should like to refer to the peculiar fate which has dogged the footsteps of this Ministry. Four of the most prominent members of the original M'Gowen Ministry have passed out—two by death and two by resignation. It was no disparagement to say that the men who succeeded to those positions had only replaced in part the men we have lost. It is a melancholy reflection to think that in two short years we have lost the co-operation of four valued colleagues and warm-hearted friends. The men to whom I refer are the late Donald MacDonell, the late John Rowland Dacey, and Messrs. Beeby and Nielsen. At the same time we have a strong and able team. There never has been a more united Cabinet. There are no dissensions in our ranks. (Applause.)

Touching on the approaching general elections, Mr. Holman said that he would do his boasting, if at all, after polling day. "But," he continued, "we have been through many crises in the history of the Labour movement before. We are prepared to fight again, again, and again, and I believe that in the end we shall win through. While I am leader of this party I have determined that wherever there is a blow to be struck, a word to be said, something to be done to strengthen our ranks, to hearten our friends, or discourage our enemies, I will make it my business to be there. (Applause.) I accept the task of leading the Ministry as cheerfully and readily as I accept the honour. I have never been in the Labour movement for amusement or remuneration. We have made many mistakes. We have men in our movement with no sense of responsibility—men who are not leaders, and talk as if they were leaders. These give the movement a rashness and violence, which the movement as a whole repudiates. We cannot help these things. They are inseparable from a young democracy. I am proud to be Premier of the mother State, but I am doubly and trebly proud to be the Labour Premier. I have no doubt our party will go on increasing in strength and wisdom. There are those who think we shall not survive the coming elections. They have been saying that sort of thing ever since we took office; but, in spite of all that, I am confident that victory will be ours." (Applause.)

Mr. Holman will deliver his policy speech at Gundagai to-night.

QUEENSLAND UNEMPLOYED.

BRISBANE, Friday.

A party of unemployed paid another visit to Parliament House this morning. Mr. Adamson, M.L.A., subsequently called on the Premier to discuss the situation.

The Premier, Mr. Denham, pointed out that Mr. Barnes, Minister for Works, had interviewed the men twice, and work had been found for a number of them. Some of these would not go. They apparently wanted work in the city, and would not go to the country. Most of them were youths from Sydney. There were works that could be gone on with later, and he would expedite these. He would ask the Commissioner to exceed his present limits of expenditure to give immediate relief to those capable of taking up such work.

INDRABARAH'S STRANDING.

FINDING OF THE COURT.

WELLINGTON, Friday.

At the nautical inquiry concerning the stranding of the steamer Indrabarah, the Court returned all the certificates, but found that Captain Hollingsworth had committed an error in not keeping more to seaward, and in going too slow after leaving Wanganui Roadstead on the night of May 9 till the vessel stranded through the set of the current and the weather. No order was made concerning costs.

THE CAPITAL CITY.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Early in the year the Federal Government decided to secure for the Federal Parliament House, when it is established, a painting of the site where the capital will stand as it was when a commencement was made with the work of building the city. Accordingly, the Cabinet invited artists to send in pictures, and it was announced that the picture chosen would be bought for £250. The art advisory board, consisting of representatives from each State, with Mr. Hugh Paterson as chairman, was appointed to consider the merits of the pictures submitted, and on Wednesday last they reduced the dozen entrants to two. To-day further consideration was given to the matter, and it was eventually decided to purchase the work of Mr. W. Lister Lister, of Sydney. Second place was secured by Mr. Penley Boyd, of Melbourne. The board has advised the Government to secure this painting also, and their advice is to be acted upon.

JUGGLING WITH THE FINANCES.

A FEDERAL CONTROVERSY.

MR. COOK AND MR. FISHER.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The Prime Minister (Mr. Cook) to-day replied to the statements made by the leader of the Opposition (Mr. Fisher) in the House of Representatives on Wednesday, regarding the deficit of £451,000, which was left by the Liberal Government.

At the time Mr. Fisher made the statements the Prime Minister was temporarily absent from the House. Mr. Fisher began by referring to a deficit of £451,000, which he alleged had been left him by the Liberal Government.

"It is quite true," said Mr. Cook, "that the deficit was left, but it was made up by increased expenditure on the following items:—Defence, £550,000; old-age pensions, £400,000; Post Office, £380,000. It was owing to the increases placed on the Estimates for these amounts that the small deficit occurred. In the meantime we had made arrangements with the States, which gave us over £3,000,000 in the first year to liquidate the deficit. Mr. Fisher, however, in addition, antedated by six months of cessation of the Braddon period, and thus prevented the States getting over £2,000,000 to which they were entitled. Indeed, he gave the States for one six months only £185,000. In other words, he did not liquidate the deficit himself, but coolly made the States do it for him, and he calls that brilliant financing. It is quite true that Mr. Fisher has left a surplus of, roughly, £2,500,000, but the reason for this is that he had an unexpected increase in his revenue of £1,456,000 over his estimate, and he spent less than estimated by about £1,100,000. In the last Estimates there is a statement over Mr. Fisher's signature showing that the estimated deficiency on the year was £2,261,000, and only for the savings of previous years being available, further taxation would then have had to be raised, but when Mr. Fisher seeks to make it appear that his Government had done all the things that it had estimated to do, and tells the country that he has a surplus of £2,500,000 as well, he is stating what is absolutely incorrect. The analogy is this: A man arranges to purchase a house for £1000. There is some delay over the title deeds. If the man said that he had bought the house and had £1000 besides, it would be just what Mr. Fisher has said about this deficit. It is quite true that he would have the £1000, but as soon as the house is paid for the £1000 is gone, so with many of these liabilities. They have been incurred, but not paid for, and if all outstanding obligations had been met there would not have been the surplus mentioned by Mr. Fisher. For instance, the payments for the year on the fleet unit were £700,000 less than the estimate. The £700,000, however, still remains an obligation to be met. It is by this sort of juggling that Mr. Fisher attempts to prove that he has paid for everything and has left £2,500,000 to the good. I advise him to stop this talk of scandalous misrepresentation. The facts are there, and they speak for themselves. They show that Mr. Fisher had an increment in his income for three years of £20,000,000 over and above the income of the previous three years. I observe this year that there is an increase in the estimated revenue from the land tax of £265,000. That tax, which was to decrease, is increasing very substantially. However, I do not want to pursue the matter further. I only want to make it clear that Mr. Fisher has left the money, and has left the debts too. So much for his allegations as to scandalous misrepresentations."

HEAVY SEAS.

ROUGH PASSAGES MADE.

Further particulars of the rough weather experienced by the steamers Kamona and Kent were brought by the steamer Wimmera yesterday.

The Kamona left Newcastle at midnight on Saturday, June 28, and had fine weather until Sunday night, when it blew a gale from the east, and brought up huge seas. The vessel had 1800 tons of coal on board, and could make practically no headway. The waves flooded her decks from stem to stern. The vessel was hove to during the night, and remained so until Monday night, when the weather improved. While the storm was at its height the chief engineer's cabin door was smashed, and the cabin flooded. The steam-pipe casings on the forward deck were torn away, and several pipes bent by the force of the water.

The Kent, which arrived at Auckland on July 5, from Liverpool, encountered a strong north-west gale eight days after leaving Durban. This lasted for three days, during which period the vessel was swept by heavy seas. One huge sea struck the wooden vegetable-house on the port side of the steamer, and smashed it to pieces. The same wave stove in the saloon door and carried away the port bridge ladder. The saloon and several cabins were flooded. Stormy weather prevailed until Hobart was reached.

THE PEACE PALACE.

AUSTRALIA'S CONTRIBUTION.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Some time ago it was announced that the Fisher Government had decided to send an escritoire constructed from Australian wood, and an inkstand made from Australian silver, to The Hague, as Australia's contribution towards the Carnegie Peace Palace.

The new Government have approved of the proposal, and to-day the Federal Art Advisory Board, which was represented by Mr. Hugh Paterson, chairman, and Mr. G. V. F. Mann, director of the Sydney National Art Gallery, intimated that they had decided to accept the design which had been submitted by Messrs. Butler and Bradshaw, architects, of Melbourne. The escritoire is to be of Australian timber. There will be a series of carvings, representing the coats of arms of each of the States, and Australian flora and fauna. The inkstand is to be made from Broken Hill silver, which it is expected will be contributed by the mining companies on the Barrier.

NEW MEDICAL JOURNAL.

CONFERENCE AT SYDNEY.

ADELAIDE, Friday.

Drs. J. Corbin and H. S. Newland were passengers from Adelaide by the Melbourne express on Friday. They are proceeding to Sydney to represent the medical profession of this State at a conference to be held there next week in connection with the foundation of a journal, which will be the official organ of the Australasian branches of the British Medical Association. This paper will take the place of the "Australasian Medical Journal," at present published in Melbourne, and the "Australasian Medical Gazette" of Sydney.

COMMON CAUSE.

MR. WADE AND THE FARMERS.

ENTHUSIASTIC RECEPTION.

The advisability of the people in the country making common cause with the Liberals against Labour-Socialism was urged on the members of the Farmers and Settlers' Conference yesterday by Mr. Wade, M.L.A.

Mr. Wade, who was accorded a most enthusiastic reception, referred to the success of the president, Mr. Patten, in the Federal electorate of Hume. The gain of this and other seats, he said, indicated in a marked way the strong note of protest throughout the country against the Labour regime. Country people had sunk every personal feeling and every minor difference for the purpose of securing a united vote against the common enemy. Theirs was a vote more solid, more unanimous, and more harmonious than had been known for many years past. The result had spoken trumpet-tongued, and was, he hoped, a good omen for the State elections a few months hence.

REPLY TO MR. HOLMAN.

Mr. Wade replied at length to statements in the speech the Premier had made to the conference the previous day. In spite of what Mr. Holman had said, there was a good deal of value in the work done by the Liberal party in New South Wales. Mr. Holman had come back fresh from the ancestral homes of Old England with the idea that those in the interior of Australia had easy homes, and had confused the high cost of living with the cost of high living. (Laughter.) "You and I know all about the high cost of living," said the speaker, "and Mr. Holman, who has been across the seas, can tell us from personal knowledge about the cost of high living." Just as there was a gulf between the cost of high living and the high cost of living, so was there a gulf between the farmers and settlers and the party Mr. Holman represented. With regard to Mr. Holman's accusation that the Liberals had done nothing for the country, Mr. Wade asked what party it was that provided for the prevention of the growth of large estates. It was the Liberal party that passed the Settlement Promotion Act, that gave the man with a leasehold the right to convert to a freehold, and that had prevented the aggregation of large estates becoming a future danger. Last, but not least, it was due to the efforts of the Liberal party that the extravagant claims of the rural workers against the farmers had been kept out of the Industrial Legislation of New South Wales.

PROMISED LAND.

Taking one or two of Mr. Holman's statements with regard to the work done by his party, and the want of activity on the part of the Liberals, Mr. Wade reminded his hearers how New South Wales was startled by the announcement some two and a half years ago that the Ministry, through the agency of some heaven-sent genius, had discovered ten million acres which had been lost. (Voices: Twenty million.) No, these grew like children. (Laughter.) It was said that this land was fit for close settlement, exclusive of improvement leases, and of those large tracts in the Wyalong district and the Pilliga scrub; and when the farmers asked where this wondrous tract of land was they were told they must wait. When these lands were at last made available it was found that they were the scraps and refuse which men, who knew the country at all, had declined to occupy for 30 or 40 years. Yet this statement about huge tracts being suitable for close settlement had been put forward by the Labour party with the knowledge that the facts as asserted could not be true, and with the object of hoodwinking the electors and getting votes. Speaking the other day at Moss Vale Mr. Holman had spoken of 40 million acres being available, most of which was fit for close settlement, and the inference meant to be drawn was that he was making good the promises that had been made previously. These 40 millions, however, consisted of that class of land which over two years before he had altogether excluded from his calculations—areas in the Wyalong and Pilliga scrub, and an enormous quantity of improvement leases. There was not one acre of that 10 million which Mr. M'Gowen boasted of two years ago. Mr. Holman had said that of the improvement leases there were 5,000,000 acres fit for close settlement, but the records supplied by the Lands Department showed that of the 8,000,000 acres of improvement leases those fit for closer settlement totalled but 61,000. As far as settlement through means of the Crown Lands was concerned things had come to a standstill, and the resumption of private estates had come to an end, for not one single acre had been resumed by the present Administration under the Act passed by the former Liberal Government. The other alternative under the Settlement Promotion Act—which was the most liberal ever passed for helping the man not financially strong—had been discouraged.

LAND TENURE PROPOSALS.

A further departure the Liberals desired to make with regard to the land legislation related to residence on selected land. They felt the time had now come when they might safely reduce the period of residence, on the understanding that substantial amounts were spent on improvements. They further wanted to provide that these lands must not be used for building up large estates, and at the same time the bona-fide man who wanted to reside should have claim to priority.

RAILWAY DEVELOPMENT.

With regard to the railways, people reading Mr. Holman's speech would think that he had served his country worthily, and that the previous Government had done nothing; but the facts revealed something very different. During the three years of Mr. Wade's Government the increase of passengers represented a growth of 28 per cent., to meet which were made available the following increases in rolling stock:—31 per cent. locomotives, 20 per cent. general goods waggons, 74 per cent. cattle trucks, and 35 per cent. in the number of sheep trucks. Then, early in 1910, the Government laid down the policy that, over and above the question of increasing rolling stock must be the larger and more acute phase of duplication. Authority was obtained from Parliament for a special loan of two millions to carry out this work, and it was arranged that when required the money should be forthcoming. They found the money, and for the last two and three-quarter years the Railway Commissioners had been carrying out the work on the authority of the last Parliament, without the Labour Government having anything to do with it at all. Yet the latter claimed the credit, because they were doing the clerks' work and paying the bills. Mr. Holman's charge that the Liberals had failed to fulfil their trust in regard to duplication, was entirely without foundation. During their term 190 miles of new railway were opened, and 112 were left completed, and were opened within seven weeks of the party's leaving office, making the total over 300 miles for an expenditure of a good deal less than half of what had been spent during the last three years. The Labour Government had only opened 120 miles, although there were some lines to be opened in the future they were told. During the last two and three-quarter years the Labour Government had spent six millions on branch lines and duplication. On the latter they should only spend £2,000,000, and therefore £4,000,000 were spent on branch lines, which spelt, Mr. Wade asserted, gross and wanton waste. A policy of recklessly spending money in the hopes of receiving an equivalent in votes, would not serve the country long.

THE COUNTRY PARTY.

With regard to the formation of a country party by the Farmers and Settlers' Association, it would be an impertinence for him to pass an opinion, but he would say that he was not politically opposed to it. (Applause.) It was only logical that a large body, such as the farmers and settlers, should want direct representation; but there was no reason why all should not place their votes in one common effort behind one man against the common enemy of Labour-Socialism. (Cheers.) There were candidates going to the poll at the coming election who would, without doubt, have the support of the Liberal party, and of the Farmers and Settlers' Association. He had no fear that his hearers would join another party and become followers of "Uncle Wiseman" or "Auntie" Beeby. (Loud laughter and applause.) He realised their influence, and that they were a voting power, out in the last campaign they made common cause against Labour-Socialism, and he hoped they would do the same in the future. If they got this common bond of action they need have no fear of having in the next Parliament a large party that would sound the doom of Labour-Socialism. (Loud applause.)

A vote of thanks to the speaker was carried, with loud acclamation, and he was heartily cheered.

TWO PREMIERS.

WHO SPEAKS FOR THE MINISTRY?

"The statement of Mr. Griffith (Minister for Works) in response to a deputation from the North Coast, again emphasises the folly of having more than one Premier," said Mr. Wade, M.L.A., to a reporter yesterday. "While Mr. Griffith was deploring the fact that he could not spend more money on the North Coast railway, and was at a standstill with regard to improvements at Coff's Harbour, Mr. Holman, at the Farmers and Settlers' Conference, stated as follows:—'Another coast port, Coff's Harbour, was being developed by building fresh railways to it. For the South Coast they were awaiting the Federal Government's determination with regard to Jervis Bay.' A voice cried, 'Where is the money to come from?' Mr. Holman replied, 'from the London market, and there will be no difficulty in getting it.'

"Who," asked Mr. Wade, "are we to believe? The Premier tickling the ears of the farmers and settlers, or Mr. Griffith pulling a long face to the deputation as a lever for securing the endorsement of his proposal to pay a private firm 5 per cent. on the cost of construction?"

MR. BEEBY'S APPEAL

TO THE FARMERS.

SAYS HE BLAZED THE TRAIL.

Mr. Beeby delivered an address before the Farmers and Settlers' Association yesterday to refer to what he termed the "Criticism and misrepresentation levelled against him."

Mr. Beeby said that when he asked leave to address the gathering he felt some resentment at certain criticisms passed on his actions. The position he had taken up was one of his own choice, and he was ready to bear all the criticism which could be levelled against him regarding it. He was accused by the "Sydney Morning Herald" of saying at the Town Hall that he did not care twopence for the man on the land. He made no such statements at all. What he said was the future salvation of land problems did not lie in theories. He did not care twopence for all the theories in the world, but what he wanted to see was some honest and courageous effort made to solve the problem.

If they desired to create a policy to justify a wide immigration policy, they had to face the fact as supplied by official figures. During the 15 years ending 1912 they had spent 20 millions on roads, railways, and bridges. During that time the rate of settlement on lots of from 15 to 1500 acres was 700 a year. During the last five years of the period settlement progressed at the rate of 800 a year. The increase was due to an expenditure of three millions on closer settlement. At the present time there were only four million acres of land under production. The point he wanted to impress upon them was that where they spent money on roads and railways, they should see that a big area of the land served was brought under cultivation. They could later on deal with the lands further out. He did not stand for any policy of confiscation or repudiation. While he was a member of the present Government he had set his face absolutely against anything which savoured of interfering with the rights which any man had legitimately secured in years gone by. What he wanted to see was an earnest effort made to deal with the unoccupied lands of the State. If they only brought under cultivation one-twentieth of the unoccupied lands per year they would be bringing under cultivation about 200,000 acres of land per year.

With regard to the railway policy of the State, Mr. Beeby said they had to face the fact that, within the next few years, the wheat production of the State would be more than doubled. (Hear, hear.) Unless they set to work systematically to duplicate their lines and open up ports along the coast-line, they would find themselves producing large quantities, which they could not export. (Hear, hear.) He held that one of the means by which a solution of their railway troubles could be brought about was to introduce a scheme by which the department would be run as an independent concern, and treated as a separate business.

His views and speeches concerning industrial matters had been greatly misrepresented, especially as regards rural workers. It was true that he did more in Parliament to have them brought under the State industrial laws. His object was to have them handled by the State, and not by a Court sitting in Melbourne. He felt that he was in a position of blazing the trail. He was the first to break away from the party machine, and he was ready to accept all the consequences of his action.

THE AUSTRALIA.

COMING DIRECT TO SYDNEY.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Some comment having been made as to the itinerary of the Australia upon arrival in Australian waters, the Minister for Defence (Senator Millen) to-day made the following statement:—"The Australia will proceed from Durban to Sydney, calling at King George's Sound for coaling purposes only. This procedure has been adopted in order that the transfer of the command of the Australian station to the Commonwealth shall take place at the earliest possible date. This cannot take place until the arrival of Admiral Patey at Sydney, where the Commander-in-Chief (Admiral Sir George King-Hall) has been specially retained by the Admiralty, until Admiral Patey arrives. The need for the transfer taking place without delay is owing to the changes involved under the new naval arrangement. The ships are new, and there is consequently much new work and new organisation to be faced. This being the case, those who desire to see the Australia in those States en route (west and south of Sydney) will understand that the programme of the vessel could not be interrupted by visits of courtesy to the various ports. After the transfer the Admiral will doubtless include in his programme of fleet arrangements visits of the Australia, accompanied by other ships of the fleet unit to the various States from time to time. It must be emphasised that the Australia is not on a visit to the Commonwealth, but that Australia will be her home. Opportunities of seeing the vessel and the other ships of the R.A.N. will, therefore, recur frequently during the near future. Questions as to the capacities of the different ports to receive the Australia have been raised, but it is not necessary at this juncture to enter into these, as the reasons for a direct route to Sydney are based on other grounds.

NORTH SYDNEY FERRIES.

A LIVELY MEETING.

EGGS AND FLOUR THROWN.

A meeting was held last night at the corner of Mount and Walker streets, North Sydney, when speakers addressed a large meeting on the subject of the charges of the Ferry Company and the laxity of the Government in connection with the North Shore bridge. Mr. E. M. Clarke, ex-M.L.A., was the chairman.

Mr. P. Pollock was the first speaker, and, in a most vigorous speech, he denounced the company's action in raising the fares for vehicular traffic. He proceeded to deal with political questions, but was eventually met with a fusillade of flour and many interjections. Later some evil-smelling eggs were aimed at the orator.

Mr. E. M. Clarke said that a Vigilance Committee had been formed to watch the interests of the suburb. He urged the people of North Sydney to return five men to Parliament who were pledged to support the proposal for a bridge.

Mr. Pollock made another attempt to address the meeting on political matters, but the crowd became disorderly, and eggs and interjections brought about the sudden termination of the meeting.

SMALLPOX.

NINE ADDITIONAL CASES.

OUTBREAK IN COUNTRY.

OVERTAKING THE EPIDEMIC.

There were nine fresh cases of smallpox sent to the North Head Quarantine Grounds yesterday by the health authorities.

The epidemic continues to be mild in character, and there are no fatal cases to date.

The health authorities are inclined to think that one case at Taree and another at Penrith are smallpox.

It is stated officially that one of the early cases is known to have infected no less than 50 others. The authorities think they are now on the track of most of the cases traceable to the first cases.

In all there are now 177 persons at the Quarantine Station. Ten were discharged yesterday, three being patients. There are 58 patients in the hospital, 96 convalescents, and 23 contacts.

Yesterday was a record day for vaccinations, both official and private. At the various Board of Health depots 14,140 were dealt with, and the Board of Health gave out lymph sufficient for another 10,000 waiting to be done at various city establishments.

Dr. F. J. T. Sawkins made a commencement at the "Herald" Office yesterday afternoon with the staffs of the "Sydney Morning Herald" and "Sydney Mail," numbering in all 350. At the session the doctor, who had the assistance of Nurse Godfrey, injected the prophylactic into the arms of about 100.

The manager's staff, together with the warehouse and factory employees, numbering over 100 persons, of F. T. Wimble and Co., Ltd., were vaccinated on Thursday.

The secretary of the Chamber of Manufactures has informed manufacturers who are willing to have their employees vaccinated on the premises that he will arrange for them to get a supply of lymph free from the Board of Health. Priority will be given to applications from manufacturers of food products and clothing.

The vaccinations at the Balmain depots are being conducted by Dr. Carruthers and Dr. Thurlow, assisted by two University students.

Since the vaccination depot was established on Tuesday last at the Newtown Town Hall over 3500 people have been treated, the totals for each day being:—Tuesday 420, Wednesday 600, Thursday 1000, and yesterday 1500. Dr. F. J. Blaxland had a staff of four assistants for the first three days and six yesterday. There was no confusion, the people who attended being formed in a queue along Australia-street.

The vaccination of Public school children will be commenced on Monday under the supervision of Dr. Willis. Lymph has been supplied for 1000 a day.

The police have all been vaccinated, and postal and railway and tramway officials are now being done.

It was announced at the Farmers and Settlers' Conference yesterday that facilities would be provided to allow delegates to be vaccinated before returning to their homes.

AT THE BORDER.

N.S.W. OFFICERS IGNORED.

ALBURY, Friday.

The Mayor and Dr. Andrews, Government medical officer, had a consultation to-day at the Town Hall, and expressed surprise at the manner in which the New South Wales Health Department had been ignored in this matter. Referring to a suggestion, said to have been made by one of the Victorian officials, that arrangements might, if necessary, be made for providing tents on Howlong-road, both said they were not aware that the Victorian officers had any authority to carry out this proposal. Dr. Andrews held that if a suspicious case came under notice the patient should be treated at the place where the disease was discovered, or forwarded to the nearest quarantine station already established. He took strong exception to the course suggested, without reference to the provision of the New South Wales Health Act, which had always proved effective. Under that Act it was not lawful to put any patient in a vehicle. It would not thus be competent for anyone other than a person recognised by the New South Wales law to establish a quarantine area. The Mayor and Government medical officer have written to Sydney for instructions, and Dr. Andrews has applied for a supply of lymph.

TRAVELLERS' EXPERIENCE.

Dr. Stewart and his assistant attended all trains for Melbourne to-day. The course pursued is as follows:—As soon as the carriages were filled the doors were locked, and statutory forms of declaration were then distributed to each passenger. Passengers from Sydney were required to produce certificates to the effect that they had been effectively vaccinated within the past five years, and passengers from other stations in New South Wales (including Albury) were required to sign declarations to the effect that they had not been within the quarantined area (within 15 miles of the General Post Office, Sydney) during the previous 14 days. The doctor then proceeded with the train to Wodonga, collecting en route the signed declarations. Passengers only recently vaccinated, and who had not received exemption certificates, were examined by Dr. Stewart, and, after signing surveillance forms, were allowed to proceed on their journey. They must hand these surveillance forms to the health officer in Melbourne, and remain there for 14 days. If bound for intermediate stations they must report to the nearest health officer. Passengers from the quarantine area who have not been vaccinated are vaccinated at Wodonga.

So far there has been no trouble, passengers realising that refusal to comply involves their being sent back. The examination considerably delays the trains, and it has also had the effect of diminishing the traffic in both directions. The express trains usually carry 200 to 250 passengers. This morning there were only 180 for Melbourne, and last night only 149 for Sydney. The mail train service has not been so much affected.

EXPRESS "HELD UP."

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Official records indicate that since the outbreak of smallpox the railway passenger traffic between Melbourne and Sydney has been reduced by at least one-third. Owing to the examination of passengers from Sydney, the express train was "held up" at Wodonga for 26 minutes this morning. In consequence of this delay, the train was blocked later, and did not reach Spencer-street station until 50 minutes after the usual time. Arrangements have been made for the running of excursion trains to and from Sydney on July 17, and, despite the comparatively light traffic just now, they will be carried out unless unforeseen circumstances occur.

SHIPPING.

WIMMERA FROM NEW ZEALAND.

Messrs. Huddart Parker's steamer Wimmera arrived here from Auckland and other New Zealand ports yesterday at about 11 a.m. Owing to the recent decision of the Quarantine authorities to medically examine all vessels from New Zealand, she was not allowed to berth straight away.

The captain was not aware of this, and had rounded Miller's Point, and was making for the wharf, when he was signalled to standoff. He accordingly turned his vessel round, and steamed over towards Cremorne Point, and dropped anchor.

The medical officer went aboard, and after examining all on board proceeded to vaccinate all members of the crew and as many passengers who were willing to submit. All passengers intending to proceed to other States were vaccinated, and a number who were staying in Sydney also bared their arms. It was close on 4 p.m. before the Wimmera got alongside the wharf.

According to advices by the Wimmera from New Zealand the R.M.S. Makura was subjected to a rigid examination on her arrival at Auckland on her way from Sydney to Vancouver recently. The Port Health officer proceedd on board at 8 a.m., when the vessel arrived, and was for 3½ hours examining all and vaccinating many of the 221 passengers and 189 members of the crew. The through passengers were only submitted to the usual examination, and were allowed to land. No suspicious cases were found amongst the whole of the passengers.

NEW ZEALAND.

ONLY THREE EUROPEANS AFFECTED.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Friday.

Local inquiries go to show that the Health Department is not disposed to exaggerate the outbreak of a mild form of smallpox among the Maoris in the Auckland district into anything like a scare. So far the disease has not developed any particular virulence, certainly nothing like the virulence of ordinary smallpox. Only two deaths have occurred, which can be directly traced to the disease, and these were both elderly Maoris. There appear to be only three cases of Europeans affected, which are being kept under careful observation and complete isolation.

One medical officer remarked that had the disease been true smallpox the Maoris would would have died like flies.

The health authorities consider that they are taking all necessary precautions at this stage, but should there be signs of an outbreak in other places it is the intention of the department to bring more vigorous measures of isolation and prevention into operation.

Maoris have been prohibited from travelling outside infected districts, unless they have a certificate from the District Health Officer. The prohibition includes travel by land and sea, and by rail and steamer.

Vaccination is being carried on vigorously, and Auckland people are being urged to take advantage of the opportunities for free vaccination. A list of public vaccinators is advertised.

Arrivals from Sydney must pass the Health Officer and produce a certificate of vaccination before being allowed to land. The department knows of no suspected case in Wellington. Passengers from Wellington to the South Island are to be vaccinated, and arrangements are being made for those travelling by the steamer Maori to Lyttelton undergoing the operation before leaving the wharf this evening.

NO DEFINITE DIAGNOSIS.

AUCKLAND, Friday.

A European patient who is suffering from a mysterious pock disease in the city has been isolated. There are no signs of the disease gaining a hold in the city, it being almost entirely confined to natives in the country districts. The disease is spreading in the country. Officials have their hands full vaccinating residents. In several districts there is a shortage of lymph. A request from Sydney for 2000 tubes was refused. Lymph sufficient to vaccinate nearly 6000 people has already been issued to city practitioners. No definite diagnosis of the disease has been made.

TRAVELLERS.

The official bulletin last night stated that a large number of interstate passengers were vaccinated during the day. Facilities for the treatment of other passengers will be available to-day at the office of the Board of Health. The board is supplying certificates of vaccination and the surveillance forms.

VICTORIAN ACTION.

PROOF OF SUCCESSFUL VACCINATION.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

From Monday the precautionary measures against the spread of smallpox to this State will become more stringent. At present a person is allowed to cross the border as long as he undergoes or has undergone vaccination. From Monday proof of successful vaccination will have to be given.

The chief medical officer (Dr. Robertson) said to-day that the department had agreed to give a few days' grace before the full text of the schebe was observed, also that intending travellers could become vaccinated and be in a position to prove that they were operated upon successfully. After a period of five days it was known whether the vaccination had been successful, and from the beginning of next week persons who had only been vaccinated a day or two before making a journey would be stopped at the border until the conditions were complied with. During the week persons had been vaccinated at Wodonga and allowed to continue their journey the same day, but that leniency would not be shown after Saturday. Ineffective vaccination might be due to the fact that a sufficient dose was not inoculated, and a person who did not show effects would have to be vaccinated three times before the department recognised him as immune from the disease.

SHORTAGE OF LYMPH.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

The supply of lymph in Newcastle is exceedingly small, and those who want to be vaccinated are compelled to wait for days. Dr. Eames to-day vaccinated most of Messrs. J. and A. Brown's employees. A supply of lymph was specially sent over from Melbourne for the purpose. Other shipping companies in the city have had their employees vaccinated. Dr. Dick, Government Medical Officer, has vaccinated some of the inspectors of the Health Department, but there was not sufficient lymph to vaccinate all.

CHICKENPOX AT KERANG.

KERANG (Vic.), Friday.

Five members of a family have been isolated because they have developed a severe form of chickenpox. One child is very ill. It is known that three persons have arrived at Kerang from the infected area in Sydney by way of Deniliquin and Barham. A number of persons, principally children, were vaccinated to-day.

VACCINE SUPPLY.

RESTRICTION IN QUEENSLAND.

BRISBANE, Friday.

The Commissioner for Public Health states that in consequence of the heavy demands for Sydney on the Commonwealth vaccine supply, further supplies for Queensland are uncertain, and no further issues can be made to medical practitioners for the present.

Arrangements are in hand for local preparations of vaccine to be carried out at the Stock Institute, Yeerongpilly. The Health Department still continues to hold sufficient reserve of vaccine to meet with any active emergency likely to arise in Queensland.

A MEDICAL CONFERENCE.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The Director of Quarantine (Dr. Cumpston) stated to-day that he had received a communication intimating that the New Zealand Health Department had despatched an officer to Sydney to confer with the Commonwealth Quarantine authorities.

PROSECUTIONS IN VICTORIA.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

A number of parents were prosecuted at the Caulfield Court to-day for refusing to have their children vaccinated. Fines of 40s each were imposed.

The deputation for compulsory vaccination which waited upon Mr. Holman on the 10th inst asked that there should be more depots in the suburbs; that factories should be made depots where the employers are prepared to pay the expenses of a medical man to attend and vaccinate them; and that a larger supply of lymph should be secured. In pursuance of the promise made, the Premier had an interview with Dr. Paton on the points, and was informed that he had already taken steps providing for all three.

DISTRIBUTING LYMPH.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I feel sure that I am voicing the opinions of a great many of my professional brethren, when I say that the arrangements of the Board of Health, in regard to the distribution of lymph to medical practitioners, are nothing short of scandalous. I wrote for lymph about a week ago, and so far have not had the courtesy of a reply.

In your issue of Wednesday the following words appear:—"Dr. Cumpston, the Director of Quarantine, says that there is no shortage of lymph in Sydney—all that has been asked for has been sent."

If such is the case, then the Board of Health are greatly to blame for the fact that they have not asked for more, in that they have not asked for enough to supply private practitioners in and around Sydney. If the board still refuses to order from Melbourne enough to supply practitioners with lymph, and to supply them at once, then (if this is smallpox) they have only themselves to blame if a great number of people remain unvaccinated, and run the risk of catching the disease. I have to turn away every day numbers of people who wish to be vaccinated.

In common with many others, I would like to call the attention of the board that there are many invalids, many of the halt, the sick, and the blind, and many who would prefer to be vaccinated privately, who, under present circumstances, can't be done. It seems as though the board wishes to papuerise us all, for those who can't or won't pay can get vaccinated, and those who are able and willing to pay can't get that chance of immunity from the disease which the board thinks so necessary.

COMPULSORY VACCINATION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Does not New South Wales possess as good a record as other countries? More than 30 years ago an effort was made to deprive it of its freedom. And, I believe, it is indebted to the late Dr. Le Gay Brereton for retaining it, as the papers of that time may prove. Yet those who chose to risk engendering into their systems cancer, tuberculosis, consumption, etc., do so; but to compel, by Act of Parliament, is arbitrary, since vaccination does not prevent smallpox.

ANOTHER DANGER.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Will you kindly allow me to endorse the remarks of "Sanitas" in your issue of to-day? The disease referred to by your correspondent is—as every practising medical man knows—if not positively the worst, at any rate one of the worst, known to the profession. Offhand, I, as a layman who reads and observes, cannot think of its equal. Smallpox, cholera, plague—these scourges of humanity kill their millions; but they leave the hapless babe unharmed. Leprosy consigns its thousands to solitary death. Consumption kills lingeringly parent and child, but at least it allows its victims possession of their faculties and the respect of their fellow-mortals. And all these diseases can be seen and dealt with vi et armis, if necessary. But the other—the red plague—works insidiously and behind a cloak; it has no mercy on ancestor or descendant, on guilty adult or innocent child. Yet, unfortunately, there appears to be a conspiracy of public silence concerning it and the means of checking it on the part of press and pulpit, politician and physician. Worse, there is, if ever a daringly-outspoken journal or politician or physician or clergyman or other reformer is bold enough to mention the horrid thing, an instant cry of "Hush! Such a subject as that should not be spoken of in public." But silence never yet cured even a simple cold, and while the present lamentable silence and inertia are being stolidly maintained by those whom Australia has a right to expect to be articulate and active, the grim, implacable red plague is killing its victims and rearing its blind, idiotic, paralytic, deformed children, future Australians. Is the red plague to be allowed to go triumphantly on, or will the people's leaders and guides grip it relentlessly by the throat, and grip it now?

AN ASHFIELD PROTEST.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I feel that it is someone's duty to write about the management at Ashfield Town Hall on the first day of vaccination. I hope that for the sake of public comfort they will adopt a simple system. I consider the simplest way out of all discomfort is to appoint someone to call the number out in rotation after each patient has received a numbered ticket of admission, and allow them to be seated in any part of the hall. IS IT SMALLPOX?

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Having lived in England (or over 30 years, and been on three occasions in the thick of smallpox, I would like to offer a few remarks regarding the scare at present in Sydney. In the first instance, I should like to point out that both here and in England doctors admit that vaccination does not make anyone more unlikely to get smallpox, but if they do get it in all probability their case will only be a slight one. This being the case I would like to ask the question: How it is that in Sydney, with not 10 per cent. of the population vaccinated, we have not so far, out of over 100 cases, had one single serious case. In England—I can vouch for the fact from many medical men whom I know—nearly, if not all, the really bad cases, are those which have not been vaccinated for over seven years, which, to my mind, seems almost to point to some mistake as to the real disease we have in our midst at present.

LYMPH DIFFICULTIES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Is it all straight and above board in the distribution of the lymph to the doctors? I rang up a doctor last night and asked whether he could vaccinate. He said he could get no lymph. There seemtd to him to be some peculiar business going on. Those who had employees of big firms to vaccinate could save some for their private patients, but otherwise a private practitioner had little chance of obtaining any lymph.

NEW FERRY STEAMER.

KAMERUKA'S TRIAL TRIP.

The Kameruka, a new passenger steamer, built by Messrs. Morrison and Sinclair, of Balmain, for the Parramatta River service of the Sydney Ferries, Ltd., was taken for an official trial yesterday afternoon, prior to being handed over to the company.

The new steamer is built after the same plans as the Kamiri, which was placed in commission last year. The vessel is double-ended, with two propellers, and her engines are triple-expansion. The boiler and engines were supplied by Messrs. Oxenall and M'Rae, and were fitted on board by Mr. James Smith, engineer, Balmain. On their trial the engines worked satisfactorily, and the vessel covered the measured mile at a speed equal to 11½ knots. The electric light machinery and fittings were supplied and installed by Messrs. Lawrence and Hanson. The Kameruka was designed by Mr. J. Barter, the company's draftsman, according to specifications prepared by Mr. T. Brown, works manager.

WOLLONDILLY.

ADDRESS BY MR. TREFLE

THE LAND POLICY.

BOWRAL, Friday.

At the Oddfellows' Hall to-night the Hon. J. L. Trefle, Minister for Lands, addressed a largely-attended meeting of electors in defence of the policy of the Labour Government, and in support of Mr. J. W. Masters, selected Labour candidate for Wollondilly. The Mayor (Alderman E. Boardman) presided. Mr. Trefle said that 27 estates had been acquired by way of purchase and compulsory resumption. They comprised an area of 676,433 acres, and had involved an expenditure of £2,535,796. When subdivided with remnanets of Crown lands adjoining, 1608 farms were provided. There were still unselected 59 farms, 33 of which were small areas, set apart with the object of providing homes for men following ordinary bush pursuits. The whole of the estates were approved for acquisition before the present Government came into office, but the payment of compensation money and the disposal in several cases had not been effected. The present Government had paid purchase money amounting to £854,390 in connection with Tuppal, Hardwicke, Mangus, Gunningbland, Wandary, Tibereenah, North Logan, Cole Park, Malton, Bibbenluke, Maharatta, Warrah, and Crowther estates, the 13 of which embraced an area of 203,176 acres. The Closer Settlement Promotion Act came into force in August, 1910, and all applications under that Act had been dealt with by the present Government. Up to date 70 applications, representing 501 farms of a total area of 198,133 acres, and a capital value of £177,596, had been finally approved and paid for. Seventeen applications for 150 farms, of an area of 49,609 acres and a capital value of £177,596, had been finally apprived by the Minister. In addition, there were 42 applications for 135 farms of 86,837 acres, and a capital value of £515,693, in course of action. The policy of acquiring privately-owned lands for closer settlement purposes was started by the passing of the Closer Settlement Act of 1904, which came into force practically from the beginning of 1905. The present Government had been in office about two years and eight months, during which period 247,742 acres had been acquired, wholly under the Promotion Act, on which 651 new settlers had been provided with holdings, involving an expenditure of £1,334,678. In addition, a sum of £854,390 had been provided for estates acquired by the Wade Government. The Carruthers-Wade Government had been administering the Closer Settlement Acts for about six years, during which period they acquired and paid for 15 estates, comprising 473,262 acres, for which compensation money to the extent of £1,681,406 was paid. One thousand and seventy-five farms were provided In addition, 12 estates, of a total area of 203,176 acres, were acquired, but were not paid for. These were subdivided into 536 farms, and compensation money amounting to £854,390 was paid. As against this, the present Government had in two and two-third years acquired by purchase 247,742 acres, and provided money to the extent of £1,334,678, besides £854, 390 for 12 estates acquired by the Wade Government, making in all £2,189,068, while the present Government had also in course of action applications for 235 farms, of an area of 86,837 acres, and capital value of £515,693. In addition, 106,248 acres had been resumed in improvement and scrub leases, at a cost of £34,448.

MR. GRIFFITH AT MITTAGONG.

WHAT LABOUR HAS SPENT.

MITTAGONG, Friday.

The Minister for Works (Mr. Griffith) addressed a large and enthusiastic meeting at the School of Arts, Mittagong, to-night.

Mr. Griffith said: "Mr. Wade has been going round the country telling the people that this Government had resumed no land for closer settlement purposes. In case anyone should be so misguided as to believe him, I shall give you the figures, from which you will readily see that more money has been provided for closer settlement purposes during the two and a half years of the present Government than in the six preceding years. The figures are as follows:—On the cost of land acquired and paid for by the present Government, acquired under the Closer Settlement Promotion Act, £1,007,000; acquired by the Wade Government, but paid for by the present Government, £854,390; resumed in connection with Murrumbidgee irrigation scheme, £430,000; total, £2,291,390. It has also been asserted by our opponents that we have starved the railways. The facts are that during Mr. Wade's three years of office he gave the Railway Commissioner less than three-quarters of a million for duplications and deviations, in actual figures £708,000; while during our term of office we have given him for that purpose alone over two millions of money, actually £2,128,000. To pile up a surplus Mr. Wade starved the Railway Department, and to enable it to meet the enormous growing requirements we have had to let other departments, including my own, go short. This will be realised when I tell you that during the financial year just closed we have given the Commissioner from loan money alone £3,300,000.

PERSONAL.

His Excellency the Admiral and Lady King-Hall entertained the following at luncheon on Thursday:—Miss Strickland, Mr. and Mrs. H. Merewether, Mr. and Mrs. Wade, and Mr. Hume.

Judge Murray, Lieutenant-Governor of Papua, accompanied by Mrs. Murray and family, will leave Sydney on Tuesday by the Van Linschoten on their return to Port Moresby.

As a rule the Prime Minister, Mr. Cook, and other members of the Cabinet who reside in Sydney leave Melbourne on Friday afternoon to spend the week-end at home, but pressure of business in their departments, in addition to the inconvenience caused by the outbreak of smallpox, will prevent this arrangement being carried into effect until the end of July. The only Minister who left Melbourne last night was Mr. Glynn, Minister for External Affairs, who went to Adelaide.

The Assistant Minister for Home Affairs, Mr. Kelly, has made arrangements to pay a visit to Port Augusta next week with a view to informing himself of the whole of the circumstances connected with the construction of the transcontinental railway. He will remain there about a week, and immediately on his return to Melbourne he will make a visit to the Federal capital.

Alderman A. C. Cocks, M.L.A., Lord Mayor of Sydney, will be tendered a reception by the Liberal organisation of the St. Leonards division at the Masonic Hall, North Sydney, to-night. It is expected that Mr. and Mrs. Wade will be present.

Madame Clara Butt and Mr. Kennerley Rumford and concert party leave for Newcastle on Monday morning, and after giving a concert there on Monday evening will proceed to Brisbane, returning to Sydney on August 9.

The Rev. R. Keith Mackay, general secretary of the Melbourne Mission, and Mrs. Mackay, have been spending a holiday in Sydney. They are returning to Melbourne to-day.

Mr. E. W. Bramble, chief inspector of the New South Wales Postal Department, has been appointed Deputy Postmaster-General at Adelaide.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Goldie, who are leaving for London, via America, to-day, were the guests at a farewell musical evening at the Hotel Australia on Thursday. The opportunity was taken by their friends of presenting them with tokens of appreciation. Mr. David Hall, the Minister for Justice, handed Mrs. Goldie (Dulcie Deamer) a pale blue enamel pendant, and Captain Nicsigh presented Mr. Goldie with a gold watch and chain from his oldest friends.

FOR BRAVERY.

HUMANE SOCIETY'S MEDALS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The Royal Humane Society of Australasia last evening decided upon the annual distribution of awards. In all 34 awards were made in connection with the Mount Lyell disaster, and Albert M. Gadd, who died a few months ago, was awarded the Clark gold medal.

Miss Rosa Begg, who went to the rescue of Geoffrey Syme while he was struggling with an armed burglar in his house at Kew (Vic.), on August 20, will receive her silver medal.

Charles Edward Rowen, aged 34 years, of Lismore, will receive a bronze medal for rescuing two children from drowning in Wilson's Creek, near Lismore, in March last.

A bronze medal was awarded to Robert James Goward, of Kiah River, N.S.W., aged 22 years, for rescue work in Lower Lake, Mallacoota (Vic.), on January 4 last.

The Governor-General will make the presentations in Melbourne Town Hall on July 28.

THE SEMI-FINALS.

AMERICA V GERMANY.

LONDON, July 10.

In the match between America and Germany, in connection with the Davis Cup contests, R. N. Williams (America) defeated Oscar Kreuser (Germany), in the singles, by 6-4, 6-2, 4-6, 6-1.

The other singles match resulted in favour of M. E. McLoughlin (America), who defeated O. Froitzheim (Germany), 5-3, 2-6, 6-4, 6-2, 6-2.

M'Loughlin's tactics differed from those he pursued at Wimbledon. He was on this occasion content to keep the ball going and let Froitzheim tire himself.

CANADA V BELGIUM.

Playing for Canada against the Belgians, at Folkstone (Kent), R. B. Powell defeated Paul De Boorman, 6-2, 6-1, 6-1, and B. P. Swengers defeated A. G. Watson, 6-4, 6-1, 6-0.

WINGFIELD SCULLS.

QUESTION OF QUALIFICATION.

DIAMOND SCULLS CRITICISM.

M'VILLY CANCELS ENGAGEMENTS.

LONDON, July 10.

In reference to the barring of M'Villy, the Tasmanian sculler, from taking part in the Wingfield Sculls contest, it is understood that the entry of Sailer (third in yesterday's qualifying race), though he was not born in the United Kingdom, was justified because he is a British officer, and was nominated by the London Rowing Club.

Replying to criticisms in the English sporting press, M'Villy denies that he was guilty of any unsportsmanlike action during the race for the Diamond Sculls, which he won.

He explains that in order to avoid the booms on the Henley course he took the centre of the stream, and only took Pink's water when he had the race well in hand.

He adds that if an Englishman won an important race in Australia he received very different treatment to that which had been meted out to him in England.

M'Villy admits that the committee was justified by the rules in refusing his entry for the Wingfield Sculls, but he contends that such action was inconsistent in the light of previous exceptions that had been made.

He says he has cancelled all his engagements for the season, and will not row in England again.

It would appear to Australians that M'Villy has just cause for resenting the adverse criticism which he has been subjected to by the English sporting press in regard to his rowing in the Diamond Sculls. He bears an excellent character, and sportsmen here are quite satisfied that he would not infringe even the spirit of any rules. It must be remembered that he was unanimously chosen by Australia to compete at Stockholm last year, and having failed then to secure victory, he, at his own personal expense, remained in England determined to demonstrate to Englishmen that he could scull. This he has since done. The feeling in Australia is that M'Villy would not do anything to lower the prestige of rowing in Australia, where he has at considerable expense tried to perfect himself in the art of sculling. Only an earnest man and a good sportsman would spend the amount of money he has in the purchase of boats and in the professional tuition. He is not a wealthy man, but he is ambitious. We have always found him a good winner and an uncomplaining loser; his losses, however, were very few.

With regard to the conditions for competing for the Wingfield Sculls the committee is quite justified in not allowing any "foreign" sculler to enter for the event. The sculls were given under a deed of gift by Mr. John Wingfield, who many years ago, residing, as he did, on the banks of the Thames, gave a trophy for scullers of the United Kingdom to row for the championship of the Thames. It is not an open championship, and only those approved of as challengers by a committee, on which previous holders are well represented, are prepared to accept his nomination. It may be pointed out that prior to 1885, so-called "foreign" entries were not accepted for Henley Royal Regatta, where at least the Diamond Sculls, Grand Challenge Eight, the Stewards' Fours, and the Silver Goblets (and Nickalls' Challenge Cup) are open to all amateurs throughout the world, provided that such entries are approved of by the stewards. There are other races at Henley which are not open, but on at least one occasion "foreign" crews have been considered eligible to compete for the Thames Cup, which is for second-class eights, equal to Australian junior eighths. Amsterdam won it on that occasion.

DISTURBING A MEETING.

NEW LAW ENFORCED.

AN INTERJECTOR FINED £5.

ADELAIDE, Friday.

At the Adelaide Police Court to-day Hugh M'Coy was charged with having behaved in a disorderly manner in Exhibition-buildings on May 22.

Mr. Shierlaw, who appeared for the prosecution, explained that that was the first information under the Public Meetings Act, passed last year to prevent disorderly conduct at such gatherings. On the evening of May 22 Mr. Cook, who was now the Prime Minister of Australia, addressed a meeting in Exhibition-buildings. From the time when the speaker began defendant called out in a loud voice in such a way as to interrupt him. Among other expressions used by M'Coy were: "Joe, give us your policy; you have not got one; go to Newcastle; go to Parramatta; you were a Labour man once, what are you now?" These frequent interruptions caused Mr. Cook to resume his seat on more than one occasion, and finally defendant was requested to depart. He did so without demur. Following on that there was a cry of "All Labourites leave this room;" whereupon 200 men began boohooing and groaning, and went out in a body. There was inference that they had organised for the purpose of creating a disturbance at the meeting. Of course, as they were walking out the speaker could not proceed. In the circumstances he (Mr. Shierlaw) asked that a salutary punishment should be meted out, so that the public would know that the Act was not a dead letter, but would go far in preserving order and decorum at a public meeting of whatever kind. The penalty was a fine not exceeding £5, or imprisonment with or without hard labour for one month.

Defendant was fined £5, with 15s costs.

CONFERENCE OF STOCK EXCHANGES.

IMPORTANT RECOMMENDATIONS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The conference of Stock Exchanges of Melbourne, Sydney, and Adelaide was concluded to-day. It extended over four days, and the following resolutions were adopted:—

Uniform regulations for placing companies on the official list of the three Exchanges.

That it be compulsory for all companies applying for quotation to issue scrip in the future.

That shares be "ex rights" on the date the transfer books close, or, in the event of books not closing on the day of allotment, that companies be requested to give timely notice of new share issues and the closing of transfer books.

Provision and recognition by companies of renunciation forms to facilitate dealing in rights, and the issue of fractional certificates where practicable.

That the committees of the Stock Exchange of the Commonwealth be requested to bring under the notice of the Premiers of the various States the desirability of having a uniform company law throughout the Commonwealth (including the no-liability mining law); that the tonnage treated and actual yield of gold, also estimated bullion value, be reported by companies; and that it be recommended to the State Governments of New South Wales and South Australia to adopt a similar Gold Buyers' Act to the Victorian Act.

The present practice of locking up vendors and promoters' shares in mining companies was reaffirmed, and the question of treating similar shares in investment companies in the same way was considered, and recommendations made to the respective Exchanges. Recommendations were also made to the committees of Stock Exchanges relating to many important matters of public interest, and those of internal management, with a view to uniform practice.

THE NAVY.

A YACHTSMEN'S RESERVE.

NEW SCHEME SUGGESTED.

"I think now that Australians have a navy we should try to 'make good,'" said Mr. Norman H. Murray at a complimentary dinner tendered to him in the Australia Hotel last night to mark his election as a member of the Royal Yacht Squadron, also in recognition of his services to the Royal Prince Alfred Yacht Club, of which he is commodore.

It had been his endeavour, he said, to form some branch of the navy that yachtsmen could take up. In Senator Pearce the Commonwealth had a man who had set the ball rolling in the right direction, and he hoped that whoever succeeded him would follow closely in his footsteps. "We have the men, and we have the inclination, and I think that his Excellency the Admiral believes that we have the stamina to put the ideas into force."

"Hear, hear," remarked the Admiral.

Mr. Murray then referred to a plan that he was interested in of forming a volunteer corps for yachtsmen. He read a letter from Lord Graham, who gave the details of a similar scheme in England. One of the things sought in the English scheme was to enable the volunteers to have so many days a year in warships at sea. The aim was to have a nucleus of a crew in the warships of permanent men, and then bring the complement up to its full strength with the members of the volunteer corps.

"We are on the brink of doing something," Mr. Murray stated; "and I want to tell you that my ideas will be put into shape within the next few weeks. I hope that we will be backed up by all the yacht clubs of Australia, so that we will be able to reach the sympathetic ear of the Minister for Defence."

The matter of establishing a standard of yachts suitable for these waters, he hoped, would be settled soon.

"In the Royal Navy, of course, we are not seamen in the old acceptation of the term, although I venture to say that there are no finer seamen than we have in the officers of the Royal Navy," said Admiral King-Hall. "We are certainly not seamen, handling sails and vessels, but there are no finer seamen in the world than our yachtsmen here and in Great Britain. There you have the romance of the sea. In the navy we have lost in some way the romance of the sea that we used to have in the old sailing boats."

His Excellency handed to Mr. Murray the burgee of the Royal Yacht Squadron, and the White Ensign, presented by members of the club.

Mr. W. Marks, in proposing the toast of "Our Guest," referred to the fact that Mr. Murray was the first citizen of New South Wales to be elected a member of the Royal Yacht Squadron, Cowes.

THE THIRD PARTY.

MR. BEEBY'S IDEALS.

CONFERENCE IN SYDNEY.

The first annual conference of the National Progressive League, which boasts the motto "Progress before Party," was opened at the King's Hall, Phillip-street, last night.

Mr. G. S. Beeby, M.L.A., occupied the chair, and moved:—

That the declared objective of the league be the modification of the present rigid system of party government, and the abolition of machine selection of Parliamentary candidates; the restoration to Parliament of its full deliberative functions, and the encouragement of the discussion of all great public questions without party domination; the recognition of the right of substantial minorities to representation in Parliament with proper safeguards for ultimate majority rule; the creation of national sentiment by the co-operation of all sections of the people, irrespective of political parties in dealing with matters relating to national progress and development.

They had been told, he continued, that there was no room for anything new in the political life of the country; but they wanted something better, and there was distinct evidence of revolt against the present system. To-day the decision of important questions by Parliament was tainted by the exigencies of party. The cost of living, for instance, was a problem that called for careful thought on the part of every man in the State. The management of the railways was another matter that wanted fully inquiring into, and the fact remained that the railways were not managed for the general good of the community. The new Federal Government had so far been unable to put one constitutional idea before the public owing to party difficulties. All it had done was to rub the kangaroo off the stamp and restore the mace to Parliament. (Laughter.) Co-operative enterprise and not enforced regulation was the prey to future industrial improvement. (Applause.) As the result of party influences in Parliament, he continued, there existed in political life an undercurrent of dishonesty—he did not say personal dishonesty—which was the outcome of the present system. They wanted a system that would give proportionate representation to every section of the community. This could be achieved by a radical alteration of the electoral law, the adoption of large electorates, and the selection of candidates on the preferential voting system. Something was needed to do away with the trickery and dishonesty that characterised parliamentary life, the political bludgeonry of opponents, and the immoral doctrine that the duty of an opposition was to oppose, and do nothing else.

Mr. James Young said it seemed to him that the Country Party Association, the Farmers and Settlers' Association, and the National Progressive League were working on parallel lines for the good of the country.

Among those speaking in favour of the motion was Mr. R. Donaldson, M.L.A., who said he would support any country party, and urged his hearers not to let there be any friction between the bodies that were agitating for reform.

The resolution was unanimously carried.

Committees were appointed to prepare a draft constitution and a draft platform, and the conference adjourned till to-day.

ALLEGED DUPLICATE VOTING.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

A special meeting of the Federal Executive Council was held this afternoon, in order that the necessary forms for holding the investigation into the rolls used at the last Federal elections might be approved. The special regulation which was put through today provides for all candidates at the recent elections having one representative present at the checking of the rolls, and the Government has undertaken to pay these scrutineers a guinea per day of eight hours.

COAL TRADE CONGESTION.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

The coal trains were running 24 hours late from the collieries to the loading cranes. The congestion in the traffic is very acute, and No. 6 crane was idle for most of to-day owing to no coal coming in. To-morrow is the miners' fortnightly day off, and as none of the pits in the district will be working, the congestion will, no doubt, be overcome in time to allow Monday's trains to run to scheduled time.

A MOUNTED PATROL.

INNOVATION AT NORTH SYDNEY.

On account of the persistence of the burglars in their visitations at North Sydney, the police authorities have been moved to take precautions towards checking them. With this object a mounted patrol has been organised, and is now operating in the whole of the suburbs on the North Shore. The men have no particular rounds, but they are very alert.

The officer in charge of the North Shore station stated that the patrol had been working now for about 10 nights. He could not say what effect it had had, it being his opinion that it was yet too early to form an idea.

POST OFFICE.

GOVERNMENT BY COMMISSION.

COUNTRY TELEPHONES.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Mr. Agar Wynne, the new Postmaster-General, in a speech at the annual meeting of the Toorak branch of the Australian Women's National League to-night, said that the Government proposed to appoint postal commissioners on the lines of the Railway Commissioners in the different States, in order to secure continuity of office, so to speak. Regarding country telephones, he said he would like to see every farmhouse throughout Australia so equipped. The cost of erection in the past, however, had been very large, amounting to about £25 per mile. Strong and heavy poles were always used. He was going to suggest to the farmers that the department would pay the cost of erecting short posts and wires if the farmers would form local committees to keep them in order.

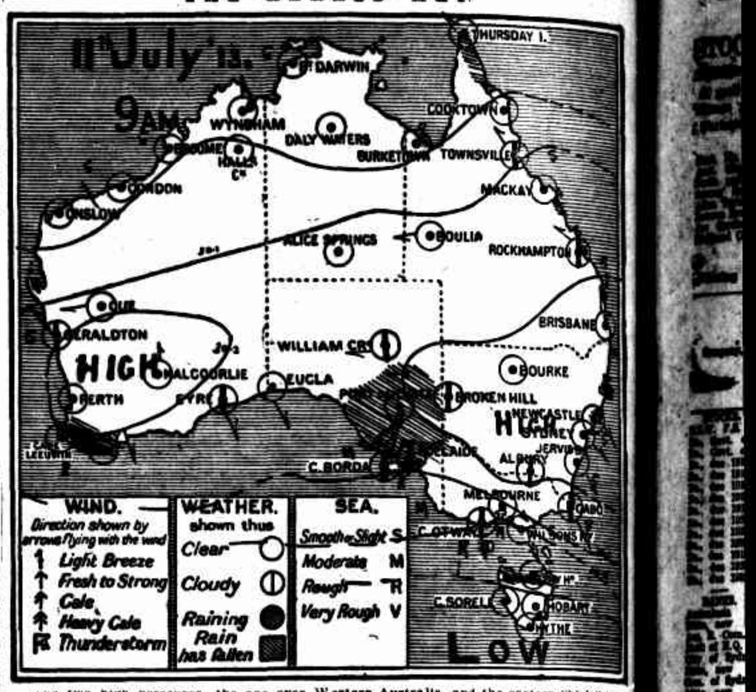

SNOOKER CHAMPIONSHIP.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The final for the amateur snooker championship of Victoria was won by Mr. C. J. Lane to-night.

AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.

The two high pressures, the one over Western Australia and the eastern "high," have coalesced, and formed two centres. The centre of the eastern "high," which was situated in the south-eastern districts of New South Wales, has lost nearly two-tenths in barometric values, while the one over the goldfields of Western Australia has gained slightly. The different systems show a surge northwards, thus allowing the Antarctic disturbance to be in evidence on the Victorian coast, and over Tasmania, where it is resulting in fresh to strong NW winds and gales.

A slight monsoonal depression is shown on the chart as being over the western districts of Queensland. The Antarctic disturbance, which has been operating about New Zealand for the past day or two, has moved eastward, owing to the advance of the high pressure.

NORTHERN MINES.

WAGES BOARD CHAIRMAN.

DELAYED APPOINTMENT.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

The representatives of the miners are annoyed at the delay in the appointment of a chairman for the wages boards for the mining industry. Mr. D. Watson, president of the Colliery Employees' Federation, said to-day that the delay was most unsatisfactory to them. There were two pits not working in the district, and the federation had to support the miners while they were idle. Other disputes were cropping up almost daily. Last week there were six disputes at the collieries. This week there were two, and it was only by the action of the executive officers that the pits were working at Neath. He could not understand why the delay had taken place. They were anxious to have the wages board in operation as soon as possible. He was disappointed with Mr. Hibble being unwilling to act as chairman, as all the evidence in the case of the payment for small coal had been heard by him at the joint conciliation committee.

A conference took place at the Lymington colliery yesterday in regard to the rates for an agreement for the future working of the pit. No headway was made. In the meanwhile the men are continuing to work. Mr. A. Lewis, and the lodge officers of Abermain No. 2, met the manager and under-manager in conference, when certain points in an agreement were fixed up, but others were held over for a future date.

FINANCIAL.

THE STOCK EXCHANGE.

STORY OF THE PARENT INSTITUTION.

ITS SMALL BEGINNINGS.

From the day in which anyone could enter Old Jonathan's coffee-house on the payment of 6d, the story of the mother of Stock Exchanges has been full of romance. A century and a quarter ago transactions of a Stock Exchange character took place in the neighbourhood of Cornhill, in Lombard-street, and more particularly in Change Alley and Sweeting's Alley. In these localities it was possible:—

To buy and sell, to see and hear
The Jews and gentiles squabble.
While the greatest ladies in the land
Plied their chariots daily,
Or pawned their jewels for a sum,
To venture in the Alley.

But after a company was formed to erect a home that would lend befitting dignity to the embroyo profession the business gradually became more systematised. The constitution of the London Stock Exchange in one respect differs materially from its Sydney prototype. Here there is no separation of ownership from membership, which is the characteristic feature of the mother of Stock Exchanges in Capel Court, Bartholomew-lane. The Stock Exchange Company was formed in 1801, with a capital of £20,000, in shares of £50 each. Only the wealthier of the members took shares, and these and their heirs, executors, and assigns became the proprietors of the building now so famous the world over. The building has several times been enlarged and brought up to date, and now occupies the greater part of that valuable block of land to the east of the Bank of England, across Bartholomew-lane, and embraced by Throgmorton-street, Old Broad-street, and Threadneedle-street, with the Royal Exchange on the other side. It is interesting to note how the founder shareholders got on from a purely investment point of view. During the first 75 years the dividends paid on their shares averaged over 20 per cent., and the last appropriation we have on record was £10 per £50 share. Upon the formation of the company there were about 500 members, and by 1854 the membership had increased to over 1000. By 1885 the membership had grown to 2500, while to-day there are over 5000 members. At first the entrance fee was £10. Now, a new member must be guaranteed by three members to the committee of the house in the sum of £500, payable only in the event of his being declared a defaulter within four years of election, and the guarantors must not take security to cover their liability. Otherwise there is no restriction on membership, except that no member can be engaged in any other business. Members are elected by ballot, and for one year only, so that theoretically at least any member is liable to exclusion at the end of each 12 months. It is not permitted that a member should advertise, or even send circulars to other than his own clients, nor may a member be also a member of any other exchange or be in any way connected with any "bucket shop," or kindred institution.

In another particular there is an essential difference between the rules of the London and of the Australian Stock Exchanges. At the great metropolis all members are either "brokers" or "jobbers." The former have been described as the solicitors, the latter the barristers of the profession. It is difficult, however, to understand the applicability of this analogy except, perhaps, in so far as the "broker" takes orders to the "jobber" in much the same fashion as the solicitor takes briefs to the barrister.

Stock Exchange etiquette prevents "brokers" from purchasing from other than "jobbers." They may not deal with "brokers." The "broker" gets orders from his clients, and hies him off to a "jobber" to obtain the necessary stocks or shares. From our point of view, this looks very much like an unnecessary duplication of institutions. But this is not altogether the correct view, and it may be certain that, had the "jobber's" existence rested upon so slender a foundation he could scarcely have lasted in these days of the elimination of the middleman, where the middleman is a mere excrescence. The "jobber" owes his continued existence to the fact that he supplies in ordinary times a ready market. He will buy or sell anything at the market prices of the day. He relies for his profit on the "turn" of the market, as it is called. So, if A sells consols to B, and the market price at the time is: buyer 72¾, seller 72⅞, B pays the latter price, plus his "broker's" commission, while A sells at the lower price, minus his "broker's" commission, the "jobber" pocketing the ⅛ per cent., or the "turn." "Broker's" commissions vary between one-sixteenth to one-half per cent., and "jobber's turns" from one-eighth to two or three per cent., according to the nature of the stock. The "jobber," however, in no way guarantees to either buy or sell anything required, though he will usually do so. At the time of the rubber boom and subsequent collapse, it was found that the "jobbers" took all day off for lunch, and for a time certain shares were quite unsaleable.

The government of the Exchange is vested in two bodies, the managers—of whom there are nine, and who represent the shareholders or proprietary interest—and the committee, which numbers 30, and which represents the members or subscribers. This rather clumsy arrangement appears to work out fairly satisfactorily in practice, though it would seem to contain so many elements of divided authority. The managers, who are elected periodically by the shareholders, in batches of three, concern themselves with the fixing of charges for admission to members generally, look after the building, and appoint the necessary officials, with the exception of the secretary of the committee, who, naturally enough, is appointed by the body on whose behalf he acts. The committee looks after the purely Stock Exchange business, formulates and sees to the administration of the rules and regulations, adjudicates upon matters in dispute between members, hears and rectifies, if it can, matters of complaint either for or against members; inquires into and decides whether governments and companies applying to be "listed" have complied with the necessary formalities. It regards contracts entered into by members as at all times inviolable, whether a court of law would so regard them in the circumstances of the case or not, and has power to expel any member who violates its rules or who is proven guilty of dishonourable conduct or who has done anything that is likely to bring the institution into disrepute. New members must now become shareholders as well by the purchase of at least one share in the exchange company, and besides the entrance fee must pay an annual subscription of 40 guineas.

We have already referred to the popular impression that the Stock Exchange is the resort of persons of doubtful character, whose chief object in life is to skin the unwary investor. That investors often lose in Stock Exchange transactions is only too true, but that is as often as not due to their own lack of foresight or gambling propensities. That honesty of the highest character prevails among members is evidence by the fact that, though the turnover on the London Stock Exchange amounts to many millions sterling a year between "brokers" and "jobbers," no contract note passes. All contracts are merely verbal, as is so often the case also between our own much-maligned produce merchants of Sussex-street.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

RUN ON DISINFECTANTS.

In the chemical market yesterday the run on disinfectants was stronger than on previous days. Large sales of chloride of lime were made at £16 per ton; carbolic went out freely for ordinary brands up to 3/3 in parcel lots, and 3/9 to 4/ in distributing lots. For Calvert's 4/9 was asked and obtained. Stocks were large. The same could not be said about sulphur, of which stocks were only moderate. The rise in price had been marked, ordinary brands selling at £10/10/ per ton, and best brands up to £15. It was also expected that sulphur would be wanted in the coming season for the vines in the Hunter valley. Camphor also met with a ready sale. In other chemical lines there was more disposition for business. In bi-carb of soda, in silicate of soda, and in sodaash there was a good deal of movement for forward delivery. Cream of tartar was cabled at /9⅝ c.i.f. and e., for shipment August to December. Another cable reported citric acid as being worth 1/9⅝ c.i.f. and e., with supplies scarce and hard to obtain.

The metal markets were quiet. The reduction in the price of Australian wire-netting had altogether stopped ordering abroad. There was, however, more life in fencing wire, both black and galvanised. There was no relief in regard to the position of No. 10 black. Kelly's axes, light weights, were still scarce.

All merchants having large stocks of linseed oil on hand parcel business was greatly restricted. Distributing rates were unchanged. London cabled that rates for prompt shipment were hardly so strong at 2/1½ f.o.b. for Blundell, Spence's, a fall of a farthing. Forward shipments were without alteration. Whitelead was unaltered, both locally and in London. There was a fair distributing business in all paint material.

The auction sale of tea, though there was only a small catalogue, experienced a good deal of animation. One buyer bought heavily at top rates, and as he represented one of the largest firms others bid up believing that his action betokened a market dearer abroad than here. Competition for all sorts was extremely keen. Everything offered was cleared. Of Ceylons 343 packages were sold up to /10⅝, and of Indians 148 packages up to /9½.

Cornsacks firmed up again yesterday on advices from Calcutta that the market there was up a half-penny. For season's delivery 6/8½, usual terms, was asked, and at this price many lots were sold to the country. For parcel lots a concession could be obtained. Out of the Gracchus' 7/ would be paid. Out of the same boat branbags were quoted at 5/10. Woolpacks were quiet at 2/8. Calcutta cables showed firmness all-round. Besides the advance in cornsacks, branbags of October-December shipment were worth 5/8½ c.i.f., and January to June shipment next year 5/6. Hessian cloth showed an advance of 2½ per cent. for all forward shipments to the middle of next year.

ADMITTED FREE.

It is announced that bow pins for use in the manufacture of ties are admitted free of duty as a minor article for use in the manufacture of goods within the Commonwealth.

EXPORT OF HONEY.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Friday.

It is reported from Christchurch that Canterbury will export about 30 tons of honey this season, realising about 45/ per cwt at Liverpool.

BREADSTUFFS.

BRAN AND POLLARD LOWER.

Wheat was firmer yesterday, and during the afternoon prices for prompt delivery advanced another farthing. Sales were made at 3/7½ for parcels, but at the close 3/7¾ was given. The London cables showed that higher prices were ruling, due to adverse crop reports from France, but there was also the fact that shippers had vessels at the elevators, and were prepared to pay for anything prompt, because they could not get sufficient of their wheat down from the country. The railways were not delivering so freely as last week. For country lots quotations were unchanged at 3/5¾ to 3/6¾ ex trucks Sydney, according to district.

Flour was dull. The Association quoted £8/15/ per ton, but good bakers' flour was available at £8/10/, and flour for export could be bought as low as £7/17/6 in sacks. Bran and pollard were both reduced 5/ per ton, and were quoted at £4/5/.

At Darling Harbour yesterday 2725 tons of wheat and 196 tons of flour were manifested to arrive.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

Unless otherwise specified prices are for distributing lots only.

PRODUCE.

DAIRY.

As is usual on Friday there was no movement in values in the dairy section of the Sussex-street markets. Eggs commanded strong support at about late rates. New-laid suburban cleared at from 1/7 to 1/8; rivers from 1/4 to 1/6, and South Coasts and railways 1/5, with a few choice lots, 1/6. It was stated that it was almost impossible to obtain more money for railways than for rivers, owing to the fact that in the railway consignments every second egg was a duck egg. The short-sightedness of mixing the hen and duck eggs together in the same box has been pointed out in this column many times. When a grocer buys hen eggs he wants hen eggs, and not duck eggs. If he wanted duck eggs he would buy duck eggs.

The reduction in the quotation for butter has put fresh life into the trade. Orders were much more numerous, and the floors were kept fairly clear. The choicest brands were sold at 114/ per cwt, delivered, in boxes.

Cheese was again weak. Prime loaf was offering at from /7 to /7½ per lb. For a few special brands as high as /7½ was asked.

There was a brisk inquiry for bacon at full prices.

Quotations were:—

FORAGE AND GRAIN.

ONIONS WEAKER.

Some holders of onions were weak in their ideas as to value, and were willing to do business at £7 per ton. Others continued firm at £7/10/.

The Victorian steamer landed 200 bags of potatoes. There was a fair demand for the best samples and prices were unchanged.

A small shipment of lucerne hay was received from the Hunter River. The quality was satisfactory to buyers, who paid £5/5/ for small bales and £5 for large bales.

There was no movement in maize. Parcels totalling 620 bags were received from the rivers.

Bidding at the firewood auction was animated, and the previous day's levels were maintained. The manifest showed a big yarding for to-day.

RAILWAY MARKET.

PRICES UNCHANGED.

The sales at the Redfern Railway Markets yesterday morning were absolutely featureless. A large quantity of produce was offered, but the demand was not very good. Consequently competition was far from animated. On the whole prices for all commodities were unchanged. The top price for lucerne chaff was again 5/6, for a consignment from Brewongle. Other sales were effected at from 3/8 to 5/3. Only one truckload of oaten chaff was sold, at 3/3. Lucerne chaff was disposed of at 4/1, 4/8, and 5/. A good sale of maize was effected at 3/10½. The lucerne hay market was rather dull, and not a single consignment was of choice quality. A large quantity of potatoes was offered, but late rates were unchanged, the market generally being exceedingly dull.

A SEAMAN'S REQUEST.

MEDICAL ATTENTION AFTER VACCINATION.

George Robey, 20, a seaman from the steamer Port Pirie, told Mr. Smithers, S.M., at the Water Police Court yesterday that he would not object to being vaccinated and sailing in that vessel if the captain would take a medical man along to look after him if he suffered from the effects of the vaccination. Robey and Herbert Brown, 25, were both charged with being absent from the Port Pirie without permission. Brown did not desire to give evidence. Both were sentenced to 14 days' hard labour.

Constable Jarvis said that when Captain Jolly, master of the Port Pirie, asked seven men in the Shipping Master's office to go aboard and fulfil the articles they had signed, the two accused declined. When the Shipping Master asked them whether they would go aboard, they said that they would if the captain would take a medical officer to look after them.

The vessel was delayed from Tuesday afternoon until Thursday night.

MINING.

WAITING ON LONDON.

A STAGNANT MARKET.

ALL SECTIONS AFFECTED.

"Waiting for the verdict of the London Stock Exchange to-day," describes the state of the Sydney Stock Exchange yesterday morning, and doubtless the same was the case on the Stock Exchanges of Adelaide and Melbourne.

One local operator aptly described the situation by remarking that a speculator was like a man walking in a fog. "Until the fog lifts, we won't know where we are, and are compelled to be cautious, particularly in the case of clients not versed in market operations." This generally indicates the opinion held by operators, hence it is no wonder that slackness reigns supreme.

Indeed, had it not been for the Ardlethan group of tin stocks, the market would have been practically dead as regards the amount of business transacted. The big drop in the price of tin had very little effect upon Ardlethans, for the simple reason that the price of the white metal stood at such a high figure, when at £220 per ton or £2 per unit, that there was plenty of room for a big decrease to take place, and yet mean big profits to companies winning ore ranging from 15 to 40 per cent. of tin oxide. Some of the ore being bagged on the Ardlethan tin field to-day averages 50 per cent., and even at the present reduced price of the metal, is worth £87/10/ per ton of ore. Of course, everything depends upon how much of such high-grade ore is available. A lode 50ft or 100ft wide, averaging 4 per cent., would be more valuable than a gash vein of 50 per cent.

The two leading features of the market this morning was the continued dulness of Barriers and copper stocks, except in the case of Broken Hill Junction Norths, and a more cheerful note sounded the case of Ardlethan stocks. Indeed, the latter showed a decided recovery on the easier values reached earlier in the week. This was particularly noticeable in the case of Carpathias, Wild Cherry, White Crystal, and Ardlethan Options. Business on firm lines was also booked in Vulcan Tin (Queensland), but both Tongkah Harbour and Tongkah Compound sold on the easy side.

Ardlethan stocks were again the leading feature of the market during the afternoon. They displayed considerable activity at solid rates, when compared with the slackness ruling in the copper, silver, and gold sections. In fact, had it not been for the Ardlethan business, the vestibule of the Stock Exchange would have been a dull place indeed.

Carpathias commanded firm support, the cause of which appears to be the strong conviction ruling in certain quarters that the directors intend at an early date to declare their second dividend, despite the assertion of the "know-alls" that the company has not the money with which to meet it. Southern Cross shares were also solidly supported, notwithstanding the positive assertion of some people that it would take a powerful magnifying glass to discover the tin lode said to be being developed. It is remarkable the number of contradictory statements made about different mines on the Ardlethan field. On Thursday a telegram from the mine manager received by the legal manager of the Southern Cross mine stated that the former had struck a new line of lode, and was "bagging ore from same." The telegram was yesterday supplemented by a letter, in which the mine manager stated that the ore is "very rich." The effect of this information was to cause the price of the shares to harden. The tone of the market also hardened in the case of Wild Cherry and White Crystals, whilst Ardlethan Options and Big Bygoo were also firmer.

MINING NOTES.

A wireless telegram was received yesterday by Mr. J. E. Cocker, secretary of the Guinea Gold, No Liability, from Mr. H. W. Clark, stating he had arrived at Port Moresby quite well, and is leaving on Saturday (to-day) for Samarai. Mr. Clark, it should be stated, has gone to New Guinea for the purpose of testing by bores the gold contents of a large area of ground in the Yodda Valley.

The Adelaide secretary of the Bullfinch Proprietary Company writes:—"The following telegram has been received from the company's Perth office:—'In addition to the profit of £9224 2s 3d from the clean-up for June, the company has placed in reserve for equalisation of output bullion to the value of £2157 7s 11d.'"

MINING IN THE STATE.

LITHGOW, Friday.

A mining report from Sunny Corner states that Mr. J. T. Gray, mining surveyor, has just completed a survey of Messrs. Brown Bros.' new leases. It is stated that negotiations are proceeding with the Goldfields Diamond Drilling Company to test this ground as soon as they are finished at the Nevada mine.

B.H. JUNCTION NORTH COMPANY.

DISSATISFIED SHAREHOLDERS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

In compliance with a requisition from the necessary number of shareholders, a special meeting of the Junction North Broken Hill Mine has been called for August 6. Following their request for a meeting, the dissatisfied body of shareholders have prepared a circular with the object of securing proxies for use at the meeting. Therein the shareholders are reminded that, despite the carrying of what was practically a no-confidence motion at the recent meeting, no move has been made by the board to fall in with the wishes of the shareholders. To further emphasise the need for a change, some figures obtainable from the operations of the company for the six years ended September 12 are given.

WESTERN AUSTRALIAN MINES.

SOME JUNE GOLD YIELDS.

KALGOORLIE, Friday.

Ida H, 1415 tons, gold, £4278. Expenditure, £2826.

Yuanmi, 10,400 tons, gold £17,849. Expenditure, £15,252.

Golden Horseshoe, 25,697 tons, gold £26,510. Working expenses £27,120, development £4076. Reduction in tonnage due to five Sundays, and Eight Hours' Day, occurring in the month. The manager reports that he should be in a position to work No. 4 lode from the 2630ft level next week.

HAWKIN'S HILL REWARD.

BATHURST, Friday.

The Hawkin's Hill Reward Gold Mining Company has just put through 15 tons of ore, for a return of 28oz of melted gold. The new reef at a depth of a little over 100ft is looking exceptionally well.

ARDLETHAN TIN FIELD.

"Advance N.S.W." writes:—"I am glad to see our Government is at last awakening to the fact that there is every possibility of the field in question becoming a permanent one. Once a supply of water for domestic purposes is available hundreds will flock to Ardlethan and Bygoo. I trust that a light line of railway from Ardlethan to Bygoo will soon be put in hand by the Government, the cost of which will be only £10,000. Capitalists are prepared on completion of such to erect an up-to-date concentrating plant, and obtain a supply of water at the Bygoo end of the field. If several of the mines, with small capital, able to raise 20 to 30 tons of ore monthly, could only get it away to Wyalong for treatment they would soon be in a position financially to go in for greater development work, thus giving means for further employment, etc. The Railway Commissioner must exert himself to provide a regular supply of trucks at Ardlethan, to carry ore being stacked there weekly by the bigger companies. They also require capital to carry on work on a larger scale, in order to make the field an important one."

BULLFINCH PROPRIETARY, LIMITED.

The following are the chief features from the report of progress for the two weeks ended June 28:—

Main Series, 100ft Level.—North-east drive from crosscut No. 4 started and extended 6ft, in ore averaging £4 5s, over a width of 58in. South-west drive opposite started and extended 6ft, in ore averaging £3, over a width of 60in.

No. 2 (South) Series.—Shaft No. 1, 100ft level: North-west drive to Discovery Shaft extended 21ft to 37ft, in ore averaging £2 3s 9d, over a width of 60in. North-west crosscut, 32ft west off south-west drive, started and extended 11ft, ore assaying £1 5s 3d. 210ft level (new lode): Commenced rising at 150ft west, up total of 4ft; average value, £4 5s over a width of 48in.

No. 3 (Northern) Series.—Ore body (210ft level): North-east drive from crosscut extended 10ft to 60ft, in ore averaging £1 13s over a width of 53in. South-west crosscut, at 55ft west, off west drive, 400ft north, started and extended 15ft, in ore assaying £1 11s. West drive, off crosscut 447ft north, at 30ft, in, extended 14ft to 43ft, in ore averaging £0 7s 6d over a width of 65 inches. Branch drive: Rise at 80ft north, put up 25ft to 32ft. Reef 48in wide, assaying £1 18s 3d per ton.

ARDLETHAN CENTRAL BLOCKS OPTIONS, LTD.

The secretary reports for the week ended July 4:—

P.M.L., 31: This shaft is 60ft deep, in same values as last report. The footwall is very defined, and is becoming more vertical. It is our intention to drive at this depth to pick up the rich shoot worked above.

P.M.L., 29: Still costeaning, and, according to present indications met with, expect to pick up the lode recently found on the Southern Cross, which is opening up fairly well.

WILD CHERRY TIN MINE.

The secretary of the Wild Cherry Tin Mining Company reports progress for the week ended July 4:—

Smith No. 2 shaft: 69ft: low-grade ore still in the bottom.

Smith No. 1 shaft: Will be ready to commence sinking again next week, when the whip will be completed, and driving commenced on the lode. Will immediately commence sinking two other shafts.

Hough shaft is 56ft deep, with the same rich ore in the bottom. The directors will settle on the position of mine manager at the end of the week, and will then consider the erection of the mine manager's residence, erection of plant, and the sinking of the dam. There is a large quantity of good payable ore that will be put through on the erection of our own machinery. As the company has large funds in hand, it is thought better to keep this ore at grass until our own machinery is erected, and by doing this a great saving to the company will be assured.

DRUMLISH HILL TIN MINE.

The manager of the Drumlish Hill Tin-mining Company (Ardlethan), in his weekly report, dated July 5, states:—

"The quantity of ore raised out of the two shafts to date is:—North shaft, approximately 60 tons; and south shaft, 20 tons. Total, 80 tons; which would average about 6 per cent. The improvement in values in the north shaft is continuing. The very rich ore was a bunch only, but for about 12in wide and the full length of shaft the ore is 10 to 12 per cent. Depth of north shaft is 31ft, and south shaft 32ft. Ore in trench north of shaft is good, averaging from 12 to 15 per cent. in very hard quartz in centre of 8ft lode, the whole of which carries tin from a trace to 4 or 5 per cent.

BLOCK 14 TORRINGTON MINE.

The mine manager reports for fortnight ending July 3:—

Boring and blasting proceeding on north and south terraces at Fielder's Hill, and a large quantity of ore is accumulating. Cut "bung" of wolfram which, so far, has yielded 4½ tons, assaying approximately 35 per cent., with more in sight. Expect to start regular milling on July 3. A slight delay occurred, owing to leaks in launders, which has been remedied. Machinery and pumping station running well.

SPORTING.

THE TURF.

The Warwick Farm Racing Club provides an outing this afternoon for metropolitan racegoers, while patrons of trotting are catered for at Epping by the New South Wales Trotting Club; and those who prefer to go further afield can assist at the July reunion of the Newcastle Jockey Club. The V.R.C. Grand National Steeplechase Meeting will be brought to a close at Flemington; the Queensland Turf Club holds its July Meeting at Brisbane; and the principal racing fixture in Western Australia is the July Meeting of the Helena Vale Racing Club.

Mr. W. L. Davis, secretary, will receive entries up to 4 p.m. on Monday next for the half dozen races on the programme for the Canterbury Park July Meeting on the 26th inst. The prize money aggregates 650 sovs, of which 125 sovs each goes to the Hurdle Race and Canterbury Handicap, and 100 sovs each to the other events.

The July Meeting of the Warwick Farm Racing Club takes place this afternoon, and the bill of fare to be discussed is a very interesting one. The track is reported to be excellent going, and the management has made the customary preparations for the comfort and convenience of a large assemblage. The transit arrangements include special trams starting from the Central Railway Station at 12.7, 12.22, 12.40, 12.51, 12.56, 1.8, and 1.20 p.m., the 12.51, 1.8, and 1.20 p.m. stopping at Strathfield and Granville, and the 12.6 and 12.22 p.m. stop at Granville to pick up passengers. Racing commences at 2.10 p.m. with the Hurdle Race, in which the places may be filled by Warbar, Inverlorn, and Special Messenger. Sinceritas, Willinera, and Boomalli should divide the honours in the Farm Stakes; while Salarino, Momarjay, and Dion may get home as named in the Liverpool Mile, unless seperated by Eupony. The situations in the Juvenile Handicap may be occupied by Peel River, Lizzie Wauken, and Karoof; N.S.W., Pan Out, and Dion may pass the judge in that order for the Warwick Handicap, and Ninfa, Blast, and Gunilla should have the settlement of the Pace Welter among them, and may pass the judge as named.

Up to 4 p.m. on Monday next the secretary, Mr. J. Winsor, invites entries for the five events on the card for the meeting of the Wollongong Racing Club on the 22nd instant. The prize-money totals £130, of which the Bulli Welter, Illawarra Stakes, and Wollongong Mile take £30 each, and the other two races are worth £20 each.

Metropolitan visitors to the July re-union of the Newcastle Jockey Club at Broadmeadows this afternoon, will be in ample time at the convincing ground by the trains starting from the Central Railway Station for the north at 6.45, 7.55, and 9.10 a.m., and can return the same evening by the 5.20 and 6.50 p.m. trains for Sydney. A special service of trains runs between the Newcastle Railway Station and the racecourse. The programme foreshadows interesting sport.

Entries for the postponed trotting fixture of the Richmond Trotting and Racing Club will be received up to 5 p.m. on Monday next by the secretary, Mr. C. T. Griffiths, Richmond.

Epping will this afternoon be the rendezvous of lovers of trotting, and the programme for the occasion should attract a large gathering, inasmuch as large fields seem assured, and the horses engaged include some of the best track performers in the State. The track is reported to be first-class going, and the general arrangements up to the customary standard. Visitors will be accommodated with special and ordinary trams via George-street, at short intervals after midday, while ordinary trams for Annandale, Lilyfield, and Balmain also stop at the racecourse gates. The first event is timed to start at 2.30 p.m.

The scratchings recorded yesterday in connection with the Warwick Farm July Meeting were:—Expodite out of the Farm Stakes, Woolerina out of the Liverpool Mile, Collar King, San Salvadoro, and Ostata out of the Juvenile Handicap, and Kinetic and Tension out of the Pace Welter.

Messrs. H. Chisholm and Co. hold their fortnightly sale of bloodstock at their stables, Randwick, on Monday next. Among the racehorses already catalogued are Warradonga (by Simmer), Metallicus (by Stepniak), and Recorder (by Ayr Laddie), while a number of high-class polo ponies will also be brought under the hammer, including drafts from Messrs. A. M. White, B. R. Richards, A. W. Turnbull, J. Davies, Frank Osborne, and Hunter White's breeding establishments. Further entries will be received up to the time of sale, which commences at 2.30 p.m.

The programme for the Moorefield August meeting on the 2nd proximo is announced. The half-dozen events listed carry an aggregate of 750 sovs, of which 150 sovs endows the Flying Handicap, 125 each the Kogarah Stakes, Three-year-old Handicap, Moorefield Handicap, and Welter Handicap, and 100 sovs the Hurdle Race. Nominations close with the secretary, Mr. J. Lamrock, at 4 p.m. on Monday, the 21st instant.

Messrs. William Inglis and Son report having sold, on account of Mr. George Chinnocks, of Campbelltown, the thoroughbred stallion, Light of the Moon, by Positano (imp.) from Silver Ray, 4 years, to the New Zealand and Australian Land Company, Ltd., and the horse leaves on Monday next for their station, Wingadee, Coonamble.

Our Grafton correspondent telegraphs that the forthcoming annual meeting of the Clarence River Jockey Club is attracting considerable attention, and promises to be very successful. The privileges in connection therewith have realised at auction £356, including the record price of £238 for the gates.

Messrs. H. Chisholm and Co. yesterday received a cable from the New Zealand sportsman, Mr. J. B. Reid, who contemplated sending a team of racehorses to take part in the A.J.C. spring campaign, stating that he had decided not to send them across.

The new trotting track at the Sydney Show Ground is getting into shape, and the secretary of the Royal Agricultural Society states that it will be in good order for the handicap trot on August 2. The basis of the track is selected clay puddled, and rammed in. The turns of the track have been widened and banked, and the grading has also been improved. The top will be covered with loose, dry, light sandy soil to give the horses the necessary foothold, and take off the jar. Entries for the handicap trot close on 23rd instant.

VICTORIA RACING CLUB.

G. N. STEEPLECHASE MEETING.

THIRD DAY.

ANTICIPATIONS.

The Grand National Steeplechase Meeting of the V.R.C. will be brought to a close this afternoon, at Flemington, and the programme promises high-class sport over obstacles and on the flat. The programme will be run off as under:—Lawn Handicap, 1.30; Doutta Galla Hurdle Race, 2.15; Grand National Steeplechase, 3.5; Footscray Steeplechase, 3.45; Trial Handicap Hurdle Race, 4.15; and July Handicap, 4.50 p.m.

The most likely to figure prominently in the contest for the Lawn Handicap appear to be Widgiewa, Two Ales, Peck o' Maut, and Brasseur, and the judge may declare for Brasseur, Peck o' Maut, and Widgiewa.

The Doutta Galla Hurdle Race should bring about a great battle, in which a number of the G. N. Hurdle Race horses will again measure strides. Those that seem to have the brightest prospects are Wimmera, Forest Prince, Bonnie George, Light Ballast, and Flash Jack, and the numbers may be hoisted for Bonnie George, Forest Prince, and Wimmera, unless separated by Flash Jack.

A grand contest is promised for the Grand National Steeplechase, in which Bullawarra holds the pride of place with 12st 7lb, and as he is a good jumper and possesses an excellent turn of speed on the flat, he must be a hard horse to beat. Captain Jingle has quite enough in 12st 1lb, but with 6lb less Guncap, who appears to be all right again, should give a good account of himself. Vanguard should be handy towards the end of the trip, and Leah Kleshna can be trusted to see out the journey. Tramp should run well, and the same may be said of Big Bob and United Kingdom, while the best of the others seem to be The Miser and Emiroo. The most likely to be in the fighting line towards the end of the tiring journey are Bullawarra, Guncap, Vanguard, Leah Kleshna, United Kingdom, and Emiroo, and the numbers may be hoisted for Bullawarra, Leah Kleshna, and Guncap, unless divided by United Kingdom.

Kororite, Topmast, Kornang, and Goshen seem to have the brightest prospects in the Footscray Steeplechase, and the situations may go to Topmast, Kornang, and Kororite.

Jimiston, Gilowa, Bill Brandon, and Mirinya appear to be the most reliable of the candidates for the Trial Hurdle Race, and Gilowa, Jimiston, and Mirinya may pass the post in that order.

The July Handicap, with which the meeting will be brought to a close, promises a good finish, in which Broadsword, Loru, Mala, Two Ales, and Meerut should have most to say, and the judge may declare for Loru, Two Ales, and Mala.

The programme is subjoined:—

FOOTBALL.

RUGBY UNION.

NEW ZEALAND UNIVERSITIES.

MATCH AGAINST A STRONG METROPOLITAN TEAM.

The visiting New Zealand Universities footballers will play the third match of their Sydney programme this afternoon at the University Oval, when they will be opposed by a powerful Metropolitan fifteen. The visitors are unbeaten, but the local side is likely to spoil their record this afternoon. The local fifteen includes the half-back combination of many international games (Ward Prentice and F. Wood), and Carr, Wogan, and Westropp representative three-quarters. The football of the 'Varsities team has been of a brilliant character, and, with such a fine back team in opposition, this afternoon's display is likely to be a very fine one. Cuthill, the captain of the Dominion combination, has given two sterling exhibitions of centre three-quarter play, and has been well supported by Faire and Withers.

The early game will be between Sydney University and another Metropolitan team. The teams will be:—

New Zealand Universities: Full-back, A. McCallum; three-quarters, S. Withers, J. Cuthill, A. S. Faire; five-eighths, G. Darby, P. J. Ryan; half-back, H. Childs; forwards, W. Bilkey, A. Kidd, C. Cartwright, D. Dobson, G. Porter, G. Fisher, T. Fawcett, H. H. Quillian.

Metropolitan: Full-back, A. White; three-quarters, E. Carr, L. W. Wogan, A. Prentice, Massey-Westropp; five-eighth, Ward Prentice; half-back, F. Wood; forwards, C. W. Prentice, C. O'Donnell, C. Hatchman, M. Anderson, R. Nelson, D. Billinghame, J. Archer, G. Walters.

Referee, Mr. T. Pauling.

Sydney University: Full-back, J. M. Beith; three-quarters, G. Harden, A. C. Jeckyll, A. C. McLennan, E. S. James; halves, J. Hamilton, J. Blackett; forwards, A. Henry, G. Arnold, A. Allen, L. B. Heath, A. Allen, T. Cooney, R. J. Massie, L. J. Reynolds.

Referee, Mr. R. I. Swannell.

TO-DAY'S COMPETITION GAMES.

EASTERN SUBURBS v NEWTOWN.

The metropolitan competitions will proceed this afternoon in the second and third grade, but only two games will be played in the first grade competition. North Sydney and South Sydney will meet to decide who shall play Glebe on the following Saturday for the fourth position in the A division clubs, who will contest the premiership. South Sydney won in the first round, and are expected to again finish victors. The match of the day, however, will be between Eastern Suburbs and Newtown at Rushcutter Bay. If the Easterners win it will practically decide the premiership, but if Newtown be successful, they will have an excellent chance of gaining the honours. On their previous meeting this season, Eastern Suburbs won by 10 to 3. Following is the programme for to-day:—

First Grade.

South Sydney v North Sydney, North Sydney Oval, 3.15 (F. P. Cody); Eastern Suburbs v Newtown, Rushcutter Bay, 3.15 (O. H. Harding).

Second Grade.

Thornton); North Sydney v South Sydney, North Sydney Oval, 2 (C. E. Morgan); Glebe v St. George, Hurstville Oval, 3.15 (R. P. Cohen); Western Suburbs v Manly, Manly Oval, 3.15 (T. NEW ZEALAND UNIVERSITY FOOTBALLERS.

VALEDICTORY LUNCHEON.

The New Zealand University team of footballers were entertained at a luncheon by Messrs. Lindeman, Ltd., in the Cawarra Cellars, Queen Victoria Markets, yesterday, at which there was a large and representative attendance. A number of toasts were honoured.

In the course of a speech, Mr. H. Y. Braddon, the chairman, said he had been a member of the party which had been instrumental in making up the first New Zealand team in 1884. Twenty-nine years was a long time to look back, and many wonderful changes had since transpired; but the true sportsmanlike spirit of the game of football was still manifest, and this had been shown in the recent matches. The amateur Rugby game was as fine a game as one could wish for, and the contest which had taken place a few days ago was one of the finest games played this year. (Hear, hear.) He was very glad to learn that in New Zealand the new game had not flourished; not that he objected to it, but because it was introducing certain elements into the sport of tradition.

Mr. W. Perry, representing the visitors, returned thanks. He said that if football was always played with the spirit that had been shown during the recent matches, there would be little at which to cavil. On behalf of the New Zealand team, he thanked them for the hospitality they had just received, and also the kindness extended while sojourning in Sydney. (Applause.)

Mr. Lindeman and Mr. N. Y. Dean also responded, the other speakers being Messrs. H. Wansley and D. Scott.

TEAM FOR QUEENSLAND.

Owing to the outbreak of smallpox, the N.S.W. Rugby Union decided to postpone the departure of the State team for Queensland until August, but in deference to the wishes of the northern union that decision has been rescinded, and the team will leave on Wednesday.

The majority of the players have been vaccinated, and the remainder will be operated upon at once.

RUGBY LEAGUE.

To-day's Competition Matches.

The second round of the competition will be advanced another stage to-day and the four first-grade games set down promise to be productive of interesting football. Eastern Suburbs will meet North Sydney at the Sydney Cricket Ground, and they should repeat their first round victory of 15 points to eight. The Northerners, since their defeat, have lost their champion three-quarter Devereux, who has gone to England. However, they can be relied on to test the mettle of their opponents. The Sports Ground will be the scene of the meeting of South Sydney and Annandale, and the latter, though beaten in the initial round by 10 points to four, are sure to put up an attractive game. Newtown and Balmain at Erskineville Oval promises a particularly keen struggle. In the first round the Birchgrove team were victorious by seven points to two, but have since lost the match on a protest lodged by Newtown for playing Wall, a residentially unqualified player. The League's action in allotting the victory to Newtown places that club second in the competition table, with only one point less than the leading club, Eastern Suburbs. Glebe should experience no difficulty in holding Western Suburbs at Wentworth Park, whom they defeated in their previous engagement by 19 points to nine. Following is a list of to-day's games:—

First Grade.

Newtown v Balmain, Erskineville Oval, 3.15 (C. Hedley); Eastern Suburbs v North Sydney, Cricket Ground, 3.15 (T. McMahon); Annandale v South Sydney, Sports Ground, 3.15 (A. Bolton); Glebe v Western Suburbs, Wentworth Park, 3.15 (A. Farrow).

Second Grade.

South Sydney v Sydney, Sports Ground, 2 p.m. (J. Buchanan); Balmain v Mosman, Birchgrove No. 1, 3.15 (A. Ballerum); Glebe v Grosvenor, Wentworth Park, 2 p.m. (A. Norton); Eastern Suburbs v Redfern, Cricket Ground, No. 2, 2 p.m. (T. E. Phelan); North Sydney v West Sydney, Cricket Ground, 2 p.m. (H. M. Poulton); Newtown v Marrickville, Erskineville Oval, 2 p.m. (E. Shaw); Western Suburbs v Annandale, Pratten Park, 3.15 (forfeit by Annandale).

BASEBALL.

THE GRADE COMPETITIONS.

The match at Leichhardt Oval, between Leichhardt and Waverley, promises to be the most interesting of to-day's fixtures. On recent performances the local team would seem to have the better chance of winning. The heavy hitters are expected to relish the pitching of P. Stacey. However, the unexpected often happens, and Waverley are playing well at present. The leaders, Mosman-North Sydney and Lane Cove, are not likely to be defeated by their opponents—University and Burwood—although the other teams would like to see both beaten. Petersham should easily account for Paddington at Petersham. Following are the fixtures for to-day:—

BILLIARDS.

AIKEN v WILLIAMS.

When the match was resumed yesterday the scores were:—

Williams	12,056

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Aiken converted an unfinished 32 to 80. He did nothing special, his best being 51, 55, and 64. His aggregate for the afternoon was but 355. Williams, who was to leeward by over 1300, played up well. With runs of 77, 92, 99, 414, and 142 unfinished, he left off 531 behind. His total for the session was 1075, his average being a shade under 77. The 414 was the biggest break of the match; it was put together most attractively, and included a great variety of shots, some of which were very difficult.

The interval scores were:—

Aiken	14,162
Williams (in play)	13,131

EVENING SESSION.

There was a good house when the Englishman made his not-out innings into 174 (full). His other centuries were 125, 126, 111, 148. Aiken began with 51, followed four sticks later with 101. He then settled down for 50 minutes' occupancy of the table, and ran up a splendidly-played 544—a record for the match. This big contribution to his total included a number of skilful shots, notably run through losers, cannons when the balls were wide apart, and screw-losers. About 80 per cent. of his scoring was at the spot end, and he looked like going on till he was pulled up when trying to twist into the left top pocket. Loud applause greeted the Scottish champion when he sat down.

The closing scores were:—

Williams	13,812

The match will be concluded at Alcock's Tournament Hall to-day. Play starts at 3 p.m. and 8 p.m.

STUD SHEEP SALES.

MERINOS.

HILL, CLARK, AND CO.'S SALE.

The dispersal of stud sheep ended yesterday, when Messrs. Hill, Clark, and Co., Ltd. (in conjunction with Messrs. Powers, Rutherford, and Co., of Melbourne) held the final sale of the week's series. The sale was well attended, and anything out of the ordinary run was always in good request. The flock rams in several instances made good averages.

A notable feature of the day's transactions was the sale to Mr. J. F. W. Paine of two special stud rams, sold on account of the estate of the late F. E. Body, of Hundemar, Trangie. One of the rams topped the lists by bringing 550 guineas, and the other realised 300 guineas. The average for the pair—£446 5s—is the highest obtained during the week.

Though not listed for sale, but for exhibition only, 10 of the Body Estate ewes furnished a topic of more than ordinary interest. There were 10 of them penned, and for the pick of five of them Messrs. Henry Collins and Co. (Mount Byron, South Australia) gave 100 guineas each, which is claimed as an Australian, if not a world's, record for merino ewes. The firm mentioned will be remembered as the buyers, about two years ago, of the champion ram Dandie Dinmont at the big price of 1550 guineas.

Other good averages made during the sale were £110 5s for 20 Haddon Rig rams; £108 10s for three from Fairlie Grange; and £80 3s 8d for 11 from Deniliquin Park Stud.

MODERN PROPHETS.

LECTURE BY MR. JOSEPH M'CABE.

At the Protestant Hall, Castlereagh-street, last night, Mr. Joseph M'Cabe delivered a lecture entitled "Prophets of Modern Europe."

At the outset the lecturer dealt with the clashing of new ideals and old traditions, and referred to the great prophets. Coming to the analysis of modern idealism, and the estimate of tendencies, Mr. M'Cabe said it had been asserted that all the education in the world would not eliminate the germ of criminal trait, but such a statement could not be regarded as the gospel of modern science. He believed that education would yet accomplish much. Let one national group bind with another. By this means distinctions would be obliterated. Let men and women realise the truth of modern thought. Mankind was going to take a united stand against the few who disagreed with them.

PROPOSED RAILWAY.

ROSLYN TO TARALGA.

At the meeting of the Public Works Committee yesterday, evidence was adduced with regard to the expediency of constructing a railway from Roslyn to Taralga.

Mr. R. H. Makin, Assistant Inspector of Agriculture, Department of Agriculture, stated he had visited all points of the country to be served by the proposed line, and, compared with other parts of the State, it was superior. The land was, moreover, free from blackberry, or similar noxious growth, and was suitable for dairying and vegetable cultivation.

Mr. O. Trickett, surveyor and draftsman, Mines Department, also gave evidence. In some parts, the country was rich, but one of the reasons why the farmers had not been as successful as they might have been was because at certain points the land was rather unsheltered.

AMUSEMENTS.

LEWIS WALLER, IN "HENRY V."

The Theatre Royal, newly redecorated for the occasion, will re-open this evening for the first appearance in Australia of Lewis Waller as King Henry V. This famous actor-manager has brought out with him a group of artists from London, headed by Miss Madge Titheradge, who will be seen both as Chorus and as Princess Katherine of France. The great battle scenes of Shakespeare's spirit-stirring patriotic play, and other incidents, will be shown with elaborate spectacular effect. A cast of nearly two score characters will also include:—Duke of Gloucester, Raymond Lawrence; Duke of Bedford, Clive Randford; Duke of Exeter, Geo. S. Titheradge; Earl of Westmoreland, Reginald Dane; Archbishop of Canterbury, Halliwell Hobbes; Lord Scroop, Rawdon Blandford; Sir Thomas Grey, F. Wrecknall; Sir Thomas Erpingham, J. H. Martin; Gower, Percy Walshe; Fluellen, Alec. F. Thompson; Williams, Frank Woolfe; Pistol, Evelyn Beerbohm; Nym, Edmund Waller; Bardolph, Harry Halley; Boy, Miss Francis; The King of France, Halliwell Hobbes; The Dauphin, Chas. Quartermaine; Constable of France, William Devereaux; Montjoy, Nicholas Joy; A French Soldier, Frank Harcourt; Queen of France, Nellie Calvin; Alice, Nancy Lee; The Hostess, Marianne Caldwell.

"MISS HOOK OF HOLLAND."

Paul Rubens' dainty musical comedy "Miss Hook of Holland," originally produced by Sir Rupert Clarke and Clyde Meynell, will next Saturday evening be revived at the Criterion Theatre under the J. C. Williamson management, thus involving an entirely new cast furnished by the Royal Comic Opera Company. Miss Olive Godwin has returned from England for the excellent singing role of Sally Hook, and various favourite artists will assist, as follows:—Mr. Leslie Holland (Mr. Hook), Mr. Andrew Higginson (Captain Paap), M. Frank Greene (Bandmaster van Vuyt), Mr. Edward Noble (Ludwig Schnapps), Mr. Claude Bantock (von Eck), Mr. Jack Cannot (Simon Slinks), and Miss Jessie Lonnen (Mina). The plan will open at Paling's on Tuesday next.

CRITERION THEATRE.

"Excuse Me" completed a run of five weeks at the Criterion Theatre last night, and this evening Mr. Fred. Niblo, Miss Beatrice Terry, and the other artists of the combination will make their farewell appearance in Rupert Hughes' laughable railway-car comedy, before leaving for their season in Brisbane. Mr. Fred. Niblo, as the star in this American play, has still further established himself in the favour of Sydney playgoers. The Criterion will remain closed during the first five nights of next week.

THE LITTLE THEATRE.

"Bobby Burnit," in which Mr. Hugh Buckler is so happily placed as the breezy young idler who inherits a great business from his father, and perpetrates all the blunders predicted by the old man before being roused to endeavour by his love for Agnes (Miss Violet Paget), will this evening enter upon its last seven nights. On Monday, July 21, the management will produce Arnold Bennett's "The Great Adventure" for the first time in Australia. An outline of the plot appear in our "Music and Drama" columns.

PALACE THEATRE.

At 2 o'clock to-day there will be another matinee performance of "The Grafters," at the Palace Theatre by the American Musical Burlesque Company. The new piece has now fairly captured Sydney audiences. Messrs. Le Blanc, Valk, Nowlan, and Burgess as the four comedians, Eugenie Le Blanc as the comedienne, and step dancer, Gertrude St. Clair as the dashing widow, and a smart American chorus and ballet assist in making the fun fast and furious.

ADELPHI THEATRE.

The last six nights of "Man to Man" are announced at the Adelphi Theatre, where large audiences have borne witness to the popularity of William Bourne's long-tried play. The scene showing the convicts at work in the quarries, the escape in the bog, the realism of the goods waggon in the cutting, and the subsequent railway smash due to the car being pushed on to the main line by the convict leader, are all successfully carried out under Mr. J. B. Nunn's stage direction by Mr. William Anderson's company.

"NO MOTHER TO GUIDE HER."

On Saturday evening next a George Marlow Company will open a new season at the Adelphi Theatre with Nita Rae's drama, "No Mother to Guide Her," dealing with the life of a London waif, Nan, whose mother has handed the girl over to the care of a burglar. First appearances at the Adelphi will include Messrs. Cyril Mackay, Herbert Leigh, Frank Neil, and Miss Alma Phillips. Favourites to reappear will be Misses Ethel Buckley (as Nan), Nellie Ferguson, and Mr. John P. O'Neill. The plan will open at Nicholson's on Tuesday morning next.

A George Marlow Company leaves by the Ulimaroa to-day for Wellington, where a five months' tour of the Dominion will be undertaken with "Night Side of London" and "Girl Who Took the Wrong Turning" as the chief pieces.

NATIONAL AMPHITHEATRE.

The usual weekly change of programme will be submitted at to-day's matinee at the National Amphitheatre, when the Leopold Sisters, acrobats and chair balancers, Amo and Ano, who introduce clever wire walking and dainty singing in a humorous sketch, and Margaret Corby, operatic soprano, will make first appearances; and Carl Prinz's monkeys, including Koppenik, the sharp-shooting ape, will commence a short farewell season. The Stagpooles will introduce a new potted pantomime, and the Decars and Tomato, Max Duffek, Hart and Kenny, Ruby Tointon, Percy Dalton, Lily Moore, and Black and Bronte will also appear.

SYDNEY SYMPHONY MATINEE.

The third concert of the Sydney Symphony Orchestra's 1913 season will be given at the Town Hall this afternoon at 3, when three eminent artists will assist. Mr. David Bispham will make an appearance with the orchestra in "Pogner's Address," from the "Meistersingers," and "O, Star of Eve," from "Tannhauser." Mr. F. Barron Morley will make his farewell appearance in Sydney with orchestra as solo pianist in the Tchaikowsky "Concerto in B flat Minor," and Mr. Walter Handel Thorley, the celebrated English musician and composer, will conduct the performance of his own "Macbeth" symphony. In addition, the orchestra will perform Beethoven's "Pastoral" symphony and the "Procession of the Gods" ("Das Rheingold"). The plan is heavily booked at Nicholson's.

ROYAL PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

The Royal Philharmonic Society of Sydney will open their concert at the Town Hall on Thursday evening next with Sullivan's "Overture in C," after which the orchestra and chorus, comprising 400 performers, will render for the first time in Australia the Grail Scene, which closes the first act of Wagner's sacred music-drama, "Parsifal." This will be followed by another great sacred work under Mr. Joseph Bradley's baton, namely, Brahms' "German Requiem," the solos in which will be rendered by Miss Rita Lyons and Mr. George Whitehead. The plan is at Paling's.

NORDICA'S FIRST FEE.

One of the best paid singers in the world is Mme. Lillian Nordica, who will give her first concert in Australia at the Sydney Town Hall on Thursday, July 24. On one occasion, Nordica received a fee of £700 for a concert of an hour's duration at Washington, the national capital of the United States. The diva's first fee, however, was not for singing, but for consenting not to sing. As a little girl at her home in New England, she used to love to try her voice at all times, and much to the annoyance of her older sisters, of whom there were five, would persist in joining in with them whenever they sang duets together. So in order to silence the future diva, bribery was resorted to, and she was given some money on condition that she promised to keep quiet.

MADAME CLARA BUTT.

Madame Clara Butt and Mr. Kennerley Rumford, whose season has just closed, will leave for Queensland on Monday; but owing to the great success of the season, Messrs. J. and N. Tait have been able to arrange for one concert to be given when the party are on their way to Melbourne after the Queensland tour. The date fixed for the concert here is August 9th.

MR. GEORGE S. HOLBURN.

Mr. George S. Holburn, the well-known concert manager, has joined the Frederic Shipman management, and in this way will be associated with the tours of the following great artists: David Bispham, Madame Nordica, Madame Schumann-Heink, and Mischa Elman. Mr. Holburn leaves Sydney right away on tour, and during his absence his concert direction business will be managed by Mr. Spencer Woodham, who is already favourably known.

MISS MILLIE GALLAGHER'S CONCERT.

The complimentary concert to Miss Millie Gallagher will be given in St. James' Hall to-night. The artists will be Misses Leah Myers, Daisy Sweet, Kathleen O'Brien, Hilda Thorndyke, Messrs. Sid Macdonald, Charles Schmidt, Harry Thomas, Herbert Ratcliffe, H. Arthur Haigh, and Charles Phillip, so that an attractive programme is assured. The plan is now open at Paling's.

THE FRANK HUTCHENS CONCERT.

Mr. Frank Hutchens' pianoforte recital at the Repertory Theatre on Monday evening is arousing considerable interest. A feature of the recital will be Cesar Franck's great "Prelude, Chorale et Fugue," and the programme will include pieces by Liszt, Chopin, Ravel, and Poldini.

Miss Rita Lyons, the New Zealand soprano, will be the assisting artist. Invitations can be obtained at Paling's, where seats can also be reserved.

THE WALTER BENTLEY PLAYERS.

At the Walter Bentley Players' monthly recital at St. James's Hall next Thursday, an attractive programme will include a scene from the "Taming of the Shrew," an interlude entitled "My Son and I," the balcony scene from "Romeo and Juliet," a scene from "The School for Scandal" (Mr. Bentley as Sir Peter Teazle), the last act from "The Lady of Lyons," and the sketch, "The Bishop's Conscience." The Sydney Amateur Orchestra will assist. The plan is at the studio, 301A Pitt-street, opp. Criterion Theatre.

"A MOORISH MAID" OPERA SEASON.

A season of eight performances of the romantic comic opera, "A Moorish Maid," by Alfred Hill, will be staged, commencing Friday night next, at the Repertory Theatre, in aid of a fund to equip the theatre for the repertory season, shortly to be inaugurated. An excellent cast has been formed, including Miss Muriel Barton as "La Zara," Miss Marcia Boulais as "The Moorish Maid," and Miss Rosa Browne as "Zuleika." There will be a varied cast on the Monday and Tuesday nights, but in both Mr. Frederick Asmussen will appear as "Prince Omar" (tenor), and Miss Eva Pitt, a soubrette soprano, as "May," with Mr. Jack Walsh as stage director, and Mr. Alfred Hill as conductor of a strong chorus and orchestra. The plans are at Nicholson's.

RETURN OF HERR GREDER.

By the Sonoma arrived here from San Francisco Herr Emil Greder, the well-known German operatic baritone, who will be remembered here as Mephisto and in other important roles, and as stage director of George Musgrove's and John Wren's Australian opera companies. Herr Greder is accompanied by his wife, Mme. Rubie Greder, better known in Sydney musical circles by her maiden name, Rubie Falkner, who has recently toured the United States and Canada. Both artists intend settling here, and will duly appear in public.

A CLEVER AUSTRALIAN.

Miss Esther Mitchell, a clever young actress from the Bertram Flohm studio, who successfully played "Granny Tyl" in the "Blue Bird" on tour, and subsequently appeared in small parts with the Niblo and Oscar Asche companies, has entered into a lengthy contract with the latter manager to appear in South Africa, London, and America.

MR. ELLIS PRICE'S RECITAL.

Under the direction of Mr. Walter Bentley, at the Concordia Hall, July 19, Mr. Ellis Price will give one of his popular dramatic and musical evenings, assisted by Miss Rita Lyons, Mr. H. Ratcliffe, Mlle. Juzia, and others. The box plan is at Nicholson's.

"BERTRAM FLOHM" PLAYERS.

The Bertram Flohm Comedy Club will present scenes from "King John" and "The Three Musketeers," also several comediettas, playlets, and cowboy sketches, at St. James's Hall, on Tuesday, July 22. Mr. Charles Walsh will assist as stage director. Advance booking at the Bertram Flohm Studio. Plan opens at Paling's on Tuesday next.

MRS. WALTER E. BAKER'S BENEFIT.

Mrs. Walter E. Baker's complimentary concert, originally fixed for July 18 at Concordia Hall, has been postponed until Thursday, July 24. With the assistance of leading artists, an attractive entertainment will then be given at St. James's Hall.

NATIONAL.—HOWARD-LEAR BENEFIT.

On Thursday next a mammoth benefit entertainment will be given to Tim Howard and Hugo Lear at the National Amphitheatre, when Messrs. Brennan and Fuller, and J. C. Bain, will assist towards organising a bill with 16 endmen, 60 voices, and leading artists from various theatres. The Decars and Tomato, the Four Stagpooles, Amo and Ano, Mr. Post Mason, Stampeni, Miss Nellie Kolle, the Four Rodgers, Jack West, the Prince Parr Trio, Walter Bartlett, and many other artists will appear. Mr. George Sollie is hon. secretary. The plan is now open at the National.

MR. JOHN C. FAY'S RECITAL.

Mr. John Carlton Fay, a brilliant pianist, will make a welcome reappearance in the Y.M.C.A. Hall on Wednesday, July 23rd, after a busy season in Europe. Mr. Fay intends to introduce some new and interesting compositions at the above recital. The plan and tickets will be at Nicholson's this morning.

THE ALICE HARKER RECITAL.

Miss Alice L. Harker's students will be heard in a vocal recital at the Concordia Hall on Monday, July 28, at 8 p.m. Miss Dorothy Nall and Mr. Clifton Hardaker will be the assisting artists. The plan and invitations will be at Paling's as notified.

AUSTRAL STRING QUARTET.

The third concert of the Austral String Quartet's present season will be given in the Y.M.C.A. Hall on Tuesday, July 29, at 8 p.m. Mr. Cyril Monk, the musical director, has made arrangements for the farewell appearance of Mr. F. Barron Morley at the concert, and the famous "Cesar Franck Quintet" will be played. There will also be a first performance of Mr. Arundel Orchard's new quintet.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.

There will be an entire change of artists at the Alhambra at the matinee this afternoon, when an excellent programme will be presented by Mr. Harry Harrington. The newcomers include The Brakes, Lieut. Stoff, Max Martin, Jessie Lee, H. Carrington, Clair Henderson, Lewis Trio, and Will Washington.

THE BISPHAM FAREWELL.

This evening, at the Town Hall, Mr. David Bispham will bid farewell to Sydney in an all-English request programme, wherein many favourite arias and ballads, in which the great baritone has already endeared himself to our audiences, will be presented for the last time. Handel's "O Ruddier Than the Cherry," Mendelssohn's "It is Enough" and "I'm a Roamer," Beethoven's "Creation's Hymn," "The Two Grenadiers," "When I was Page" from "Falstaffe," the prologue from "I Pagliacci," Harriet Ware's tender little "Boat Song" and several old ballads, will be included. The future movements of the great singer after his Australian tour under Mr. Fred Shipman's management is completed are referred to in our "Music and Drama" column.

Last night's operatic concert was thoroughly enjoyed, and Mr. Bispham, who was in splendid voice, was repeatedly called upon for extra numbers. The song in which the Fat Knight recalls the youthful hours "When I Was Page," "nimble and slender," was applauded so insistently that the artist repeated it; and after the "Toreador's Song" from "Carmen" he added "The Erl King." His finest efforts were "Woo Thou, Thy Snowflake" from Sullivan's "Ivanhoe," in which his passionate declamation moved the audience, and the "Pagliacci" prologue, in which the great voice was heard to noble advantage. Mr. Bispham pleasantly explained his association with the "Bohemian Club High Jinks" (San Francisco) in the beautiful redwood forests, where an annual festival is held at which various new music-dramas are produced. From one of these, "The Cave Man," by W. J. M'Coy, Mr. Bispham sang "The Flint Song," in which the inventor of a flint axe finds himself lord of man and beast, and creator of fire. The strangely, weirdly dramatic music was rendered with tragic harshness and intensity of tone, whilst the singer's movements suggested the striking of sparks from the flint. The contribution proved highly interesting. In the Wagner section the excerpts from "The Flying Dutchman" and "Tannhauser" were omitted, and a second air from "The Meistersingers" was added, whilst "Valentine's Song" was substituted for "Dio dell' Or" in Gounod's "Faust." The why and wherefore of these changes was confidentially explained by the entertainer, who was on the best of terms with his audience. Mr. Harry Gilbert's wonderfully clever performance of Leschetizky's arrangement for left hand only of a paraphrase on the sextette in "Lucia" excited renewed enthusiasm, and the pianist then responded with the same composer's "Arabesque."

THE BOYS' BRIGADE.

The annual ball in aid of the funds of the Boys' Brigade will be held on Wednesday next at the Town Hall. Funds are urgently required this year to reduce the debt on the new headquarters, which were opened in May last, and which have proved such an attraction to the boys.

BOXING.

MEHEGAN v HOLBERG.

The Australian lightweight champion, Hughie Mehegan, will to-night enter upon his first contest since his return from England, at the Sydney Stadium. His opponent will be the young Dane, Waldemar Holberg, who has performed well in England, and whose defeat of Jack Ward, of Gloucester, gave him the right to be considered the best lightweight in the old country, barring the two top-notchers Fred Welsh and Matt Wells. Jack Ward, who, by the way, is coming to Australia shortly, made a good showing against Mehegan for 20 rounds, and, as Holberg knocked Ward out in quick order, to-night's match promises well. Both men will enter the ring weighing under 10st.

HOCKEY ON THE ICE.

The Corinthians defeated the Wanderers by 4 goals to 3 at the Glaciarium on Thursday night. Next Thursday's match is between the Wanderers and Ottawas.

WONDERFUL FIGURES.

Even in this era of ever-broken records, the figures of the 11-h.p. Humber, established last month at Brooklands, cannot but attract attention. The little car is owned by Mr. Tuck, and goes faster than many far larger cars. On May 15, following up his Brooklands successes, Mr. Tuck went for records, and raised the figures for the class a good many miles an hour in proportion. For the flying half-mile he did 81.56 m.p.h. against 75.60; for the kilometre, 81.52 m.p.h. against 75.49; for the mile, 80.79 m.p.h. against 74.29, and for the ten laps, with a standing start, 76.45 m.p.h., against the previous figures of 66.78.

THIS IS MERELY SOME INDICATION OF
FOR THEIR LASTING QUALITIES, "ASK THE OWNERS." FOR SILENCE, SWEETNESS, AND FINISH, HUMBERS SPEAK FOR THEMSELVES.
The 11-h.p. is the very best value for money on the Australian Market, BAR NONE.
The "HUMBERETTE" is the economical Runabout Miniature Car. Come and inspect.

THE "AUSTIN" SERVICE.

EFFICIENCY PLUS ECONOMY.

After all the real test of a car's value to its owner is to be looked for in the service it will give not only when it is new but first, last, and all the time. The thoroughness of the "Austin" workmanship costs the Manufacturers more money, of course, but the difference comes back to the owners of these cars over and over again in the savings of upkeep, tyre expense, overhauling charges, etc. After thousands of miles of hard usage on the road the "AUSTIN" will continue to answer the Driver's calls quietly, quickly, easily. On the steepest hills, in the crowded thoroughfares the "AUSTIN" moves so silently that you are unaware of the mechanical power that propels it.

10 : 15 : 18/24 H.P.

Features deserving special mention are the radiator and cool-running engine, low petrol consumption, the simplicity of control, three-quarter elliptical and front semi-elliptical springs, giving maximum comfort, and making the suspension of the car even on the roughest roads highly satisfactory. The four-cylinders are cast separately, and are very accessible. Full "Austin" information posted free on request. Demonstrations will be arranged.

We are sole Agents for the "AUTOVOX" Motor Horn.

SERVICE—AS APPLIED TO A MOTOR CYCLE.

This is a much-talked-of subject—everybody discusses it. Some are specific, some only suggest what it might be. Nevertheless we believe that no man, however experienced, can tell what service a machine will render. Because no two riders operate their machines alike, and so two machines are called upon to render the same service. Then how can a man be sure of buying the right machine? By choosing the one that is recognised as being able to give the greatest amount of service? Undoubtedly. Thus he is led to choose

THE 3½ "SPEEDWELL" MOTOR CYCLE.

For this machine has been built with a sufficient allowance to take care of the average demand upon it.

The 3½ "Speedwell" is all that any Motor Cycle at any price can be—in performance, comfort, and value.

Backed by our own service, you will find in it as near an approach to ideal Motor Cycle satisfaction as is known anywhere.

It is strong and speedy, and thoroughly reliable under all circumstances.

Call and see it at our Showrooms. We shall be pleased to discuss it with you and go into details. Free Catalogue on request.

WE REMAIN OPEN TILL 9 P.M., FRIDAYS.

JARROTT CUP.

Competition gives still further proof that the "DOUGLAS" is the Superior Machine, it gained the three first places as follow:—

1st—G. W. MOFFAT .... WINNER OF THE CUP.
2nd—P. PHILLIPS .... SPECIAL PRIZE.
3rd—W. B. GIBB .... GOLD MEDAL.
8th—F. G. BALL .... GOLD MEDAL.

The MOTOR CYCLE says:—"Particular mention must be made of the remarkable performance of the "Douglas" team, for it is by no means a usual occurrence for three machines of the same make to carry off the three first awards in an important trial of this kind."

The local demand for "Douglas" Motor Cycles is increasing more than ever. We landed 9 on the R.M.S. Osterley last week; they are all sold now; and in about four weeks, per R.M.S. Orsova, we are landing 21 machines. Out of these we have already booked 10. Book now to secure a "Douglas" for this season.

MOTOR CYCLING AT ITS BEST.

You know Motor Cycling at its best when you're astride a "Triumph." You ride along in perfect comfort, because the "Triumph" is fitted with patent spring forks that prevent road shock from reaching you. And all the time your mind is free from any fear of breakdown, for the "Triumph's" reliability has made that almost a thing of the old days.

Another point is the simple control—it's so easy to master, that it is almost unconsciously altered to suit the varying roads, or your pleasure. As for speed—well, the "Triumph" will pass anything on hill or level—a fact proved time after time in competition.

You should get full particulars of the "Triumph" before deciding on a mount. Suppose you come to our showrooms and have everything explained. The knowledge you gain will be worth having, and will not place you under any obligation. Write now for a free copy of our Illustrated Catalogue.

PALMER CORD TYRES FOR SERVICE!

THE FEATURES THAT ENSURE THEIR ENDURANCE!

PALMER CORD TYRES.

Palmer Cord Tyres are built differently to any other tyres—the differences in construction are the points in their favour.
There is no canvas used; they have a foundation of impregnated rubber cords, and they are specially strengthened at the bead.
The catalogue explains and illustrates the sectional construction, and proves why these features make the tyres resistant of wear, puncture, moisture, and internal friction.
Palmer Cord Tyres hold several world's speed records, established under conditions to which no other tyres could conform.
If you are interested in tyre economy, write for the Catalogues.

THE BEST ADVERTISEMENT.

A SATISFIED OWNER.

Telba Station, Gunnedah, 22/3/13.

Messrs. G. C. Hamilton, Ltd., Elizabeth-street, Sydney.

Dear Sirs,—Having now had my 22/30 Cottin and Desgouttes Car for twelve months, I feel that I should like to let you know what I think of her. During the 12 months she has covered 10,000 miles, one trip alone being 1500 miles in 12 days. During this trip I never lifted the bonnet for any adjustment whatever. Your recent thorough overhaul showed everything in perfect order, your charge being simply for dismantling, examining, and reassembling, the replacements being limited to a magneto contact lever and a small tappet part. She is very light on tyres, as my average mileage is 5000 miles per cover, and one of the original Michelin covers on the car did 8400. My petrol consumption averages about 18 miles to the gallon, and she is also very economical with lubricating oil. She is very fast, as well as being flexible and easily handled in traffic on top speed. I have yet to know what it is to have an involuntary stop on the road, and I have tested the car over some of the worst roads and hills in the State. I took her as an unknown car, it being the first one you imported, and am pleased to say my first impressions have been more than justified. I feel I could not buy a better Car, and think that you could not have a better recommendation for these cars than the fact that my brother purchased a 12/16 Cottin and Desgouttes from you a few months ago. I am, yours sincerely, (Signed) NEVILLE READ.

"OVERLANDS" IN ACTUAL USE.

Mr. A. J. Cotton is high authority, having a long experience with different cars. This unsolicited letter is the best testimonial any car could have in Australia:—

"Dear Sirs,—I promised to let you know how I liked the Overland which I purchased from you.

"It has turned out beyond my expectations. I have just completed a journey of 2506 miles, registered by the Speedometer, starting from the Cloncurry district, round by Burketown, and Camooweal, across into the Northern Territory, 250 miles, and back to Longreach, via Boulia, Urandangie, and Winton.

"The Radiator did not boil once, and we have had no trouble whatever, although travelling all kinds of roads.

"No sand creeks required any but her own power to negotiate easily.

"Please ship me another 30-h.p. Single-seater on the Kyarra to Bowen to-morrow.

"You are at liberty to make use of this if you wish. Yours faithfully,
"(Signed), A. J. COTTON."

CLEMENT-BAYARD CARS.

There is no car with a better reputation for Reliability and low running costs under the most severe conditions.

A CAR FOR AUSTRALIAN USE MUST BE AS LIGHT AS POSSIBLE, CONSISTENT WITH THE STRENGTH REQUIRED.

A LIGHT CAR is economical on petrol and tyres, and will not bog easily on heavy roads.
A HEAVY CAR is expensive to run, and is useless on boggy roads.

WHY WASTE MONEY ON PETROL AND TYRES

with a heavy car.

In addition to being light cars, Clement-Bayards are scientifically sprung to reduce tyre wear, and to add to their comfort on rough roads.

We have the following models in stock, ready for instant delivery, all fitted with first-class bodywork.

REO THE FIFTH, KING OF AMERICAN CARS.

THE MOTOR WITH THE STRONG BACK AXLE AND GEAR-BOX.

The Hornsby Motor Garage writes, June 18th, 1913:—"On May 14th I journeyed to Barrenjoey from Hornsby, and back to Beecroft. A terrific gale was blowing the whole of the time; you will remember that was by far the worst day this year. The REO was the only car on the road, so the residents tell me. My client, Mr. Little, did not expect me to come for him, being of the opinion that no car could ever reach him in weather like that. That day the Manly Baths were wrecked, and other damage done at seaside resorts, as well as inland, telegraph posts down, etc. Nothing but bad weather has prevailed since that date, and my REO has run continuously day and night, through all this bad weather, no time having been lost. I cannot speak too highly of this car, and trust to have more of them."

REO THE FIFTH,

THE MODERATE-PRICED CAR with the strong backaxle and gear-box, is fitted with ELECTRIC GENERATING PLANT AND SELF STARTER.

This gives the "King of American Cars" the last touch to an already perfect article. Users are unanimous in their praise of this moderate-priced car. None of these Motors so far sold by us have to date required any replacements. Under the most trying circumstances, as pleasure vehicles and money earners in town, and hundreds of miles back in the never-never land, they are giving every satisfaction.

THIS IS A TALK TO THE MAN WHO USES WOODWORKING MACHINERY.

It's just a little heart to heart chat between us. A little talk that may make it easier for you to come to us with your problems, and ask the help of our experts.

Let us be candid to clear the ground. We want to sell you some machinery. Now let us go further. We will want to keep on selling you machinery for some time—right until your plant is as up-to-date as it can be.

Next we will want you to recommend us to others, who may want our services—not perhaps in the same line as yourselves.

This being so, do you think it is likely that we would take any risks of putting off inferior goods to you? Do you think we would dare risk your friendship and goodwill by recommending machinery that would not pay you to instal? The only lines we offer have our sincere recommendation. We know their worth as profit producers. We know you will readily see their value to you once you investigate them.

T. AND R. LEES' WOODWORKING MACHINERY.

That's one of our Agencies. You know how Lees' keep abreast of the times with modern machines that cut the pace and do the highest grade work.

DEFIANCE MACHINERY.

That's another agency we hold, and we're proud of it. You can rely on Defiance Machines being perfect whatever angle you view it. Just ask our man to get in touch with you. That costs nothing, and you'll appreciate what he has to say.

IF YOU ARE GOING TO BUILD A NEW HOME, or remodel the old one, you cannot be fair to yourself without thoroughly investigating SPRIGGS' ASBESTOS SHEETS AND SLATES. The eminent qualities of our Sheets and Slates are not solely the result of the mixture of Asbestos to the Cement, but to the enormous amount of Asbestos Fibre (25 layers alone in our 5/32in thickness Sheets), together with the great pressure to which the Slabs are subjected, so that the Asbestos Fibre becomes closely united with the Cement, and produces in the hardened Sheets and Slates the same result as of Iron in armed Cement, virtually reinforced concrete, in sheet and slate form. Our Sheets absolutely free from Lime. DOUBLE COMPRESSED Sheets a speciality. Slates thickest made. Write or call for a pamphlet, showing photographs of exterior and interior views. Numerous testimonials. F. A. SPRIGGS, Direct Importer. Sydney Agents: E. R. Spriggs and Co., 39 Goulburn-street, Sydney. 'Phone, City 3391. Large Stocks at Sydney, Newcastle, Katoomba.

SUPERFLUOUS HAIRS

A GENUINE REMEDY

BY DANNEBROG.

Hundreds of so-called remedies for Superfluous Hairs have been offered to afflicted women, but only Dannebrog, a Danish Remedy, has stood the test of time, and it is remarkable also how many cases previously treated by electrical methods come to Dannebrog Institute, and are very successfully attended by Madame Frokjar, of the Royal Massage College, Copenhagen, and her staff of skilled operators. Success is shown in each case before payment on easy terms is arranged. Madame Frokjar places all her experience at the service of her clients, and holds herself fortunate that in nine years of testing her remedy she had relieved hundreds of women of annoying and disfiguring hairs. Dannebrog is now operating in the principal cities of the Commonwealth, and talented women who have tested it state that there is no better remedy, or one more pleasant, and, at the same time, destructive in its effects. Country clients treated by post.

HAPHAZARD METHODS WON'T CURE YOUR HAIR TROUBLE.

If you had Influenza, Headache, or Smallpox, would you take a dose from the first medicine bottle you could lay hands on?
No! Because you know that each of these maladies requires distinct treatment. Similarly, each of the many scalp diseases requires special treatment, and you cannot expect to improve your hair by the haphazard use of tonics.

YOU MUST HAVE INDIVIDUAL EXPERT TREATMENT.

I am a hair specialist, and because I have made a study of the hair and scalp, I am able to trace the cause of your trouble and prescribe an effective remedy.
By this means I feel confident of being able to greatly improve your hair.
If possible, call at my rooms and see me personally. If unable to do this, post a fresh combing of your hair, giving full particulars and enclose 3d stamps for reply.
I personally attend to all inquiries by post, and you may rest assured of receiving prompt, expert attention. Individual home treatment is my specialty.

CONSULTATION IS FREE, AND PLACES YOU UNDER NO OBLIGATION.

Obtain my advice at once before the trouble becomes too serious.

I CAN REMOVE SUPERFLUOUS HAIRS

By means of Electrolysis I guarantee to remove all Superfluous Hairs and Moles painlessly and effectively.
Try this treatment. It is the only reliable method known to medical Science.

IMPROVE YOUR COMPLEXION.

My Course of Face Massage has a most beneficial effect on the skin. It makes it clear and healthy in appearance, and is most refreshing.
Consult me personally or by post. My fees are moderate and easily within your reach.

HAIR ON FACE AND ARMS CURED BY SAVARENA.

How often are faultless features marred by annoying growths of superfluous hair; how to remove these blemishes has caused much anxiety and unhappiness to ladies who study their personal appearance. Some have tried other painful processes, which so often leave the face perforated; there small holes become clogged, hence Blackheads, Pimples, etc. Then there is the dangerous depilatory which only burns off the hair, sometimes the skin too.
Scientific Research has at last devised the SAVARENA METHOD, which entirely supersedes all others. The coarsest hair, or finest down, can be removed painlessly. The roots positively destroyed without injury to the most sensitive skin. Do not hesitate to call or write. I give to each client my personal attention and supervision. Country Clients Treated by Post.

SAVARENA MASSAGE TREATMENT restores the glow of health by stimulating the sluggish circulation, removes wrinkles, double chins, and all imperfections from the skin.
Free Trial. Moderate Fees. Weekly payments may be arranged.

McCATHIES' SALE

HAS SET ALL SYDNEY BUYING.

EVERY WOMAN WHO CRAVES BEAUTY,

and in whose heart rankles the bitterness of fading charm, should cherish the certainty that by the aid of Mme. Rubinstein's "Valaze" the sinking, flaccid tissues grow more robust and firm, the wrinkles become fainter; the muddy, drab, freckled, weather-beaten skin becomes clear, smooth, and lustrous; the cheeks gain in succulence, colour, and beauty.

EVERY WOMAN WHO HAS BEAUTY should take comforting thought that Mme. Rubinstein's "Valaze" possesses the inestimable quality of preventing the self-same imperfections that it removes.

EVERY WOMAN WHO HAS GAINED BEAUTY, thankful and appreciative, gives Mme. Rubinstein's "Valaze" the place of honour on her dressing table, which is no more than distinction that "Valaze" has earned. The price of Valaze is 3/6 and 6/6 a jar, postage 6d.

Because Valaze does not pose as a cure-all, Mme. Rubinstein recommends the following exclusive preparations:—Novena Cerate, an emollient skin cleanser without the use of soap and water, soothes, cleanses, softens, whitens, and preserves the skin. It allays all irritation, and should be used when the skin is delicate and sensitive or intolerant of soap and water. Price, 3/10, posted.
Valaze Complexion Powder, an absorbent powder for greasy, over-moist skins; and Novena Poudre, for dry and normal skins; each in three tints, 2/, 3/, and 5/ a box, postage 3d. Of Liquid Powders, there is Valaze Snow Lotion, a superb Viennese preparation, which cools, refreshes, whitens, and preserves the skin, and imparts that dull ivory finish that is so much sought after. Price, 3/6, postage 6d.
Novena Hair Destroyer instantly removes the hairs without the slightest detriment to the complexion. It is safe and pleasant to use, and leaves a delightfully cool sensation, which is so different to the usual effect of other depilatories. Price, 5/6, postage 6d. Another preparation which will be found of great benefit when used in conjunction with the Novena Hair Destroyer is Novena Pasta. It should be applied after the Hair Destroyer has been removed, as it soothes, softens, whitens, and preserves the skin. Price, 3/10, posted.
Valaze Preparations, obtainable from all Chemists, or direct from Helena Rubinstein Prop., Ltd., Dept D., 158 Pitt-street, Sydney, or 274 Collins-street, Melbourne.

READ THE REASON WHY YOU CANNOT SUCCEED TO REMOVE YOUR

by any chemical application, which will penetrate deeply to destroy the hair papilla, and must of necessity destroy the skin as well. But, if this be not destroyed,

THE HAIR IS BOUND TO GROW AGAIN.

THE WRONG METHODS

employed for removing Superfluous Hairs have a double effect—THEY STIMULATE the growth of the existing hairs, making it increase in size and depth of root, and they irritate the skin. The following are the principal wrong methods always to be avoided or advised against:—

USE OF FORCEPS, PUMICESTONE, THE RAZOR, CAUSTICS THAT SHAVE CLOSER THAN A RAZOR, SINGEING OFF BY CANDLE.

WHOLESALE DEPILATION, BY ADHESIVE PLASTER OR WAX.

All of these are painful, and of no permanent value. THERE IS

and that way I will demonstrate to you if you will call upon me when in town, and you can have, a few hairs removed to convince yourself. Then wait a few weeks to see there is not any re-growth.

FREE OF CHARGE,

MOLES CONTAINING HAIRS
